Contents

Acknowledgements i-ii
List of Tables iii-v
List of Abbreviations vi-vii
List of Maps and Figures viii
Contents ix-xi

Chapter 1: Background 1-13
  1.1: Introduction
  1.2: Changes in Forest Cover at All India Level
  1.3: A Brief Description of Meghalaya
  1.4: Objectives
  1.5: Hypotheses
  1.6: Period of Study
  1.7: Chapterisation

Chapter 2: Review of Literature 14-37
  2.1: Studies at International Level
  2.2: Studies in India and North-East India

Chapter 3: Method of Enquiry and Data 38-47
  3.1: Analysis of Population, Poverty and Changes in Forest
  3.2: Analysis of Primary Data
  3.3: Collection of Data and Limitations

Chapter 4: The Spatio-Temporal Variation of Population in Meghalaya 48-79
  4.1: Introduction
  4.2: Trend of Population in the North Eastern Region
  4.3: Decadal Growth Rate of Population in the North Eastern Region of India
6.5: Ownership Pattern and Management Administration of Forests in Meghalaya
6.6: Joint Forest Management (JFM) in the Context of Forestry in Meghalaya
6.7: Conclusion

Chapter 7: Implication of Changing Forest for the Economy of Meghalaya 132-143
7.1: Introduction
7.2: Spatio-Temporal Changes in Contribution of Forest to the Economy of Meghalaya
7.3: Observation
7.4: Conclusion

Chapter 8: Nature of Relationship Among the Growth of Population, Incidence of Poverty and the Degradation of Forests in Meghalaya 144-189
8.1: Introduction
8.2: A Brief Analysis of Some Earlier Studies on Linkages
8.3: Analysis of Secondary Data
8.4: Analysis of the Linkage on the Basis of Primary Data
8.5: Socio-Economic Profile of Sample Villages
8.6: Regression Result
8.7: Conclusion

Chapter 9: Conclusion and Policy Implication 190-202
9.1: Summary of Findings
9.2: Conclusion and Policy Implication

Select Bibliography 203-212