ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First of all, I would like to take this opportunity to express my deepest gratitude to my supervisor, Dr Ishrat Alam, for his invaluable suggestions, stimulating discussions and comments which simplified this research work and would also like to thank him because inspite of his very hectic schedule he was able to devote his valuable time to guide me throughout my research period.

I am truly indebted to Professor Irfan Habib (Professor Emeritus, History) for his invaluable suggestions and in-depth insights on many topics and my primary sources that helped me in evolving a better understanding of several aspects of my work.

I wish to express my gratitude to my teacher Professor Shireen Moosvi, for her constant encouragement, suggestions and comments and also was kind enough to lend her books necessary for the basic understanding of my topic.

I am also thankful my colleagues and friends Aziz Faisal, Habib Manzer, Naushad Ali, Mohammad Arshad, Javed Naseem, Fareed Ahmed, Md Zabiullah, Shahbaaz Shams, Dr. Suhail Ahmad Khan, Dr Asib Parvez and my childhood friend Ather Ali, and all my well-wishers for all their emotional and moral support and constant encouragements.

My thanks are also due to the Indian Council for Historical Research (ICHR), New Delhi, for the Junior Research Fellowship and UGC General Fellowship which encouraged me and made it possible to complete the thesis work smoothly.

I am also thankful to staffs of Seminar Library, Centre of Advanced Study, Department of History, and Maulana Azad Library, AMU, Aligarh, National Archives, Sharam Shakti Bhawan, Library, Ratan Tata library, Central library of Jawahar Lal Nehru University, New Delhi, West Bengal State Archives and National Library, Kolkata, Directorate General Of Mines Safety, Library, Dhanbad, for their ardent and constant care to respond to my requisition.

My words fail me to express my deepest gratitude toward my most loving and caring father and my mother for taking countless pain but still their every words and prayers were always meant for my success and their constant encouragements were always pillar of my strength. I would also like to thank my sisters Afreen Shahnaaz, Shabnam Shahnaaz, Shagufta Parveen, and their caring husbands, Abul bhai, Nazrul bhai, Faiyaz Bhai, and my loving Rizwana, Shahid, Gazala, Taushif, Naaz for their constant love and affection. And thanks are due to my youngest sister Zakra Nikhat and her husband Shamim bhai, who besides their love and affection also turned out to be my gracious host in Kolkata, during my material collection.

No words can express my sincere heartfelt gratitude for my friend Nazer Aziz and my caring bhabi, Mrs Nuzhat Aziz, and their children Sumi and Aamish, for their selfless love and affection and for their constant encouragement and help throughout this period.
