Words often fail to express one’s inner feelings of gratitude and indebtedness to one’s benefactors, but then it is the only readily available medium through which the undersigned can express his sincere thanks to all those who are associated with the work in one way or the other.

I take this opportunity to express my heartfelt and sincere gratitude to the department of Anaesthesiology, J N M C H, Aligarh for it is my ALMA MATER which has made me what I am and will in future continue to inspire my thoughts and deeds in every walk of life.

I have been privileged to work both as a post graduate student and as a teacher under the guidance of Prof. Shahjahan Bano, Chairman. Department of Anaesthesiology, J N M C H, A M U, Aligarh who by her astute clinical sense, profound depth of knowledge and an undying sense of dedication based on sincere and sheer hard work has inspired me. Her unstinted support and constant encouragement were instrumental in bringing this work to the present shape. Setting a realistic vision, creating an academic environment in the department, blending kind, generous attitude and strict discipline towards students and teachers, are her adorable preaching that I have been privileged to imbibe to chisel my career as a teacher. I take this opportunity to convey my sincere gratitude to her from the core of my heart.

Learning is a continuous process and research is an integral part of knowledge. Mere learning from books limits one's spectrum of thoughts. These are the invaluable teaching I could emulate from my Co-supervisor Prof. Bilqees Bano, Chairman, Department of Biochemistry, Faculty of Life Sciences, AMU, Aligarh. It was only because of her constant inspiration and confidence in me that I could think of this project. Her rich research experience, innovative ideas and constructive criticism was mandatory to shape my thoughts into reality. Words are inadequate to express my sincerest thanks and debt towards her.

Department simulates a house with a family where students are nurtured and enlightened with knowledge imparted by seniors so as to face the future challenges in professional life. It's the cohesive force, constructive attitude and determination that enable this family to cross milestones. Our department is a classical example of such a family. I am honored to be nurtured within this family by the legends, Prof. TZ Khan, Prof A Shakoor, Late Dr M Asghar, Prof MMH Siddiqui and experts, Prof S Haleem, Prof A Quadir, and Dr SN Jamil. I am thankful to all of them for their contribution in my professional career.

'Mentor', is the right word that can be coined for Prof. Rashid M Khan, Senior Consultant, Khoula Trauma Center, Muscat, Oman, Padmashree Dr B K Rao, Chairman, Dept. of Critical Care Medicine and Emergency Services, Sir Ganga Ram Hospital, New Delhi, and Dr N Rungta, President, Critical Care & Trauma Hospital-cum-Training & Research Institute, Jaipur. Dr Abhiram Mallik, Consultant & Incharge ICU, LGI, Leeds Teaching University Hospital, United Kingdom. They are personalities with whom every student and teacher would be honored to associate. They have been hard task masters for which I am thankful to them as it is their sense of “do it now and do everything simultaneously” which has helped me immensely. They also have been a friend throughout, always caring and loving but at the same time being unflattering and strict. I thank them for being my friend, philosopher and guide and ask for their blessings to carry on in my future quest.
Colleagues with like mind, positive thinking and supportive attitude make the work place conducive and enjoyable. I am privileged to have such dynamic and cooperative colleagues, Dr Q Ehsan Ali (Associate Professor), Dr H Usmani, Dr S Hussain Amir, Dr Abu Nadeem, Dr. Farah Nasreen, Dr Obaid Siddiqui, Dr S Kamran Habib (Assistant Professors). It was because of their unity and enthusiasm we could overcome many hurdles easily and achieve our mission.

Any research would primarily rest on four pillars. I am honored to acknowledge personalities who stood as the pillars in this study. The matchless clinical acumen of Dr AK Amitava, Professor, Department of Opthalmology, JNMC, was highly instrumental in the statistical analysis of this thesis. The complex world of numbers completely eluded me and without his help I would have never been able to derive conclusive results. No words would be enough to appreciate his contribution. Dr. Medha Priyadarshini, Research Associate, Department of Biochemistry, F/O Life Sciences and a recipient of INSPIRE Fellowship was deeply involved in all the biochemical analysis conducted in this thesis. She was ever ready with answers for all critical issues and was uncompromising in every aspect of this thesis. Without her, this mammoth of work would not have been possible. Finally, my two loving students, Sabih and Shivani, represented literally my two hands. Their participation in my thesis always reminded me that you learn more from your students than you teach them. Their genuine advice during randomization, blinding and data collection in the study helped me strictly follow the research methodology as per the protocol. I convey my sincere thanks to all of them for making such a difficult task simple.

I also take this opportunity to acknowledge the help and support extended by the resident doctors and the office staffs of the department while pursuing my research.

It is needless to say that whatever I am today and become in life, I owe it most to my mother Mrs Hena Ahmed, and father late Mr S Mashkoor Ahmed, who have nurtured and supported me throughout. My salutations to them both who were, are and will continue to be my most endeared teachers all through my life.

It would be unfair on my part if I do not acknowledge the important role played by my brother Mr S Makhluk Ahmed, sister Mrs Rozana Mirza, brother in-laws Dr A Salam Mallick, Mr Shaheed Ahmed and Mr Naimuddin Mirza sister in-laws, Mrs Nurjahan Mallick, Mrs Anwara Ahmed and Mrs Nazma Ahmed, nephews, Dr Shahrukh Mallick, Mr Rukunuddin Mirza, Mr S Mehboob Ahmed, Mr Jawad Ahmed, Mr Yaseen Ahmed and niece, Miss Sarah Mallick and daughter –in –laws, Mrs Zeenat Mirza and Dr Asma Mallick. Their blessings and inspirations are responsible for my professional growth. I remain grateful to all of them and wish to receive their blessings always.

No words are enough for the immense support, encouragement and inspiration provided by my wife, Dr Mrs Salma Ahmed, daughters Maleha, Fahmida and son Misbah. They stood by me like pillars of strength, always willing to make sacrifices with smiling faces despite all odds. They made my dream of pursuing Fellowship and PhD studies come true and now inspire me to dream beyond.
