ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is really a great privilege for me to have Dr. T. Lawma, Reader, Department of Economics, North-Eastern Hill University, Shillong, as my supervisor. He has not only given me an invaluable guidance and supervision, but also enlightened me to this field of study. Right from the beginning to the end of my research work his untiring help and creative counsel are a source of encouragement without which this work would not have been materialized.

I am immensely indebted to Professor K. Bez, Head of the Department of Economics, for his encouragement and keen interest in my work.

I am also thankful to the staff and office workers of the departments concerned, Government of Mizoram, where I received the necessary data.

My grateful thanks are also due to Mr. Godfrey who has taken all the troubles in typing out this dissertation, and to Mrs. B. Sarma for her help during the tenure of this study.

I am deeply indebted to my beloved parents, brothers and sisters for their support and encouragement, and not only this, they had to bear all the problems and troubles throughout the period of my study. I also express my sincere thanks to my friends and well-wishers from whom I drew inspirations.

Financial assistance from the Department of Higher and Technical Education, Government of Mizoram, is also gratefully acknowledged.

November 23, 1990

(Ch. Lalnuntluanga)