PERFORMANCE STRUCTURE (PERFORMANCE)

“TORANAYUDDHANKAM” - PERFORMANCE STRUCTURE OF THE THIRD ACT OF ABHISHEKA NATAKA OF BHASA IN THE SANSKRIT DRAMA TRADITION OF KERALA – “KUTIYATTAM”.

★ INTRODUCTION:

• In Kutiyattam, the ‘Performance Structure’ lays stress on the - → Introduction of characters.
  → Elaboration of the details of the story / text.
  → An actor’s individual performance rather than an ensemble playing.

• It means, the Kutiyattam ‘Performance’ -
  → Departs radically (De-emphasizes) from the story / text of the drama.
  → De-emphasizes the notion of the drama as a total, integrated, artistic unit.

• The interpretation and commentary are so complex and detailed that Kutiyattam does not present entire drama in a single night. Only one selected act of the drama is presented at a time; each act of the drama has its own title and is meant to be performed in its own entity. But the mode and style of abhinaya / enacting are so elaborate, expatiatory and digressive that even a short episode or dramatic situation becomes very long piece of acting; even within each scene, a performer may spend upto an hour, illuminating a single line of the text by interpreting and making political and social analogies, exploring emotional associations and telling related stories or peripheral events, thus taking 5 to 35 nights to present even a single act.

- But when only one act is enacted, the presentation of the plot of the drama is left incomplete and truncated, to rectify this defect the Chakyars have invented a device – they add an account of the past life of the important characters of the drama. This addition made to the original text of the drama is called “Nirvahanam”; which is completely the work of the Chakyars; the original author of the drama has nothing to do with it. The characters of most of the dramas are all puranic; so in preparing the “Nirvahanam” Chakyars draw their materials from the puranic sources. Another unique structural feature of Kutiyattam is that it permits several actors to perform the same role on different occasions.

- Before examining the individual elements in detail it may be useful to review the general performance pattern.

| II  | Kutiyattam Proper – The Presentation / Performance of the dramatic text.
Performance of the act of the drama beginning at the point in the text where the characters in the previous day’s procedures left off and continuing all chronological sequence to the end, with all the necessary characters (Actor A, B, C and so on) or their symbolic substitutes appearing on the stage. |
| III | Mutiyakkitta – concluding ceremony / rituals.
Performed by the chief actor of the company |

- Purappadu, Anukarma, Samksepa, Nirvahanam and Mutiyakkitta are ekaharya, mono performances and Kutiyattam is anekaharya, multi-charactered. In addition to the continuous tradition of staging method handed down from generation to generation, there are actual stage manuals giving choreographic details and elaborate instructions regarding the staging of dramas. The manuals laying down definite rules and prescribing modes and methods of presenting even the minute details of the drama, were prepared and written on palm – leaves by Chakyars in the past and they are still carefully preserved by them in their houses. These stage manuals are the – (Illustration: 1)

A. KRAMADIPIKA – PRODUCTION MANUAL:

⇒ It deals with -
→ Order of presentation,
→ The method of production; of the concerned drama.
⇒ It also deals with the costumes of character, the points to be noted when an actor does his role, as well as assumes the roles of various characters, like when he recalls old events, how to connect up such digressions and annotations and descriptions with the story proper, the dance steps to be done at various points, the svara to be used etc. written in Sanskrit, Malayalam, or a mixture of both. Some texts call it ‘Kriyakrama’ also.
B. ATTAPRAKARAM – ACTING MANUAL:

⇒ It deals with -
→ The way of acting to be done.
⇒ The word means ‘the way of acting to be done’. It gives details of the abhinaya to be done which are written in Malayalam. It also gives verses to be used for ‘Nirvahanam’. The way each verse has to be enacted, is given in detail. The mood, the dance steps, the svaras, the tala etc. are mentioned in them. It indicates acting methods, the meaning of passages in the text and is in the form of a continuous, moving story, enabling the actor to expound the text accurately.

➢ “TORANAYUDDHANKAM” - THE THIRD ACT OF ABHISHEKA NATAKA OF BHASA:

❖ INTRODUCTION:

• The play – Abhisheka Natakam depicts the story of Ramayana from the Kishkindhakanda to the Yuddhakanda in 6 acts. Toranayudhankam is the third act of the Abhisheka Natakam, which is one of the most interesting and spectacular performances presented by the Chakyars in Kutiyattam. The characters are –

1. Shankukarna
2. Ravana
3. Vibhishana
4. Hanumana
5. Rakshasas
SYNOPSIS OF THE ACT:

- Hanuman after meeting Sita at Lanka and giving her Rama’s signet ring and all the news, is about to return to Rama. He thinks of a plan to let Ravana know about his visit and destroys the Ashokavanika garden and rests on the top of the Torana – the gate of garden. Shankukarna – the head gardener runs away in fright and informs Ravana who is enraged at it. Coming to know of the complete destruction of the Ashoka garden by Hanumana, Ravana gets furious and orders the monkey to be captured at once. Ravana sends an army of thousand Rakshasas to seize the monkey. Soon news reaches him that the six commanders of that army, including Aksha, have been killed by Hanumana. On hearing this Ravana himself gets ready to encounter Hanumana, but he is stopped from that attempt by the news that Indrajit has already rushed against Hanumana. Indrajit succeeds in overpowering and capturing Hanumana. Ravana orders Vibhishana to bring the captive monkey before him. Vibhishana offers some good advice to Ravana, but the latter only grows angry on hearing the advice and orders Vibhishana to stop. When Hanumana is brought before him Ravana scornfully asks him who is he and why he has entered the private garden. Hanumana informs Ravana of his name and parentage and then conveys to him Rama’s ultimatum. Ravana, indignantly orders Hanumana to be killed. When he is reminded that messengers are never killed, he agrees to hear Rama’s message which is that Rama is soon coming to Lanka to kill him. Ravana dismisses Rama’s threat with a contemptuous laughter and boasts of his great strength. Then Hanumana asks him why he then carried away Sita stealthily. At this Vibhishana also condemns that action of Ravana who now orders to send away Hanumana after setting fire to his tail. When Hanumana has left, Vibhishana once more advises Ravana to return Sita to Rama and thus to avoid a war with a stronger foe. Ravana turns down the advice with contempt.

PERFORMANCE SEQUENCE:

- At present ‘Toranayuddhankam’ as a religious ritual is performed only in the Vadakkunnathan Temple at Trichur once every five years by the Ammannur Chakyars of Irinjalakuda and at the Shiva Temple in Venganur by the Koyappa Chakyars of Painkulam. It starts on Vijaya Dashmi and the performance begins at 9 p.m. every day. The duration of the performance varies from day to day and the last day’s performance lasts upto early morning. According to ‘Kramadipika’ except Vijaya all the characters were used to come on the stage but nowadays Vijaya also comes on the stage. As would be clear ‘Vira, Raudra and Bhayanaka’ rasas dominate and ‘Sringara’ is absent as there is no ‘Nayika’.

THE KRAMADIPIKA (PRODUCTION MANUAL) AND
THE ATTAPRAKARAM (ACTING MANUAL):

FIRST NIGHT:

THE KRAMADIPIKA (PRODUCTION MANUAL):

PURVARANG – THE PRELIMINARIES RITES:

- After taking purificatory bath on the commencing day of Kutiyattam the Chakyar in the role of Shankukarna, Nambiar and Nangiar come to the Kuttampalam and make obeisance to the temple deity. Before a temple performance starts the main priest (melsanti) gives his blessings to the Chakyar and gives him ‘Koorayum pavitravum’ and ‘Nambiar’ goes to the sanctum sanctorum of the temple, where a priest lights a small oil lamp from the flame burning before the temple deity. Returning to the ‘Kuttambalam’ with the lamp, the ‘Nambiar’ lights the lamp in the dressing room and eventually lights the large stage lamp, which illuminates the performance. Thus the fire which presides over the sacrifices made to the temple deity illuminates the world of the play, extending the realm of the sacred to the performance. (Illustration: 2)

TALAYILKETTUKA (TYING ON THE HEAD – CHOPPUTHUNI):

- It is the symbolic first step in an actor’s regime on the day of the performance. After a series of prayers and elaborate religious rites in the main temple as well as in the performance arena, the actor in the role of Shankukarna ties a red cloth on his head, making the first step in the dramatic process. The performer sits cross legged facing eastwards and gets ready for the make-up after worshipping his preceptors, Ganapati, Sarasvati and the family deities. He takes a red cloth – ‘Chopputhuni’ and ties it around the head. Next, he makes marks with ghee on his forehead, nose, chin, both cheeks, again on the forehead, nose and chin, thus marking eight times with ghee (Invokes the Ashta Siddhis), silently reciting all the letters of the alphabet, forward from beginning to end and backward from end to beginning and then the ‘Upasana Mantras’. He then spreads ghee all over his face. (Illustration: 3-4-5)

* ANIJJUKUTUKA – TO GET READY WITH MAKEUP AND COSTUME:

- After ‘Talayilkettuka’, performer on begins the make-up, costume and other green-room procedures proceeding to Purvarang / Purappadu and finally on to the stage presentation. In ‘Thoranayuddhankam’ for Shankukarna – (Illustration: 6-7)

→ SHANKUKARNA’S PRESCRIED ATTIRE / GET-UP:

→ MAKE-UP: (Illustration: 8)

- Face: Pacca (Green paint) – Cutti of rice paste.
- Tilak: Chandrakala.
- The legs are painted with rice paste and a line drawn over it with a finger to create the form / marked of an ankle.

→ COSTUME: (Illustration: 9-10)

- Head gear: Kuzhal, Panakettu and Vasikam.
- Chopputhuni, Kuzhayam (Kuppayam), Matta, Thattu, Poyatakam (ties the ends of his lower garments), Uttariyam (on his waist), Kaupin.
- Damstra.

→ ORNAMENTS:

- Vala (Chudi), Katak (Kada), Tolvala, Pozhumpu (Kazhutharam), Channavuram, Marmala, Katisutra.
- Kundalam, Chevippuvu, Pilippattam, Chuttithuni, Pinmara.
* ARANGUVITANAM / RANGAPRASADHANAM –

THE DECORATION OF THE STAGE:

- A big lamp (Nilavilakku) about four feet high made of bell-metal is placed in front of the stage, lighted with oil and wicks, two wicks facing the actor and one facing the audience. This is the chief source of light in the theatre.
- The decoration of the stage, Rangaprashadana, which is done as follows -
  → On the right side of the lamp - the cylindrical measuring vessel called para filled with unmilled rice / paddy (Nirapara) and a smaller vessel filled with paddy (Nira itangazhi) with coconut flowers.
  → Besides light – on a plantain leave, ‘Astamangalya’ – eight auspicious things, bunches of tender coconuts, plantain trees with fruits, red silk etc. The pillars are covered with unbleached clothes and decorated with plantain trees having fruits and bunches of coconut and areca nut fruits.
  → Mizhavu is placed on its wooden stand at the back of the stage and covered with unbleached cloth. There is one stool on the stage for the actor to sit when necessary. On the right side of Mizhavu, one unbleached cloth is placed with Talakkootam / Kuzhitalam for Nangiar. (Illustration: 11-12)

* MIZHAVU OCCAPPETUTTUKA:

- The ritual starts with the playing of the Mizhavu by the Nambia on the stage before the beginning of the Kuttu / Kutiyattam. It is intended to announce the commencement of the Kutiyattam. Some specific rhythm beats are played. (Illustration: 13)

* GANAPATI NIVEDHYAM / RANGA PUJA / JARJARA PUJA:

- After Mizhavu occappetuttuka, there is Ganapati Nivedhyam or Ranga Puja or Jarjara Puja consisting of offering oblation to Ganapati, done by the chief priest of the temple. It is intended to ward off all obstacles and success of the performance.
GOSTHI-KOTTUKA:

- This is ceremonial beating of the Mizhavu at the beginning of the Kutiyattam. The Nangiar now comes on the stage and sings hymns called ‘Akkitta’ as a part of the introductory ritualistic ceremonies, with the accompaniment of Mizhavu. The Akkitta hymns are sung in praise of gods Shiva, Ganapati and Saraswati. (Illustration: 14)

ARANGUTALIKKUK (RANGA PRASADANAM) – NANDI SHLOKA:

- It is a form of proksana, purification. After the preliminaries and before the start of the Kutiyattam, the Nambiar, wearing ‘ritual dress’ and comes to the stage as the ‘Nandi Sutradhara’. He stands before the lamp in a prayerful mood with some flowers and water in his hand and chants the Arangu Tali shloka –

Vayikku:

- After ‘Arangu Tali’ the curtain is held and the Nambiar plays Mizhavu in ‘Ekatala’. Along with Mizhavu, other instruments / the orchestra Kuzhitalam, Sankh, Edakka, Kuzhal etc. are also played for the entry of the character - Shankukarna. (Illustration: 16)

PURAPPADU (FIRST ENTRY) OF SHANKUKARNA:

MARAYIL KRIYA:

- Ritual dance movements done by Shankukarna behind the curtain accompanied with the Mizhavu. Shankukarna is very much frightened and troubled; performs “Vattattil Natakkuka” - Runs around three times clockwise and anti clockwise, firmly holding his Kuzhal with both the hands. (Illustration: 17)

- He gestures “Mutikkuka” - The close of his action.
- Performs “Mukhattu Nir Talikkuka” – Aachman and sprinkles water on himself.
- Performs “Kaliyam Vecchu Tiriyuka” – Stylised movements done facing the Mizhavu before entering the stage. First keeps the feet in the parallel position, places the right foot forwards and then brings it back to the original position. These are repeated similarly with the left foot. Then he turns around, keeps each foot in front and then stands in front of the lamp. This series of five movements is called ‘Panchapadavinyasa’.
  (Illustration: 18)
- He takes hold of the ‘Kuzhal’ with both hands and keeps the legs joined and stands in low posture of inferiority. The curtain is then removed.

* (तत: प्रविशाति श्राङ्कर्षण:)

- Shankukarna is very much frightened and troubled, trembles from head to foot. (Illustration: 19) He moves his lips as if crying out “ve, vve”. The damstra (fangs) is seen protruding outside, then again rolling the thighs held with the hands in fear. He is perturbed and turns around and looks what is behind him. He then pushes aside the ‘Matta’, looks back from the left to the right and towards the door in the backstage on the right and from the right to the door in the backstage on the left. He wonders and suspecting “whether the monkey is following him” turns round in fear, again stands in front of the lamp and gestures as mentioned above. This he does thrice or more.
  (Illustration: 20)
- He then gestures how “Hanuman uprooted trees and roared”. He enacts getting frightened hearing the roar and making out that he is going to inform Ravana. He walks as done in “Marayil” and indicates that he has reached to the “Kanchan Toran - Golden Door of the Palace”.
- Then actions “Kottuvilakkuka” - for the stopping of the Mizhav playing.
• Turning to the right side he stutters and laments. Then he renders “क इह भोः! काजचन्दानागद्रामशूँया कुरुलेः” in the Svara - “Chetipanchamam” without “Mudrabhinaya”. At the time his hands are fixed on his knees.

• The “Cholliyati”, Vijaya’s ‘Granth / Text’ “Kettatuka” – ‘Here Shankukarna hears dialogues spoken by an unseen character, Vijaya from off stage. The dialogue of those who are not brought to the stage is rendered by the ‘Nangiar’. He feigns to hear it by suitable movements of the head, hands or the mudras. This piece of abhinaya is called “Kettatuka”. Shankukarna not only enacts hearing the words of the unseen Vijaya but also brings out fully the meaning of the speech that he has heard by imitating exactly the facial expressions of the unseen Vijaya and enacts with mudras the meaning of her words.’ The “Cholliyati”, Vijaya’s granth “Kettatuka” is rendered in great fear, while trembling.

• “शाङ्करकर्ण: - विजये! निवेद्यतां निवेद्यतां महाराजाय लड़केक्षराय भगनप्रायाश्शोकवनिकेति!” Above granth / dialogue is rendered unclearly which is known as “Kottotukuticolluka” (A character, on the day of the Purappadu recites a portion of the dialogue but leaves it incomplete. This left out portion is rendered at the conclusion of the ‘Nirvahanam’ but here the character sings it by using inaudible lip movements while covering the face with the hands. It is a hint to the audience that the ‘Nirvahanam’ is over. This recitation is called ‘Kottotukuticollukaa’.); then renders clearly.

• Then he renders “कुत:” upto “यस्याः न प्रयमण्डनापि महिषी देवस्य मण्डोदरी” and enacts as Mandodari who bedecks herself and goes to the garden with her female friends to pluck the buds of the “Karnapoor” (kanphul), acting out weakness on account of love.

• Then he renders “वीजन्तो मलयाणिला” and to acts out the incident where Ravana drives off ‘Vayu’. Also acts out the driving away of ‘Sun’ for “रविकर: अस्मिमुद्वल्लुजमः:”.

• Then he renders “सेव” and acts out the rest of shloka without rendering.

• Then renders “सेव” and enacts –

• “Kundalam tottu mutikku” - Holding the hands in ‘Kataka’ Mudra just below the ears and slowly moving the hands towards the face, changing the ‘Kataka’ Mudra into ‘Hamsapaksa’ Mudra in process, is called ‘Kundalam tottu mutikku, which is an indication to the audience that the portion of the story that was being enacted is over.;

- “Randam Nata” - On a set pattern the legs are waved towards the corners and a round turn is taken; the waving is done with each leg separately twice on each side.

- “Nirgita” - Dance steps are done facing the four corners showing some gestures in ‘Triputa Tala’.

- “Chari’s Pada Vinyaas / Kuttimutikku” - A choreographic pattern indication the conclusion of a particular piece of acting does the termination / conclusion of the dance.

❖ THE ATTAPRAKARAM (ACTING MANUAL):

❖ PURAPPADU (FIRST ENTRY) OF SHANKUKARNA:

- After oblation of some “Purvarang – The Preliminaries Rites” and “Arangutalikkuk (Rang Prasadanam) – Nandi Shloka”, Shankukarna gets ready accordingly prescribed attire and enters behind the curtain. He takes hold of the ‘Kuzhal’ with both hands and keeps the legs are joined and stands in low posture of inferiority. The curtain is then removed.

  * (तः प्रविष्टति शंकुकर्णः)

- Shankukarna is very much frightened and troubled, trembles from head to foot. He wonders and suspecting “whether the monkey is following him”. He then gestures how “Hanuman uprooting trees, roared” *Illustration: 21-22). He enacts getting frightened hearing the roar and making out that he is going to inform Ravana. He walks as done in “Marayil” and indicates that he has reached to the “Kanchan Toran - Golden Door of the Palace”. And then actions “Kottuvilakkuka”.

- Turning to the right side, he stutters and laments and then – ⇒ Granth / Text: “क झ भो! काज्ञनतीरणश्वारामशृंत्युं कुरुते?”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ (As per the practice) Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara - “Chetipanchamam”, but here without “Mudrabhinaya” because at the time his hands fixed on his knees.
→ Only (Mudra) Abhinaya without rendering: Ho, there! Who is on duty at the “Kanchan Toran - Golden Door of the Palace”? (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
→ Renders the same dialogue with (Mudra) Abhinaya. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

- He laments (“Kottuvilakkuka”). He hears, and acts “Cholliyati”, Vijaya’s granth / Text - “Kettatuka”. (Illustration: 23)

⇒ Granth / Text: “प्रतीहारी - अय्य! अहं विजया। किं करीअदु। (आय! अहं विजया। किं क्रियताम्!)”
⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Only (Mudra) Abhinaya without rendering: What did you say? “Sir I am Vijaya, what’s to do?” (What can I do for you?) Did you say so? (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

⇒ Granth / Text: “शाकूकर्ण: - विजये! निवेद्यातो....भन्नाप्रायाःशोकवनिर्मिति!”
⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders stuttering.
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara - “Chetipanchamam”. Oh, Vijaya, take a message at once to his Majesty the Lord of Lanka – the Ashoka garden is nearly all destroyed. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
→ Only (Mudra) Abhinaya without rendering the text.

⇒ Granth / Text: “कृति:”
⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: How so? (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
* EPISODE - RAVANA DRIVES AWAY “SUN”:

- For the enactment of this episode Shankukarna uses Abhinaya Prakara – Modes of Acting: “Pakarnnattam” (At time the same actor takes the role of several characters). In this episode Shankukarna enacts the roles of Mandodari, the Maids, Ravana, the Sun and the Garderners. As “Mudrabhinaya” is rendered in a rhythmic way, the playing of Mizhavu is essential for the acting.

- In the printed text second half of shloka is: “अपि कर्तरस्यृष्टि वालदुमाः” – The plants are untouched by hand; but in the manuscripts with ‘Chakyar’ it is: “रविकरे: अस्यृष्टि वालदुमाः” – Sun’s rays do not fall on the young plants.

⇒ Granth / Text: कृत: “यस्यां न प्रयमण्डनापि…..भनेति विज्ञायताम् ॥”

⇒ Performative Signs:

→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara - “Chetipanchamam”.

→ Only (Mudra) Abhinaya without rendering: (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

→ Narrates and enacts the meaning in prose order.

- Narrates: देवस्य महिषी मण्डोदरी यस्यां न पल्लवाभ लुम्भति ।

- Enacts: Mandodari, the queen of his Majesty does not pluck even the buds of the “Karnapoor” (kanphul) from that Ashoka garden. Is she not fond of bedecking herself? Not so. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

- Narrates: प्रयमण्डनापि

- Enacts: She is very fond of bedecking herself, yet, she is fonder of this garden. So she does not pluck even the buds from there. What is the reason for that? (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

- Narrates: स्नेहात्

- Enacts: Due to her love. How is that?

⊗ Shankukarna showing the gestures for Mandodari (Illustration: 24) takes the posture of a “Nayika” (Heroine) (Illustration: 25).
⊗ As Mandodari: Looks at the maids standing on either side – “Oh maids, let us go to the Ashoka garden”. Holding the hands of the maids walks in “Colliyundi Natakkuka” - “Triputa Tala” (A graceful manner of walking of women. The steps are done in four directions. The ends of the “Uttariyam” is held at the position of the navel), turns around and gestures entering the Ashoka garden; enacts, “Oh maids, please bedeck me” ([Illustration: 26-27-28]) and takes the posture of the heroine.

⊗ As one of the maids: Unties the knot of the hair and lets it down; combs it and ties it up again in the proper manner. Applies “Kumkum” (Vermillion) in the central parting of the hair. Stands aside and gestures with the eyes: “Is it beautiful?”

⊗ As the other maids: Looks at Mandodari; gestures: “It is good”. In this manner, gradually applies the dot on the brow, puts on bangles in the hands, applies black collyrium to the eyes, puts on necklaces, applies sandal paste on the breasts, plaits the sari and ties it around, applies henna-paste on the legs, puts on anklets ([Illustration: 29]), etc. When each section of the bedecking is over, the “maids” look at each other and gesture that it appears good.

⊗ When the bedecking is completed –

⊗ As one of the maids: Looks carefully, acts having understood the matter, blushes and gestures: “Oh friends, we have not bedecked the ears, if we pluck the buds of the “Karnapoor” (kanphul) from this plant and bedeck her ears with it, it will be very attractive”. ([Illustration: 30])

⊗ As another maid: “Oh friend, I will not pluck the buds. If I were to do that, the King will be angry.”

⊗ To Mardodari: “Oh Madam, if the buds ([Illustration: 31]) are plucked from this plant and the ear is bedecked with it, it will look very attractive.” ([Illustration: 32])

⊗ As Manodari: Attempts to pluck the buds; then gestures “No, it should not be done. If it is plucked this plant will wither”. Then,

⊗ As Shankukarna: In this manner even Madodari will not pluck the buds of the “Karnapoor” (kanphul) from that Ashoka garden. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
• Narrates: विजये, मलयानिलं वस्यां न बीजन्त।

• Enacts: Oh Vijaya, the breeze from the Malaya Mountain does not blow here. What is the reason for it? ("Kottuvilakkuka")

• Narrates: भयान्।

• Enacts: Due to fear of the King Ravana. Not only that. ("Kottuvilakkuka")

• Narrates: रंविकरे: अस्युष्टवालपुमा:।

• Enacts: Since King Ravana (Illustration: 33-34) has driven away the Sun, his rays do not fall here. How is that? ("Kottuvilakkuka")

As Ravana: One day Ravana had his bath and prayers and took his food; got himself attired properly, went to the hall of audience, and sat on the throne. The royal umbrella was held as also other regal paraphernalia. At that time he asked his ministers. “What shall we do as a pastime” Thinks. “Let us go and visit the garden”. So saying goes to the garden accompanied by the ministers. Entering the garden he looks around once. Looking at the plants carefully he finds them to be withered.

As the gardeners: “You, gardeners, all these plants are withered. So it is clear that you do not tend them properly. What a pity?”

As Ravana: Standing with due humility “Oh Lord, we always look after the plants properly. At no time is there lack of water in the beds. Kindly look at them carefully.”

As Ravana: Looks carefully; there is water in the beds of the plants. Thinks; “What is the reason for the withering of the plants?” He thinks again and looks at the sky. There he sees the Sun. “This Sun is making all the plants wither”. Gesturing in that manner and getting angry; “All right, I shall show him”. And enacts: “I shall kill him”. Ravana runs towards the Sun with a drawn sword.

As the Sun (Illustration: 35): Seeing it, gets frightened; falls at the feet of Ravana; gets up; takes a low posture and salutes: “Oh Lord, protect me, protect me”. (Illustration: 36)

As Ravana: “You Aditya, you touch my feet and promise that from today onwards you will not rise in Lanka”.

As the Sun: “Oh Lord, from today onwards, I will not come to Lanka, nor will I rise here. I take an oath on your feet”.

As Ravana: Kicks away the Sun with the outer foot. Then,

As Shankukarna: In this manner as the Sun has keen driven away, the rays of the Sun do not fall here. Such a garden has been completely destroyed. Please inform the king accordingly.

- Here, ends the episode of – “Ravana drives away Sun”.

⇒ Granth / Text: शंकुकर्णो भ्रात्रेष्यं भये प्रसद्यते विज्ञाप्यताम्।

⇒ Performative Signs:

→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Such a garden of Indra’s foe (Ravana) is destroyed, be informed. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

- Then performs “Kundalam tottu mutikku”, “Randam Nata”, “Nirgita”, “Chari’s Pada Vinyaas / Kuttimutikku”.

- Here, ends the first night’s performance - “Purappadu (First Entry) of Shankukarna”.

➢ SECOND AND THIRD NIGHT:

❖ THE KRAMADIPÍKA (PRODUCTION MANUAL):

⇒ SHANKUKARNA’S NIRVAHANA:

- Shankukarna attires himself “Anijjukutuka” – ‘Gets Ready with Make-up and Costume’; as he did on the day of the ‘Purappad’ (He ties the ends of the poyatakam and keeps damstram/fangs).

- He comes to the stage and does “Abhivadyam” – Stands facing the Mizhavana and invokes the blessing of gurus and family deities; this act of salutation is called ‘Abhivadyam’.
• Then he immediately holds the ‘Kuzhal’ and turns around and starts ‘Mudrabhinaya’ from “विजये! निवेद्यां निवेद्यां…” upto the end of the shloka “यस्यां न प्रियमण्डनापि…”.

• Then he gestures “Mutikkuka” with hands folded and unties the ‘Poyatakam’, pulls the ‘Pitham’ - Seat to the centre-stage nearer to the lamp, sits on it and does the ‘Abhivadyam’ again followed by ‘Sabhanirikshan’ – Looking at the audience; in a sitting posture, rhythmically moving the eyes horizontally, vertically and circularly and looking all over the audience, in order to get into the mood.

• Then he starts “Anukramam” - Denotes the narration of a story (by gestures) backwards in the form of a series of questions, from the time of his entry tills the “Nirvahanam” shloka; after the sequence of “Kamalparivartanattitoshut” – Which is the usual form of greetings and showing respects: Here the hands are first held in the shape of Lotus, then the palms are rotated and then are joined together in ‘Anjali’.

• Then he starts “Samksepam” - The narration of the story (by gestures) in a concise way from the point where Anukramam ended and taking the story forward up to a point.

• Then starts “Nirvahanam” from the shloka ‘ धनदेन परित्यक्तां…..देवाधिपो यथा।। ’ Here, the final part of the “Nirvahanam” that starts from ‘ अहं विजित्य त्रिदिवं…..ैवलोक्यशुर्यशोधितः।। ’ is to be done on the first day of the Kutiyaattam.

• On that day he enacts ‘how the Kalpavriksha was uprooted from Svarga and brought here in Lanka with care, made to bloom and flower, Rakhasas were entrusted the task of protecting it’.

• Before the “Kottotukuticolluka”; Shankukarn makes a circle, turns around and shows all as done on the ‘Purappad’ day.

• Then renders “शाक्रियो:” and so on. From “यस्यां न प्रियमण्डनापि…” in part and then the whole is rendered with the ‘Mizhavu’.

• Then Vijaya’s ‘Granth / Text’ is rendered in great fear, while trembling.

• Then he renders own text, first with trembling in fear and unclearly in “Kottotukuticolluka” and then clearly.
• Then returns to the green room after enacting “Cholliyati”, Vijaya’s granth / Text “Kettatuka”.

THE ATTAPRAKARAM (ACTING MANUAL) – SECOND NIGHT:

SHANKUKARNA’S NIRVAHANAM:

• The Second day’s performance is called the “Nirvahanam of Shankukarna”. Nirvahanam is the recalling of the past story – “A narration by gestures of the earlier events connected with the story, referred to as ‘Flash Back’ and bringing it up to the present.” Depending on the drama and the character, the period of performance of the Nirvahanam will vary; but in “Toranayuddhankam” it will take two days.

• Before starting the Nirvahana proper, the actor has to do two items, known as ‘Anukramam and Samksepam’. Anukramam is telling the story (by gestures) backwards from the present to a suitable point in the past. After finishing Anukramam he will start on Samksepam, which is the narration of the story (by gestures) in a concise way from the point where Anukramam ended and taking the story forward up to a point and after that Nirvahanam is done, gesturing the story in a more detailed manner.

• Shankukarna attires himself “Anijjukutuka” – ‘Gets Ready with Make-up and Costume’; as he did on the day of the ‘Purappad’ (He ties the ends of the poyatakam and keeps damstram / fangs). He comes to the stage and does “Abhivadyam”.

• Then he immediately holds the ‘Kuzhal’ and turns around and ‘makes the entry’ as he did on the first day: Shankukarna is very much frightened and troubled, trembles from head to foot. He moves his lips as if crying out “ve, vve”. The damstra (fangs) is seen protruding outside, then again rolling the thighs held with the hands in fear. He is perturbed and turns around and looks what is behind him. He then pushes aside the ‘Matta’, looks back from the left to the right and towards the door in the backstage on the right and from the right to the door in the backstage on the left. He wonders and suspecting “whether the monkey is following him”.

• Then he starts only ‘Mudrabhinaya’ without rendering the text from “विजये! निवेद्यतां...” upto to the end of the shloka “वस्यां न प्रियमण्डनापि...”. Then he shows gesture for “सेव”.

- Then he gestures “Mutikkuka” with hands folded and unties the ‘Poyatakam’, pulls the ‘Pitham’ - Seat to the centre-stage nearer to the lamp, sits on it and does the ‘Abhivadyam’ and ‘Sabhanirikshan’. Then starts “Anukramam” –

* ANUKRAMAM: (Illustration: 37)

- While doing ‘Anukramam’ Shankukarna starts from the point of his entry, at the door of the palace of Ravana, to the point when Ravana first entered Lanka to make it his Capital city.

- Earlier in what manner did Shankukarna reach the “Kanchan Toran - Golden Door of the Palace” and converse with Vijaya? Before that how did Ravana go to Svarga, the abode of Devas, and conquer it and plunder valuable items like the Kalpaka Vrksha (the wish-giving tree) and other plants and bring them to Lanka and plant them in the garden and nurture them? Before that how did Ravana go to Patala (Nether-world) and defeat the Nagas and enter into a treaty with the Nivatakavacas? Before that in what manner did Ravana defeat the Lord of Death (Yama)? Before that how did Ravana conquer all the kings in the world? Before that how did Ravana lift up the Kailasa Mountain and toss it into the air and make Lord Shiva happy and how did he get the sword Candrahasa as a present from Shiva? Before that how did Ravana defeat Vaisravana? Before that how did Ravana marry Mandodari? Before that how did Ravana drive away Vaisravana and enter Lanka? All that: how did all that happen? Then starts “Samksepam” –

* SAMKSEPAM:

- Then long ago, two Rakshasas named Heti and Praheti were born from the two sides of Lord Brahma. From Heti, Vidyutkeshin was born and from Vidyutkeshin, Suksesh was born. From Suksesh, Mali, Sumali and Malyavan were born. After that they went to the city of Lanka constructed by Vishvakarman (the divine architect) and were living there happily. At that time Lord Vishnu killed Mali and Sumali. Then Malyavan went to Patala with the remaining Rakshasas and was staying there in grief. At that time, one day, as instructed by Malyavan, Kaikasi went to sage Vishravas and made him happy and out of that was born the three sons, Ravana, Kumbhakarna and Vibhishana and the daughter Shurpanakha. When Kaikasi was living with them happily, one day, Ravana went to north Gokarna with his brothers and in accordance with the instructions of his mother he did penance there and propitiated Lord Shiva and from him he got the boon that he could not be killed. His brothers also had obtained boons and with them he reached the northern gates of Lanka.

- Then Shankukarna completes the Samksepam. He gets up from the “Pitham” and keeps the “Pitham” aside.
- Then starts “Nirvahanam” –

* NIRVAHANAM: (Illustration: 38)

- Only Mudrabhinaya / Enactment of Nirvahanam shloka without its rendering:
  ⇒ As Ravana: Oh Vaishravana, come out and fight me.

  ⇒ As Vaishravana: Sits on the seat in a happy mood; he hears that Ravana has come and is challenging for a fight. He gets up from the seat, gets frightened and runs away abandoning Lanka.

  ⇒ As Ravana: When Ravana entered the city of Lanka abandoned by Vaishravana, how was it like? - Like Indra entering Svarga. How was Lanka? It had been built in the proper manner. It had broad roads. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

  ⇒ Rendered by Nangiar: Svara – “Tarkan” धनंजय परित्यक्तां...तेवाधिपो यथा।।

- Only Mudrabhinaya / Enactment of Nirvahanam shloka without its rendering:
  ⇒ As Ravana (Sitting on Pitham): At that time all the Rakshasas of Lanka crowned him as the king. Then Rakshasas from various places came and took refuge under Ravana. Those Rakshasas filled up the whole of Lanka. How were the Rakshasas? They were dark like the clouds. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

  ⇒ Rendered by Nangiar: Svara – “Tarkan” ततोभिषित्तः...निशाचरैलिबलाहकोपयः।।
• Only Mudrabhinaya / Enactment of Nirvahanam shloka without its rendering:

⇒ As Ravana: Then when Ravana was living there happily, one day, he took his bath, completed his food and sat on the throne in the audience hall. He saw the Kalakeya named Vidyutjihva coming to him. He welcomed him and seating him properly, told him. “Oh Vidyutjihva, please marry my sister.” He gave his sister, the terrible looking Shurpanakha in marriage to Vidyutjihva. ("Kottuvilakkuka")

⇒ Rendered by Nangiar: Svara – “Tarkan” दज्जाःभृत् काल…..विद्युण्झिकाय नामतः।।

• Only Mudrabhinaya / Enactment of Nirvahanam shloka without its rendering:

⇒ As Ravana (Sitting on Pitham): Then one day Ravana (Illustration: 39) took his bath, said his prayers and had his food and was sitting happily. He told his men “Oh Rakshasas get ready for going for a hunt.”

⇒ As Rakshasas: They tighten their belt and head-gear; they get all the necessary things for a hunt; mount their horses and start.

⇒ As Ravana (Sitting on the Pitham): “Did you say that everyone has started? All right, we shall start”. He gets up from the “Pitham”, tightens his belt and head-gear and mounts his horse and starts. He walks around (May perform “Patapurappadu”, depending on the availability of time.).

⇒ Rakshasas in great number walk behind him. Starting like this, they reach the forest. They erect poles on the ground all around and tie nets on them firmly. They stir up the forest to drive out the animals; the peculiarities of the movements and gaits of various animals are depicted, and also their running in fright. (This piece can be expanded according to circumstances).

⇒ In this manner, Ravana, killed animals in the forest and ate them. When he was going about like this he saw there Maya, son of Diti. ("Kottuvilakkuka")

⇒ Rendered by Nangiar: Svara – “Tarkan” अथ गत्वा…..दिति: सुतम्।।
• Only Mudrabhinaya / Enactment of Nirvahanam shloka without its rendering:
   ⇒ As Ravana: Then seeing Maya there with his daughter, asked him: “Oh Sir, who are you? Why are you travelling alone in this lonely place, devoid of men?” (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
   ⇒ Rendered by Nangiar: कन्यासहायं दृश्वा……निर्मन्तृष्ण्मुग्गे वने॥

• Only Mudrabhinaya / Enactment of Nirvahanam shloka without its rendering:

FOURTH NIGHT:

THE KRAMADIPIKA (PRODUCTION MANUAL):

FIRST DAY OF KUTIYATTAM:

- Ravana attires “Anijjukutuka” - Gets Ready with Make-up and Costume; holds the curtain; whereon Shankukarn comes from the left of the curtain and stands in front of the lamp, sees Ravana from afar and actions “Kottuvilakkuka” - for the stopping of the Mizhav playing.

- Then he renders “अये अय महाराजो लड़ के बार इत एवाभिनवति। य एष्:” in the Svara - “Veladhuli”.

- Then he renders shloka “अमलकमलसत्रिभोप्रेतः....युगपरिणामसंयुतं वथाकंः 11” in the Svara – “Tarkan” and enacts in the form of “Ilakiyattam”. Getting angry for “त्वरितमभिपत्त्यसो सरोष:”, hence he walks crookedly - “Bilangan Ilakinatakku”.

- Then he renders “वथाकं:”, shows the “Praveshik” and returns to the backstage from the left.

* ENTRY OF RAVANA:

RAVANA’S PRESCRIBED ATTIRE / GET-UP:

MAKE-UP: (Illustration: 40)

- Face: Katti (with a moustache resembling an inverted knife) – Cutti of rice paste.

- Chuttippuvu – The white appendage stuck on the tip of the nose is cut in the shape of a flower.

- The legs are painted with rice and turmeric mixture made into a paste and a line drawn over it with a finger to create the form / marked of an anklet.
→ COSTUME: (Illustration: 41-42)

- Head gear: Keshabharan - Kirit.
- Chopputhuni, Kuzhayam, Matta-Matakkiyat, Thattu, Poyatakam (ties the ends of his lower garments), Uttariyam (on his waist), Kaupin.
- Damstra.

→ ORNAMENTS:

- Vala (Chudi), Katak (Kada), Tolvala, Pozhumpu (Kazhutharam), Channavuram, Marmala, Katisutra, Tungamala.
- Kundalam, Chevippuvu, Pilippattam, Chuttithuni, Pinmara.

→ PROPERTY:

- Val (Sword).

- Attired with all these dress and ornaments, the Uttariyam is tied at the waist. The ends of the Poyatakam are tied. He holds a sword in his hand and he has Damstra / fangs in the mouth.
- He makes salutations in the green-room and sprinkles water on his face.
- Then performs “Vayikkku” - The curtain is held up; lighting the “Pantam” - Torchlight and the Nambiar plays Mızhavu. Along with Mızhavu, other instruments / the orchestra Kuzhitalam, Sankh, Edakka, Kuzhal etc. are also played for the entry of the character - Ravana.

* MARAYIL KRIYA:

- Ravana performs “Vattattil Cati Natakkuka” - A circular movement pattern to indicate moving from one place to another distant place.
• He holds a sword in his hand and performs “Marayil Uddhat Yatra” - The ritual dance movements, jumping about in the appropriate gait are done by Ravana accompanied with the Mizhavu.

• He gestures “Mutikkuka” - The close of his action.

• Performs “Mukhattu Nir Talikkuka” – Aachman and sprinkles water on himself.

• Performs “Kaliyam Vecchu Tiriyuka” – Stylised movements done facing the Mizhavu before entering the stage. First keeps the feet in the parallel position, places the right foot forward and then brings it back to the original position. These are repeated similarly with the left foot. Then he turns around, keeps each foot in front and then stands in front of the lamp. This series of five movements is called ‘Panchpadavinyasa’.

* (ततः प्रविष्णति यथानिदिष्टो रावणः ।)

• Then the curtain is removed, two stage-hands hold “Pantam” (burning torches) over which they throw “Telli” - Powdered incense mixed with well-charred and powdered rice husks. When a bit of this is thrown on the flame of a “Pantam” - burning torch there will be sudden burst of flame; a flame thrower.; that goes up in flames. Then looks at the sword, makes ‘Drashtam’ protrude out.

• Then performs “Vattatil Perumaari” and returns to the backstage from the left.

• Then enters on the stage from right, roaring and taking the sword showing the “Praveshikam” (Certain characters, when enters on the stage, reveal their own characteristics to the audience by making certain gestures and movements, which are called ‘Praveshikam’.) - When Ravana comes on the stage, he reveals his own characteristic to the audience by making certain gestures and movements, thrice.
• Then looks at the sword and places it to the right of the lamp. He then takes hold of the “Pantam” - burning torches and goes into the green-room in a tumult along with the stage-hands and then comes back on the stage and again goes to the green room. He does like this thrice.

• Then leaves the torches, takes the sword and flings and catches it, touches it to his chest and such other gestures, in this manner, on showing the “Praveshikam” thrice. On that last round he sits on the stool.

• Then from Vijaya coming to know of the complete destruction of the Ashoka garden by Hanumana, Ravana is furious and takes the sword and actions “Kottuvilakkuka” - for the stopping of the Mizhav playing.

• Then he renders “कथं कथं भो नववाक्यवादिश्चुणोमि.....वनाभिमदद्वस परिधानितोःहम्” in the Svara – “Viratarkan” and then renders the same shloka in piecemeal.

• Then puts the sword down; renders and enacts “कथं कथं भो नववाक्यवादिनि।”.

• Then Shankukarn comes running crying in fear. Goes to the left and with both hands holds the ‘Kuzhal’ and trembles.

• Then renders “जयतु महाराजः। अविद्यागमनेन केनचिदृ वानरेण ससरंभिभिभूतिःशाशकनिकः।” in “Kottotuku” (inaudible lip movements while covering the face with the hands) and then clearly renders “कथं कथं”, “अविद्यागमनेन” and so on renders accordingly techniques.

• Then renders “केनचिदृ” and “केन चाछ्य” with its arguments and counter arguments.

• Then Shankukarna slowly renders “वानरेण”, on hearing which Ravan covers his mouth and renders “क्व, क्व” and then “कथं वानरेणेति”; shows ‘Damstra’; exhibiting shame and actions “Kottuvilakkuka” - for the stopping of the Mzhav playing.

• Then renders “गच्छ, शींत्र निग्रहानय।” on which “वदाजापयति महाराजः।” renders twice, walks in a circle and comes to the backstage.

• Ravana unties the “Poyatakam” and puts it on the upper arm, sits on “Pitham”, does fanning by “Uttariyam” and with both hands ties the right knee, sits in still posture, stares, cuts the “Damstrams”, looks up and down, thinks, shakes his head once and actions “Kottuvilakkuka” - for the stopping of the Mizhav playing, on the left.

- Then renders “भवत् भवन्”; here in proportion, the Mizhavu is also lightly played.

While doing the present shloka's “युधि जगत्तयभीतिकृतोदपि.....निजशाळ्यमुदृभवम्।।” “Cholliyattam” shows “Patapurappad” for “युधि” and the event of the piercing of the Devas with thorns for the “निजशाळ्यसमुदृभवम् फलम् अनुभवन्तु।।”.

- Then “अमृतवाणिः” is rendered as by Devas crying and then becomes Ravana and renders it in Svara – “Tarkan”. In this manner, shows twice or thrice.

- Then renders the upper half, sits on the “Pitham” and then “Pada Vinyaas of Chari / Kuttimutikku” (a choreographic pattern indicating the conclusion of a particular piece of acting) does the termination / conclusion of the dance.

❖ THE ATTAPRAKARAM (ACTING MANUAL):

  ⇒ As Ravana (Sitting on Pitham): Oh! Nivatakavacas, I shall start from here immediately; I shall go to Svarga and defeat Indra and all other Devas. After conquering Indra, I shall go back to Lanka and shall reign as the Lord of the three worlds. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

  ⇒ Rendered by Nangiar: अहं विजित्य त्रिदिवं....ैैलोक्यवृत्वशोभित:।।
• Only Mudrabhinaya / Enactment of Nirvahanam shloka without its rendering:
  ⇒ As Ravana (Sitting on Pitham): Then I shall kill the Devas in battle and shall become Indra. I shall become Varuna, Vaishravana and Yama (the guardians of the four quarters).
  I shall appoint other Rakshasas in the posts of other Devas. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
  ⇒ Rendered by Nangiar: अहमिन्द्रो भविष्यामि……स्थापपिष्यामि चापरान्।।

• Only Mudrabhinaya / Enactment of Nirvahanam shloka without its rendering:
  ⇒ As Ravana (Sitting): “Oh Rakshasas, all of you start immediately to Svaragha for a war”.
  ⇒ Then as Rakshasas (getting up from the Pitham): Enacts “Patappuappadu” – The start for a war. In this manner the marching Rakshasa army reached Svaragha.
  (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
  ⇒ Rendered by Nangiar: तस्य राक्षससैन्यस्य……भिद्यमानार्णवोपपः।।

• Only Mudrabhinaya / Enactment of Nirvahanam shloka without its rendering:
  ⇒ As Ravana: Then going to Svaragha, encamping with the army, challenged the Devas for a fight; played the war drums tumultuosly. At that time - ⇒ As Indra (Sitting on Pitham): Hears it; he shivers along with the ‘Pitham’. When Indra heard that Ravana has come for a fight, Indra shivered along with his throne and became helpless; he told the Devas like this. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
  ⇒ Rendered by Nangiar: श्रुत्य तु रावणं……सर्वनेव समागतान्।।

• Only Mudrabhinaya / Enactment of Nirvahanam shloka without its rendering:
  ⇒ As Indra (Sitting on Pitham): “Oh Devas, all of you together, start for a war with this evil minded Ravana”. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
  ⇒ Rendered by Nangiar: आदित्यान् सवस्यूः चद्रान्……रावणस्य दुरात्मनः।।

• Only Mudrabhinaya / Enactment of Nirvahanam shloka without its rendering:
  ⇒ As Devas (getting up from Pitham): Enacts “Patappuappadu” – The start for a war.
  Indra, mounted on the neck of the elephant Airavata, started. He went with all of them to the battle field, took positions there, challenged the Rakshasas for a fight, beat the battle drums. In this way a great fight ensued between the Rakshasas and the Devas.
(“Kottuvilakkuka”)
⇒ Rendered by Nangiar: ततो युद्ध समभवद्वा...नानाप्रहरणोऽछतम्पू।।

- Then the Rakshasas and Devas fought. All the Devas got frightened and ran away.
- Then as Ravana: Looking around once and observing fought with Indra. At that time all ran away; he went inside the palace and looked around. There were splendid horses and elephants and women. He took away all of them. Then he entered the Nandana garden and looked around: “Oh, what a wonder! Oh Rakshasas, you dig out those plants.” Seeing the Rakshasas trying to dig out big trees, he laughed and made fun of them: “Idiots go away”. He himself dug out the plants, and handed them over to the Rakshasas. All of them together marched over to Lanka, arrived at the Ashokavanika garden; sat on the ground, dug pits himself; took over the plants, planted them; and watered them.
- As Shankukarna: In this manner, bringing beautiful plants of Svarga he planted and nurtured them here in this garden.
- (Mudra) Abhinaya: “Such a garden has been destroyed. Go, and inform Ravana like this”.
- Then, turning round (indicating change of scene), keeping both hands on the head dress, shivering very much, showing fright. (“Kottuvilakkuka”) (Illustration: 43)
⇒ Granth / Text: शंकुकर्णाः अशोकवनिका भनेनि विज्ञाप्तात् ।
⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders stuttering.
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya.
→ Only (Mudra) Abhinaya without rendering: His Majesty’s consort Mandodari, though interested in bedection does not pluck even the buds of the “Karnapoor” (kanphul) from the small plants in the Ashoka garden; the Malaya breeze does not blow there and the Sun’s rays do not fall there. Such a garden has been completely destroyed. Please inform accordingly. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
⇒ Renders the full shloka: “यस्यां न...”.
• Then unties the end of the ‘Poyatakam’ and performs “Kundalam tottu mutikku” – The portion of the story that was being enacted is over.
• Here ends the “Nirvahanam of Shankukarna”.

❖ FIRST DAY OF KUTIYATTAM:

• Again, tying the ‘Uttariyam’ on the waist, he ties the end of the ‘Poyatakam’ and stands in the pose of the frightened Shankukarna; actions “Kottuvilakkuka” and gets the singing Nangiar to render the dialogue of Vijaya. Shankukarna hears, and acts “Cholliyati”, Vijaya’s granth / Text - “Kettatuka”.

⇒ Granth / Text: “प्रतीहारी - अव्व! निच्छवं भद्रिपादमूले वतमाणस्स जणस्स अर्द्वपुरुषवो अवं सम्भमाः। किं एदं !”
⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Only (Mudra) Abhinaya without rendering: What did you say? In the stance of Vijaya: “Oh Sir, we who have always been serving His Majesty has never experienced such a commotion.” Did you say so? (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

⇒ Granth / Text: “भवति ! अतिपाति कार्यमिदम्। शोभ्र्यं निवेष्यतां निवेष्यताम्।”
⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders stuttering.
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Oh Lady, this is a very urgent matter; quick inform, please inform.
→ Renders the words again and repeats the gestures. (“Kottuvilakkuka” with a signal of his elbow)

⇒ Granth / Text: “प्रतीहारी - अव्व! इयं गियायेदिम्।”
⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Only (Mudra) Abhinaya without rendering: What did you say? In the stance of Vijaya: “Oh Sir, I shall immediately convey.” Did you say so?
• Shankukarna in normal stance looks around once.
  → (Mudra) Abhinaya: I see Ravana at a distance. ("Kottuvilakkuka")

⇒ Granth / Text: “अये अये महाराजो लड़केब्बर इत्याविभिन्तते॥” (Illustration: 44-45-46)
⇒ Performative Signs:
  → Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Veladhuli”. Here is His Majesty, the Lord of Lanka coming along this very way.
  → Renders the same words again.

• He then goes back to the green-room. Then the curtain is held and the Mizhavu is played. Shankukarna stands on the left of the curtain looking to the right. Sees Ravana in his brilliance; (Mudra) Abhinaya accordingly; actions “Kottuvilakkuka”.
  (Illustration: 47-48-49)
⇒ Granth / Text: “अमलकमलसतिमोग्रंशंतं……युगपरिणामसमुद्रलो यथाकः ।।”
⇒ Performative Signs:
  → Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Tarkan”. Here, Maharaja Ravana with his eyes shining like fully opened lotuses and fierce looking, with blazing golden lamps and held in front him, comes in an angry mood like the Sun at the end of a Yuga.
  → Renders the shloka again. Then he retires to the green-room.

* ENTRY OF RAVANA:

• Ravana gets ready accordingl to prescribed attire; the Uttariyam is tied at the waist. The ends of the Poyatakam are tied. He holds a sword in his hand and he has Damstram / fangs in the mouth.
• The curtain is held up; lighting the “Pantam” - Torchlight and the Nambiar plays Mizhavu.
• Ravana enters behind the curtain and performs “Vattattil Cati Natakkuka”, “Marayil Uddhat Yatra”. (Illustration: 50)
• Then stands infront of the lamp in a special stance “Cunikakuru”.

Then the curtain is removed, two stage-hands hold “Pantam” (burning torches) over which they throw “Telli” (incense powder) that goes up in flames. Then looks at the sword, makes ‘Drashtam’ protrude out. (Illustration: 51 and 52)

Then showing the “Praveshikam” thrice. (Illustration: 53-54-55)

Then stands infront of the lamp in a special stance “Cunikakuru”. When Ravana performs “Cunikakuru”, the characteristic posture that his body assumes is called “Cunikakkuttil Nilkkuka”. (Illustration: 56)

In the stance of Vijaya: Your Majesty, a monkey has come and destroyed the Ashoka garden completely. Did you say so?

As Ravana (Sitting on Pitham) (Illustration: 60): Gets very angry; takes the sword in his hands, gets up and puts the ‘Pitham’ aside and with the sword in his hands and in an angry mood actions “Kottuvilakkuka”.

⇒ Granth / Text: कर्त्यं कर्त्यं भो नववाक्यवादि……। (Illustration: 61)

⇒ Performative Signs:

→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Viratarkan”. What, what? Strange words are these thou utterest. I am listening. Speak at once. What fearless wight intent on death has dared this deed today? By rooting up this grove he has done me grievous injury. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

→ Narrates and enacts the meaning in prose order.

→ Only (Mudra) Abhinaya without rendering. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

→ Renders same shloka again.

⇒ Then, Shankukarna runs in from the greenroom. (Illustration: 62)

⇒ He holds his “Kuzhal” with both hands. (Illustration: 63)
→ Ravana: (stutters) - जयतु महाराजः....। (hail your Majesty)

→ Ravana: (speaks) - कथं कथं भो नववाक्यवादिनः....। (what, what? Strange words are these thou utterest)

→ Shankukarna: (stuttering in fear) - अविदितागमनेन। (by one entering unnoticed)

→ Ravana: - श्रुणोऽम। शीघ्र वद। (tell me quick, I am listening)

→ Shankukarna: - अविदितागमनेन। (by one entering unnoticed)

→ Ravana: - केन चाय। (by whom today)

→ Shankukarna: - केनचिद्व। (by some one)

- This is repeated by both Ravana and Shankukarna in the same manner. (Illustration: 64)

→ Ravana: (imitating his way of speaking and making fun of him; Illustration: 65) - केनचिद्व। केनचिद्। (then sternly) केन चाय। (Illustration: 66)

→ Shankukarna: - बानरेण। (by monkey)

→ Ravana: (on hearing this closes Shankukarnas mouth with his palm, in disgust and speaks in a low voice; Illustration: 67-68) - (सावज्ञम्) कथं बानरेणात। (how by a monkey); (then sternly) गच्छ, शीघ्र निगृहाय। (go quickly)

→ When Ravana says this, Shankukarna gets frightened and starts to run (Illustration: 69). Ravana pulls him back and says Ravana: - निगृहाय। (catch and bring). (Illustration: 70)

→ Shankukarna: (stuttering in fear) - यदाज्ञापति महाराजः। (निष्ठात्तः।) (Illustration: 71-72-73) (as your Majesty commands); he repeats that in normal Speech. (Illustration: 74)

→ He runs around and returns to the green-room. (Illustration: 75-76-77)

- Then Ravana unties his ‘Uttariyam’ and the ends of his ‘Poyatakam’ and sits on the ‘Pitham’; fans himself with the ‘Uttariyam’ (Illustration: 78); keeps his left leg over his right leg; locks his arms around his left knee. Remains without any movement (Illustration: 79); makes the ‘Damstram’ protrude out; stares with protruding eyes; moves his head up and down; moves his body laterally to the left and right; thinks (Illustration: 80). He turns in the ‘Pitham’ to the left and actions “Kottuvilakkuka” (Illustration: 81-82); speaks in measured tone “भवतु भवतु” - let it be, let it be and then-

⇒ Granth / Text: “युधि जगत्नवभीतिकृतोपि…..निजशान्तवसमुद्रभवम्।” (Illustration: 83-84-85)
⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Tarkan”.
→ Only (Mudra) Abhinaya without rendering: (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
→ Narrates and enacts the meaning in prose order.

• Narrates: तिदशै मे इदम् अप्रियम् कृतं यदि
• Enacts: If the Devas living in Svarga have done this deed which is not to my liking, because of their enmity, let it be so. How so? How am I? (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

• Narrates: युधि जगत्नवभीतिकृतोपि
• Enacts: In the wars I have frightened every one in the three worlds. How is that? (Illustration: 86-87-88)

⊗ When I was living happily in this Lanka, I said: “Look here, Oh Rakshasas all of you start to Svarga for a war”. Gestures the Rakshasas starting for the war.
⊗ Ravana performs “Patappuappadu” – The start for a war.
⊗ “In this manner I started with the army and reached Svarga and took up position in the battle field, beat the war drums, and challenged the Devas for a fight”. At that time –
⊗ As Indra (Sititng on Pitham): (Hearing the challenge for the fight.) “Oh Devas, all of you start for a fight with Ravana”.
⊗ Then as the Devas: Performs “Patappurappadu” in a brief manner.
⊗ As Indra: Tightens the belt and head-gear; takes the weapon Vajra (Thunder bolt); climbs on to the back of the elephant – ‘Airavata’, goes to the battle field; positions the army; beats the war drums, challenges for a fight.
⊗ As Ravana: They fought with each other. Then sits on ‘Pitham’. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
• Narrates: अनुभवस्वर्णसमुस्मृत्वम् फलाद् अचिराद् अनुभवन्तु।
• Enacts: Since the Devas who eat nectar do this harm to me, they will soon suffer for this treachery of theirs. How is that? When I fight like this I shall pierce them with my spear.

⊗ As Devas: Sits on the ground and cries in a plaintive tone: “अमृताशिनः अमृताशिनः”
⊗ As Ravana (Sitting on Pitham): Only (Mudra) abhinaya: Thrusting with the spear.
⊗ Only (Mudra) abhinaya: In this manner let the Devas suffer for their evil deeds. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

• Narrates: अनुभवस्वर्णसमुस्मृत्वम् फलाद् निजशाश्वसमुद्भवम्।
• Enacts: They will soon experience the result of their treacherous deeds.
• He sits in the appropriate manner and performs “Pada Vinyaas of Chari / Kuttimutikku” (a choreographic pattern indicating the conclusion of a particular piece of acting) does the termination / conclusion of the dance.

➢ FIFTH NIGHT:

❖ THE KRAMADIPIKA (PRODUCTION MANUAL):

➢ SECOND DAY OF KUTIYATTAM:

• On the second day, Shankukarna attires “Anijjukutuka” and in order to mark entry plays Mizhavu and ties “Poyatakam”, holds the “Kuzhal” and frightenes, comes running from the backstage and runs around clockwise and anti clockwise and stands.
• As on “Purappad” day, as though showing everything and actions “Kottuvilakkuka”.
• Then renders with fear and trembling from “जयतु महाराजः” to “तेन हि” once in “Kottotuku” (inaudible lip movements while covering the face with the hands) and then clearly renders in Svara – “Tarkan”.

\[ \text{FIFTH NIGHT:} \]

\[ \text{THE KRAMADIPIKA (PRODUCTION MANUAL):} \]

\[ \text{SECOND DAY OF KUTIYATTAM:} \]

\[ \text{On the second day, Shankukarna attires “Anijjukutuka” and in order to mark entry plays Mizhavu and ties “Poyatakam”, holds the “Kuzhal” and frightenes, comes running from the backstage and runs around clockwise and anti clockwise and stands.} \]

\[ \text{As on “Purappad” day, as though showing everything and actions “Kottuvilakkuka”.} \]

\[ \text{Then renders with fear and trembling from “जयतु महाराजः” to “तेन हि” once in “Kottotuku” (inaudible lip movements while covering the face with the hands) and then clearly renders in Svara – “Tarkan”.} \]
• On the completion of the “Attam”, render should start from “तस्य ग्रहणसम्यं”.

• Then Ravana, as on the previous day, attires “Anijjukutuka” and Performs “Mukhattu Nir Talikkuka” – Aachman and sprinkles water on himself; in order to mark entry plays Mızhavu in Svara – “Tarkan”, comes running from the backstage and Performs “Kaliyam Vecchu Tiriyyuka”, does “Abhivadyam”, sits on the “Pitham”, does fanning by “Uttariyam” and sits in a “Dhiroddhat Bhava”.

• Shankukarn enters and from “जयतु महाराजः। महाराज! महाभल: खलु” starts Kutiyattam.

• Then For “तेन खलु”, Ravan makes the monkey powerless. Shankukarna exaggerates the actions of the monkey through acting and after renders “वदास्यपयति महाराजः।”, he goes with jumping.

• Then in a fright, comes running and walks in a circle, stands and moves his lips as if crying out “ve, vve”.

• Then starts rendering from “जयतु” onwards in “Kottotuku” (inaudible lip movements while covering the face with the hands).

• Then renders shloka “अस्मदीयंहावृक्षेःस्पद्धीयाः…किढंकरा द्रमयोधिना ॥” in Svara – “Chetipanchamam”. Then enacts and goes jumping.

• Then Ravan, on sending Akshakumar, renders the shloka “कुमारो हि कृतास्वरूपः……वा तं बनोकस्मं ॥”.

• Then “Cholliyattukka” for “अनन्तरीयं”, at that time Shankukarn also wears the “Tungamala” and enters.

• Then on the right side of the “Mızhavana”, he falls on the “Vakrapada”, sits on the floor, cries, beats his chest with both hands, rubbes the fore part of “Panakettu”, dashing his head as well.

• Then also reads “अनन्तरीयं, अनन्तरीयं”, and then again gets up and falls. Then reads it whole, in this manner renders and enacts it thrice as per skill. In this manner, falls repeatedly, crawles and reaches the left of Ravan at the centre of the stage, renders “आनन्तर्यमानन्तरं” several times and in the end renders “बल”.
• Then renders “श्रृंगारहित महाराजः। कुमारं वानरमभिगच्छन्तं दृष्ट्वा महाराजेनानानाजापिता अप्यनुगता: पञ्च सेनापतयः।” firstly in “Kottotuku” (inaudible lip movements while covering the face with the hands) then clearly.

• Then renders “पञ्च सेनापतयः।” once again with getting the legs together and jumps, falls, and then “Nupurpadattil ippudu” (special way of sitting with folded legs).

• Then pulls out and starts “Kutukaliyatum” – gambling. Then renders “कुमारं वानरमभिगच्छन्तं दृष्ट्वा महाराजेनानानाजापितः” as if for himself, then gets up and renders clearly.

• Then starts from “तत्सतः” renders “Granth” (Text) and enacts, Hanuman kills them then Ravana renders and enacts the shloka “लिछ्छ त्वमहमेवनमासाद्य.....श्रणान्।।”, gets up, moves awkwardly and starts going away.

• Then, Ravan keeps listening “प्रसीदे तु प्रसीदे महाराजः। कुमारमकं निहतं श्रुत्वा क्रोधाविद्धदयः कुमारेन्द्रजिज्ञाससनस्तं वनोकसम्।।” till the “Cholliyattam” by Shankukarna and then Shankukarna goes away jumping.

• Then Ravana renders shloka “कुमारो हि कृतास्त्रयं,अवसं युधिं.....महामीपणनोज्जर।।” in the Svara – “Tarkan” and performs “Cholliyattam” in a thoughtful gesture (Bhava).

• Then Ravana, sits awaiting the arrival of Shankukarna, on which he comes jumping in circles and renders “जयतु महाराजः।।”.

• Then after Shankukarna renders “संबृत्” once, then keeps rhythm with his hands and head and renders the entire shloka “संबृतं तुमुलं युधं .....बഹः पाशेन साम्प्रतम्।।”.

• Then “तत: स वानर: शीत्रं” etc. renders in the Svara – “Tarkan”.

• Then performs Rakshasas’s “Granth” (Text) in “Muticholluk” – The person is covered with cloth and makeup is avoided. Unimportant characters are brought on the stage in this manner.
• In the end, Shankukarna turns round, jumps, walks and then “Pada Vinyaas of Chari / Kuttimutikku” (a choreographic pattern indication the conclusion of a particular piece of acting) does the termination / conclusion of the dance.

• Then Ravana sits thinks and gets up, and then “Kuttimutikkukolluk”.

THE ATTAPRAKARAM (ACTING MANUAL):

SECOND DAY OF KUTIYATTAM:

• On the second day, Shankukarna attires “Anijjukutuka” and in order to mark his entry plays Mizhavu and ties “Poyatakam”, holds the “Kuzhal” and frightened, comes running from the backstage and runs around clockwise and anti clockwise and stands.

• As on “Purappad” day, as though showing everything and actions “Kottuvilakkuka” (with his elbow). (Illustration: 89)

⇒ Granth / Text: “जयलु महाराजः। महाराज।…..तस्य ग्रहणसमयं बलमाझ्णायरितुमहाराजः।”

⇒ Performative Signs:

→ Renders stuttering. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Tarkan”. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

→ Narrates and enacts the meaning in prose order.

• Narrates: महाबलः खलु स वानरः।

• Enacts: That monkey is very strong. Why so? (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

• Narrates: तेन खलु मृणालबद्दूतिता: सालब्रक्षा:

• Enacts: He has uprooted the big Sala trees as if they were mere lotus stalks and has smashed them. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

• Narrates: मुछिन्ना भग्नो दारुपर्वतकः:

• Enacts: Play hills made of wood have been pounded by his fists. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

• Narrates: पाणितलाभ्यामभृदितानि लतागृहाणि
• Enacts: Huts made with vines and creepers have been squeezed out with his palms. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

• Narrates: नादेव विसंजीकृता: प्रमदवनपाला:
• Enacts: By his mere roars, the guards of the garden have become unconscious and fallen dead. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

• At this point Shankakarna returns to the green-room. Till this time Shankukarna would be addressing an empty seat. Ravana is supposed to be there, but, arrives only at this point.
• Then Ravana, as on the previous day, attires “Anijjukutuka”, in order to mark his entry plays Mızhavu in Svara – “Tarkan”, comes running from the backstage and Performs “Kaliyam Vecchu Tiriyyuka”, does “Abhivadyam”, sits on the “Pitham”, does fanning by “Uttariyam” and sits in a “Dhiroddhat Bhava”.
• Then Shankukara comes and stands on his left; he is shaking with fear. (Illustration: 90)
• Renders: रावणाकरः: (stuttering) - जयतु महाराजः। महाराज!..... and then -

⇒ Granth / Text: “तस्य ग्रहणसमर्थ बलमाजापतिमहति महाराजः।”
⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya.
→ Only (Mudra) Abhinaya without rendering: Please order some forces capable of catching and killing that monkey.
→ Renders the same words again and stands shaking in fear.

• Ravana actions “Kottuvilakkuka”.
⇒ Granth / Text: “तेन हि किड़कराणां सहस्रो बलमाजापय वानरग्रहणाय।”
⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Then, out of my army here, send a thousand soldiers to catch the monkey. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
→ Renders the same words again.
• Shankukarna actions “Kottuvilakkuka”.

⇒ Granth / Text: “शाङ्कुकर्णः - यदाजापविष महाराजः।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders stuttering. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: As your Majesty commands. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
→ Repeats the words. Runs around once, turns around. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

⇒ Granth / Text: “अस्मदीयमहाकृष्णरम्यमिया....किंद्रकरा दुम्योधिता।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
⇒ Renders stuttering. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Chetipanchamam”. Oh Lord, he uses trees as weapons, and in a trice he has slain our large force of soldiers with our own great trees.
→ Renders the Shloka again.

• Ravana actions “Kottuvilakkuka”.

⇒ Granth / Text: “कथ्यं हला हितं। तेन हि कुमारमकषमाजापय वानरग्रहणाय।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Then, let it be. Then bid Prince Aksha catch the monkey. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
→ Renders again.

• Shankukarna actions “Kottuvilakkuka”.

⇒ Granth / Text: “शाङ्कुकर्णः - यदाजापविष महाराजः।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders stuttering. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: As your Majesty commands. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
→ Repeats the words. He jumps around and goes to the greenroom.
• Ravana sits thinking; actions “Kottuvilakkuka”.

⇒ Granth / Text: “अवर्ष्य युधि बीराणां। महामीषमनोज्जर:।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: The prince is well trained in arms, brave, and strong. He should catch this forest-dweller perforce or slay him. In a fight between valiant men, surely, there will be either victory or death. Yet, I feel uneasy at heart that my son has to fight with a monkey.

→ Renders the shloka again.

• In the printed text shloka “अवर्ष्य युधि बीराणां। महामीषमनोज्जर:।” appears much later, when Shankukarna informs that Prince Indrajit has gone to fight the monkey and shloka “कुमारो हि कृतास्वरूपं। ते वनोकसम्।” is found in the printed text in this context.

• The position of the two shlokas are interchanged by the ‘Chakyars’ and according to the manual this is the tradition of the ‘Chakyar families’.

• Then Shankukarn also wears the “Tungamala” and enters.

• Then on the right side of the “Mizhavana”, he falls on the “Vakrapada”, sits on the floor, cries, moans, beats his chest with both hands, rubbes the fore part of “Panakettu”, dashing his head as well, he falls on the ground, rolls and sits up and stands and goes to the left of Ravana’s seat, cries obit in great sorrow.

• शाङ्कुकर्ण: - “अनन्तरीयं, अनन्तरीय”

⇒ Granth / Text: “अनन्तरीयं बलमाज्ञापथितेमहर्षि महाराजः।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders stuttering. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Emergency, quickly more forces may please be sent. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

→ Repeats the words. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
⇒ Granth / Text: राज्यः - क्रिमयथ्यिः?

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: (Sternly) Svara – “Tarkan”. What for? Has not my son Aksha gone there? Then why other soldiers should be sent there. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
→ Renders the same words again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

⇒ Granth / Text: “शाक्कुकरणः - श्रोतुमहति महाराजः। कुमारं वानस्मिस्यत्तलं…..पञ्च सेनापतयः।”
(When Shankukarna stutters “श्रोतुमहति”, it will be heard as something like “Choru-kari”, which in Malayalam means ‘Rice-Curry’; which is the example of using this character for comic relief.)
⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders stuttering. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: May your Highness be pleased to listen. When Prince Aksha was going towards the monkey, even without your Highness’s orders. The five army commanders saw him going and even without your orders they followed prince Aksha. How was that? (“Kottuvilakkuka”) → Narrates and enacts the meaning in prose order.

- Narrates: पञ्च सेनापतयः।
- Enacts: Then Shankukarna sits on the ground taking the roles of the army commanders.

⊗ As the five commanders: They ask for liquor to be brought; accept the pot of liquor, take a drinking vessel (glasses), pour liquor into the glasses, take the glass in the left hand; with the right hand take curry for eating; drink liquor and bite the curry held in the right hand; do that two or three times; give to all others also. They also drink liquor and eat curry; again pour liquor from the pot into the glasses. After repeating this, drink directly from the pot; when it is emptied the pot is thrown away; they get intoxicated; they ask for the board and coins for playing dice. The dice-board is spread; they move coins playing dice. When they were playing like this, they saw prince Aksha going along the sky for the fight.

⊗ As one commander: “There goes prince Aksha; where is he going?”
As another commander: “I say, he is going to fight someone.”; “then let us also go.”

As the five commanders: In a hurry they kick away the dice-board; quickly they tighten their belts and head-gear, string their bows, tie the quivers; all of them depart at once. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

Then Shankukarna does Mudrabhinaya – “Prince Aksha”: Renders all the words and all his lines again (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

⇒ Granth / Text: “राजन: - ततस्तत:?”

- Ravana Sits on ‘Pitham’ in a contemplative mood; then stands up; performs “Pada Vinyaas of Chari / Kuttimutikku” and goes back to the greenroom.
CHAPTER 2

SIXTH NIGHT:

THE KRAMADIPIKA (PRODUCTION MANUAL):

THIRD DAY OF KUTIYATTAM:

- Ravana, as on the previous day, attires “Anijjukutuka” and Performs “Mukhattu Nir Talikkuka” – Aachman and sprinkles water on himself; in order to mark his entry plays Mizhavu in Svara – “Tarkan”, comes running from the backstage and Performs “Kaliyam Vecchu Tiriyuka”, does “Abhivadyam”, sits on the “Pitham”, does fanning by “Uttariyam” and sits in the former mood (Sthayi).
- Then in the reflective mood (Sthayi) and actions “Kottuvilakkuka” - for the stopping of the Mizhav playing.
- Then renders from the “bhora! कष्टम्” with representation, then “Cholliyattukka” for shloka “अचिन्त्या मनसा लड़का.…..प्रविष्टः किल वानरः।।” and “Lankavarna Aatoo” - describing ‘Lanka’ through gestures.
- Then “सहिते सुरबानके” and acts out the sentiment of ‘Worthless monkey without any fear has indeed entered’.
- Then “Cholliyattukka” for shloka “जित्वा त्रेलोकयमाजी…..कपिविकृतिच्छद्धमना तन्मय स्यात्।।”, enacts “Patpurappad” in brief, does all the “Attam” for “गर्बिलेन मया”, then also acts out the “Kailasodharanam” for “क्रात्त्वा केलासमीशं” and “Parvativiraham” for “साक्षाकमक्ष्य देव्या”. After all the acting is done, renders the latter half and then goes to the backstage.
- Vibhishana attires “Anijjukutuka” - Gets Ready with Make-up and Costume.
* ENTRY OF VIBHISHANA:

⇒ VIBHISHANA’S PRESCRIBED ATTIRE / GET-UP:

→ MAKE-UP: (Illustration: 91)

- Face: Pacca (Green paint) – Cutti of rice paste.
- Tilak – Urdhvapundra (‘U’ – shaped).
- The legs are painted with rice and a line drawn over it with a finger to create the form / marked of an anklet.

→ COSTUME: (Illustration: 92)

- Head gear: Kuzhal, Panakettu and Vasikam.
- Chopputhuni, Kuzhayam, Matta, Thattu, Poyatakam (ties the ends of his lower garments), Uttariyam (on his waist), Kaupin.

→ ORNAMENTS:

- Vala (Chudi), Katak (Kada), Tolvala, Pozhumpu (Kazhutharam), Channavuram, Marmala, Katisutra.
- Kundalam, Chevippuvu, Pilippattam, Chuttithuni, Pinmara.

→ PROPERTY:

- Gada (Mace).

- He makes salutations in the green-room and sprinkles water on his face.
- Then performs “Vayikkku” - The curtain is held up and the Nambiar plays Mizhavu. Along with Mizhavu, other instruments / the orchestra Kuzhitalam, Sankh, Edakka, Kuzhal etc. are also played for the entry of the character - Vibhishana.
* MARAYIL KRIYA:

- Vibhishana holds a “Gada” (Mace) in his hand performs “Kalappurattu Natakkuka” - A special movement pattern to indicate going from one place to another place.
- He gestures “Mutikkuka” - The close of his action.
- Performs “Mukhattu Nir Talikkuka” – Aachman and sprinkles water on himself.
- Performs “Kaliyam Vecchu Tiriyuka” – Stylised movements done facing the Mizhavu before entering the stage. First keeps the feet in the parallel position, places the right foot forwards and then brings it back to the original position. These are repeated similarly with the left foot. Then he turns around, keeps each foot in front and then stands in front of the lamp. This series of five movements is called ‘Panchapadavinyasa’.

* (ततः प्रविशति विभीषणः)

- Then the curtain is removed and he stands holding the poyatakam in his left hand with an displeased expression “Aha! I feel very unhappy. Why so? I am now going to see elder brother Ravan.” and actions “Kottuvilakkuka” - for the stopping of the Mizhav playing.
- Then starts “Cholliyattukka” from “अहो तु खलु”, which renders in Svara – “Chetipanchamam”.
- Then performs “Kalappurattu Natakkuka” - A special movement pattern to indicate going from one place to another place. Then he approaches and on seeing Ravan seated, folds his hands and approaches with “जयतु”. Alongwith “Granth” (Text), he renders “एष एष उपपविशामि” and then on the left moves the “Pitham” with his feet and goes from the left and sits.
- Then he renders “यदानापपति महाराजः”, performs “Kalappurattu Natakkuka” and goes to the backstage.
- Hanuman attires “Anijjukutuka” - Gets Ready with Make-up and Costume.
ENTRY OF HANUMAN:

⇒ HANUMAN’S PRESCRIBED ATTIRE / GET-UP:

⇒ MAKE-UP: (Illustration: 93)

• Face: Tadi – White Beard (Made by ‘Cotton’).

• Caliyam – Paint on his face and on the brow is a mark of a cluster of conches.

• The legs are painted with rice and a line drawn over it with a finger to create vertical and horizontal lines.

⇒ COSTUME: (Illustration: 94)

• Head gear: Makuta - Sculpted in wood on which cotton is pasted, Kuzhal and Vasikam.

• Chopputhuni, Kuzhayam (made by white ‘Cotton’ cloth on which is stuck white ‘Cotton Wool’), Matta, Thattu, Poyatakam (ties the ends of his lower garments), Kaupin, Valah (White Tail).

⇒ ORNAMENTS:

• Katak (Kada), Pozhumpu (Kazhutharam), Channavuram, Katisutra.

• Kundalam, Chevippuvu, Pilippattam, Chuttithuni.

• He makes salutations in the green-room and sprinkles water on his face.

• Then Hanuman ties “Poytakam” and uses the cloth with both hands under the ridge on the wrist to puts it askew and wraps around. At both ends of the cloth two Rakshasas holds it and covers the head with the cloth.

• Then performs “Vayikkku” - The curtain is held up and the Nambiar plays Mizhavu. Alongwith Mizhavu, other instruments / the orchestra Kuzhitalam, Sankh, Edakka, Kuzhal etc. are also played for the entry of the character - Hanuman.
MARAYIL KRIYA:

- Both Rakshasas hold and drag Hanuman, the three of them run around and all the four corners of the stage. Hanuman roars and tries to throw them off-balance in each corner. Then after everything is done, all of them turn round in a circle.
- Then Hanuman “Mizhavanakkal” – stands near where the “Mizhavu” is placed and gestures “Mutikkuka” - The close of his action.
- Then Hanuman and Vibhishana (Walk in “Kalappurattu Nattakkuka”) both perform “Kaliyam Vecchu Tiriyuka” – Stylised movements done facing the Mizhavu before entering the stage. First keeps the feet in the parallel position, places the right foot forwards and then brings it back to the original position. These are repeated similarly with the left foot. Then he turns around, keeps each foot in front and then stands in front of the lamp. This series of five movements is called ‘Panchapadavinyasa’.

* (तन् प्रविषलि हनुमान्)

- Then the curtain is removed and Hanuman goes to the right and Vibhishana to the left. Hanuman roars and tightens his fist and shows the “Praveshikam” through clenches fist by “Musti Mudra” and actions “Kottuvilakkuka” - for the stopping of the Mizhav playing.
- Then Rakshasa renders “आ: इत: इत:” and goes to the backstage.
- Then Hanuman shows “Praveshikam” even though his hands are tied up and then unties the long piece of cloth from Hanuman’s hands.
- Then Hanuman stands infront of the lamp in a special stance “Cunikakuru” - Left leg in front, right leg at the back, the legs being quite apart and ready for action. This stance is taken for Vira, Raudra and Adbhuta Rasas. When Hanuman performs “Cunikakuru”, the characteristic posture that his body assumes is called “Cunikakkuttil Nilkkuka”.
- Then Hanuman does “Vanar Stobha” - Monkey traits, like scratching various parts of the body, smelling the tip of his tail, booing etc.
• He contemplates; renders and enacts the shloka “नेवां धर्षितस्तनें.....राक्षस्स्मिद्रूष्या।” in Svara – “Takan”.

• Starts rendering “स्ववं ग्रहणमाप्नः”, “Udhyanbhanjanam” (destruction of the garden) should be shown with acting; including the part from the capture to tying up presented well through acting.

• After the shloka “नेवां धर्षितस्तनें.....राक्षस्स्मिद्रूष्या।” is completed, Ravan sits in the centre. Vibhishan hands folded, sits on the seat to the left and Hanuman stands to the right, looks up at the part on the left and gives a description of the seated Ravan.

• As he is not honoured by offering a seat, he winds his tail, makes a pile and sits on top. Then, in the right corner, without showing his back to Nangiaramma, takes the “Pitham” (Stool) forward, with most of his back turned towards Ravan, he sits on the top of “Pitham”, keeps it on the knee of his left leg, threads his fingers, turns toward the left and arrogantly and disobediently looks at him and gets up immediately and “Panchapuchchhamatakki” (In a stance with great humility), covers his mouth with both hands and most disobediently renders “Granth” - text “भो: राजन्”; after rendering which he sits as before.

• Looking again and again, rendering the same thing again and again, “Have you made / performed “Tiloday” (Ritual oblation) for your son's death?” is communicated through “Mudrabhinaya” – handgestures and then sits.

• Then he starts counting Ravans heads and hands, does “Vanar Stobh” and repeating this during every silence after “Granth” - text.

• Then Ravan looks at Hanuman and on perceiving his monkey form, derisively puts his leg in front and looks critically, and renders “किमस्य तत् कर्म?”.

• After the sequence is over, Hanuman gets up from his seat and does “Panchapuchchhamatakki” (In a stance with great humility) as before and goes closer and with contemptuous posture, mouth closed with both hands, with serious contempt renders “Granth” – text “एवंविवेयं भवता” and looks on disobediently as before.
• In this manner, when the sequence is completed, Shankukarna (with head covered) renders “यदान्यायवति महाराजः” and then renders “इति इति”.

• On the completion of Ravana’s “Granth”, Hanuman gets up from “Pitham” and starts walking away but due to listening of Ravana’s “Granth”, he renders “अयमसि” and goes closer to Ravana and stands in front with a strut.

• Then once Ravana’s “Granth” is finished, Hanuman starts “Cholliyattukka” from “अचिरादृ द्रश्यसि”, which is rendered in Svara – “Tarkan”.

• Then on completion of Ravana's “Granth”, without joining hands shows the clenches fist in his gesturing and walks as “Marayil” in a circle once.

• Then unties the “Poytakam” and stands to the right of “Mizhavana” and then “Pada Vinyaas of Chari / Kuttimutikku” (a choreographic pattern indication the conclusion of a particular piece of acting) does the termination / conclusion of the dance.

• Then Vibhishana and Ravana perform the “Kutiyattam” between them. Finally, Vibhishan renders “अहंवेष यास्यामि” in Svara – “Chetipanchamam”.

• Then descends from the seat and stands on the ground. Then “Cholliyattukka” for shloka “शासितोहः त्यथा राजन् !.....च यथा कार्यं तथा कुरु ।”, which is rendered in Svara – “Dukhagandharam”, then sits in “Nupurpadattil irippu” (special way of sitting with folded legs) and bows.

• Without looking at this, Ravana stands at his seat. Vibhishan takes “Gada” - mace in his hand, sways it and showing “Ambarayanam” (Representation of aerial travel, standing on the ground or on the top of a stool, moving the legs in a circular manner) with his army shown through the aerial route.

• Then puts “Pitham” in front of the lamp, stands up on it, sways his mace, then keeps it to his side, renders “अयमिद्वानीपू” in Svara – “Shrikanthi” and then renders and enacts the title shloka “अश्वं तं कमललोचनमुप्राप्यां.....नन्दं निशाचरकुंश पुनरुक्षिप्ये ।”.

• Then becomes “Gadapani”, with four Rakshasas does the “Ambarayanam” in such a manner as to be able to see Shri Rama, and then he climbs down, unties the “Uttariyam” and then “Kuttimutikkukolluk”.

Then Ravan a renders own “Granth” - text and then shows as if to say ‘I must go to protect the city’, gets up and performs “Vattatil Cati Nattakkuka” - A circular movement pattern to indicate moving from one place to another distant place and then “Pada Vinyaas of Charil / Kuttimutikku” (a choreographic pattern indicating the conclusion of a particular piece of acting) does the termination / conclusion of the dance.

Then “Mutiyakkittaa (special rhythmic patterns are played on the Mizhavu and it indicates the end of the Kutiyattam) is also to be played.

THE ATTAPRAKARAM (ACTING MANUAL):

⇒ THIRD DAY OF KUTIYATTAM:

- Ravana, as on the previous day, attires “Anijjukutuka” and Performs “Mukhattu Nir Talikkuka”; in order to mark his entry plays Mizhavu in Svara – “Tarkan”, comes running from the backstage and Performs “Kaliyan Vecchu Tiriyyuka”, does “Abhivadyam”, sits on the “Pitham”, does fanning by “Uttariyam” and sits in the former mood (Sthayi).
- Then in the reflective mood (Sthayi), contemplates and actions “Kottuvilakkuka”.

⇒ Granth / Text: “रावणः - (विचित्रच) भोः! कष्टम्! ”
⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders slowly in a lowered voice.
→ Only (Mudra) Abhinaya without rendering: Oh, what a pity. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
→ Renders the same line again.

⇒ Granth / Text: “अचित्यामनस्चलिङ्गकाद्रिस्त्रिप्रविष्टः किल चानरः।।”
⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Tarkan”. My enemies, the Devas, in order to insult me, even if they were to come teaming with the Asuras, cannot even visualise this prestigious Lanka. What is the reason for that? How is this Lanka?
“Lanka Varnanam” – Description of Lanka: Entrance, Towers, Walls, Moats, Arsenals, Seven-storied mansions, Moats filled with weapons, Soldiers stationed inside who are ready for the battle with their belts and head-gears properly tightened, and standing ready for action. In such a well-guarded Lanka, they will not venture to insult me. Not only that, due to fear they would not even think about it in their minds. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

Narrates and enacts the meaning in prose order.

• Narrates: बानरः दशश्रीवं अभिभूष्य प्रविष्टः किल ।
• Enacts: Into Lanka, which is like this, a worthless monkey without any fear has indeed entered, to annoy Dasagriva - Ravana. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

Renders the second half again.

He then speaks the words “अपि च” (not only that).

* EPISODE: KAILASODHARANAM – THE LIFTING OF KAILASA MOUNTAIN; PARVATI VIRAHAM - THE QUARREL BETWEEN SHIVA AND PARVATI:

⇒ Granth / Text: “जिथा त्रैलोक्यमानो…कपिलवृक्किष्ठमस्ना तनम स्मरात् ।”
⇒ Performative Signs:
⇒ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Tarkan”.
⇒ Only (Mudra) Abhinaya without rendering: After conquering the three worlds as also the Devas and Asuras in battle, getting proud (Illustration: 95), going to Kailasa Mountain (Illustration: 96-97-98-99) and shaking it (Illustration: 100-101-102-103) along with Lord Shiva (Illustration: 104), his consort and the attending Ganas, obtaining blessing from him and then being cursed by Shri Parvati (Illustration: 105) and Nandin because I did not show them due respect; would that curse be working on me now in the guise of a monkey? (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
⇒ Narrates and enacts the meaning in prose order.
Narrates: मया आज्ञा ससुरदसुरुं त्रैलोक्यं जित्या।

Enacts: In the war, I conquered the three worlds, occupied by Devas and Asuras. How was it? How am I? (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

Narrates: गांवितेन (Illustration: 106)

Enacts: I was filled with pride. How was that? As instructed by my mother I went to north Gokarna Ashrama. I made Lord Shiva pleased by doing penance. I got the boon “unkillable”. Then with my younger brothers who also had obtained boons, I went to Lanka and drove away Vaishravana from there. I entered Lanka and I was crowned as the king and lived happily. Then I told the Rakshasas to get ready and march for war.

He performs “Patapurppadu” - The army gets ready and starts for the war, in the sitting posture itself.

“In this manner I started for the war and along with the army I went to Svarga and obtained victory over the Devas; from there I went to Patala and conquered the Asuras and Nagas (Serpents) and I conquered the kings of the Earth. In this manner I became very proud by conquering all these in the three worlds. Not only that. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)”

Narrates: कैलासेः क्रान्तिः स्वगणपरिवृत्ते इश्नेमें देव्यं साक्षमकम्य।

Enacts: Then lifting up Kailasa shook up the mountain where Lord Shiva and his consort were surrounded by the Bhutaganas. How was that? While I was happily living in this Lanka one day (Illustration: 107 and 108-109), after finishing my bath, and worship, I took my food and I sat on the throne (Illustration: 110) in the audience-hall with the regal paraphernalia like the Umbrella, the peacock-feather fans, whisks made of Yak-hair etc. At that time a messenger sent by Vaishravana came infront of me (Illustration: 111) and from him when I heard about the plan to murder me (Illustration: 112), I got wild and cut off his head with a sword and killed him (Illustration: 113). I announced: “I am starting from hear immediately. I shall conquer all the three worlds and shall kill the guardians of the four-quarters and shall send them to the abode of Yama”. I ordered the army to start for a war at once: “Oh Rakshasas, all of you start immediately to go for a war with Alaka” - the capital of Vaishravana.
⊗ Then as Rakshasas: Shows gestures for the marching of the army for war.

* PATAPURAPPADU–THE ARMY GETS READY AND STARTS FOR THE WAR:

⇒ As the commander of the army: Tightens his belt and head gear, touches the sword and shield and touches his head (Salutes); shakes the sword and shield, walks around once, jumps and stands in front of the lamp, holds the sword and the shield in the armpit and salutes: “What did his Majesty say? That every one should start for the war, is it? So be it”. And does “Chavitti Thecchu” (Kalaripayat Movement) - Takes the sword and shield held in the armpit, stamps on the floor and stretches the leg, walks around once and stands in front of the lamp: “You Rakshasas there, all of you start for the war quickly”.
⇒ Then as one of the Rakshasas: Tightens his belt and head gear, takes a step after stamping on the ground and stretching the leg; salutes the sword; holds the shield in the left hand and the sword in the right, walks around once, jumps to the front, gestures: “Go and bring the horse”; seeing the horse being brought, takes hold of the bridle and jumps on to the horse; shows the gait of the horse, turns round and starts.
⇒ Then as another Soldier: Tightens his belt and head gear, shows gesture for a spear; stamps, stretches the leg and jumps, and touches the spear kept on the ground and touches his head in salutation; takes the spear with both the hands; stands up and faces the lamp; throws the spear up in the air and shows catching it when it comes down; walks around once and jumps and stands before the lamp; gestures “bring the elephant”.
⇒ Then as the elephant: Lies down on the side; then touches the elephant and touches his head in salutation; mounts the elephant and shows the gait of the elephant; turns around and shows that he has started.
⇒ As another soldier : He tightens his girdle and head dress; takes a bow, throws it up and catches it; walks around once, strings the bow, twangs it, fixes the quiver at his back, takes an arrow and shakes it, holds it in his hand; walks around once and gestures “bring the chariot”. Stands waiting for it; sees the chariot being brought; catches hold of the charioteer’s hand and lifts himself up into the chariot, holds the bow and the arrow in his hands; walks around and stands.

⇒ Then as the commander: Holds the sword and shield and walks around once. Goes near the king, keeping the sword and shield in his armpits salutes and gestures that the army is ready to march. Salutes and stands aside deferentially.

⇒ Then as Ravana (Sitting on Pitham): “What did you say; everyone has started, is it?” Contemplates: “All right, we shall start”. Getting up from the seat: Tightening his belt and head gear, stamping on the floor and stretching the leg, and jumps up; takes the sword, touches his head after touching the sword, in salutation; throws it up and catches it. Walks around once, stands and gestures: “Bring the chariot”. He watches the chariot being brought.

⇒ Gets into the chariot, holding the hand of the charioteer. Shows the movement of the chariot. Stands erect. Then to the mnemonics ta ki ta, ta ki ta, walks around twice in a jumping gait, and again stands erect. Gestures that the ‘Umbrella’ is held and walks around once holding it. Shows gesture for Yak-whisks and waves it.

⇒ Walks around twice playing the ‘Chenda’. Walks around twice playing the ‘Maddalam’. Then he acts the same for other similar instruments like ‘Edakka’, ‘Udukku’, ‘Timila’ and ‘Elattalam’ (Cymbals); and for various musical instruments, the ‘Kombu’, ‘Kuzhal’, ‘Shankha’ (Conch); walks around twice for each item.

⇒ Then walks around showing preparation of betel leaves for chewing. Then taking a spittoon walks around collecting spittle. In the middle of these walks around once, simply waving the hand. Then walks around showing the gesture for sound spreading all around. Gestures that the army has started in this manner. (Illustration: 114-115-116-117)

⇒ After the army has reached Alakapuri, they take up position. Following the rhythm for the mnemonics ki ti threm, ki ti threm, ki ti ki ti threm threm, jumps to the right and to the left. Shows the gesture for elephant when jumping to one side and when jumping to the other side shows the gesture for taking up position. Similarly for horses, chariots, infantry who have the weapons bow and arrow, sword and shield, spear, mace etc. Jumping about like that, they take up positions.
• I went to Alkapuri with the army and challenged Vaishravana for a fight. (Illustration: 118-119-120)

⊗ Then as Vaishravana: When he is sitting happily (Illustration: 121), he hears that Ravana has come and is challenging for a fight. Gestures: “Oh soldiers all of you get ready for a war”. Gets down from the seat and gestures that he is starting for the fight, along with the army.

⊗ Then as Vaishravana (Sitting on the Pitham): Gestures tightening of the belt and head-gear; takes the bow and fixes the quiver and riding a chariot reaches the battle field. The war drums are beaten. He challenges Ravana for a fight. Gestures how both challenge each other.

⊗ As Ravana: When we are engaged in a fight like this, the Yaksha army of Vaishravana gets frightened and runs away. At this, the army of Ravana runs towards Vaishravana and drags him out of his chariot and throws him on the ground (Illustration: 122-123). There is the demonstration of victory and then they capture the ‘Pushpaka Vimana’ (aerial chariot) of Vaishravana.

• At this juncture Ravana performs the abhinaya known as the lifting of Kailasa.

• EPISODE: KAILASODHARANAM – THE LIFTING OF KAILASA MOUNTAIN:

⇒ As Ravana: Then I got into the Pushpaka Vimana and when flying in the sky (Illustration: 124), the flight got obstructed due to the Kailasha Mountain on the way (Illustration: 125).

⇒ As Ravana (Sitting on “Pitham”): “Oh Pilot, why is the plane not flying?” (Illustration: 126) “What did the pilot say?”

⇒ As the Pilot (Illustration: 127): “Oh Lord, the plane is caught in the peaks of the Kailasha Mountain”. (Illustration: 128)

⇒ As Ravana (Sitting on Pitham) (Illustration: 129): “Did the pilot say like that?”; “Then tell the mountain to move off without obstructing my path”.

⇒ As the Pilot (Standing on Pitham): “Your Majesty, Lord Shankara is sitting on the top of the mountain. Because of that, the Kailasha Mountain does not move a bit.”
⇒ Then as Ravana (Sitting): “Then will it obstruct my way? Who is this Shankara?” So saying gets out of the plane; goes to the foot of the mountain and looks around.

(Illustration: 131-132)

* MUDRABHINAY: “PARVATVARNAM”-DESCRIPTION OF THE MOUNTAIN:

⇒ This mountain is not an insignificant one; going to both sides slowly observes carefully (Illustration: 133-134-135-136) the vastness (Illustration: 137-138), the height (Illustration: 139-140-141-142), the crevices, the caves (Illustration: 143), the peaks (Illustration: 144), the valleys, the clouds on the mountain top falling as rain, water flowing down in rills and rivulets, which in confluence turn into rivers flowing down, forming water falls, and winding rivers with ripples, whirlpool, sandbanks, etc. I see the plains on the top, huge trees with curved branches, leaves, flowers, fruits, creepers encircling the trees, tap roots and so on. I see several animals such as the elephant, the lion, the tiger; the bear etc. moving about freely enjoy life. I see several birds such as the cuckoo, the parrot, the dove, the eagle etc. I see caves in which the lion takes shelter. I see serpents and pythons.

⇒ “I have not seen such a big mountain. I should make this lofty mountain move and give room for my “Pushpakam” to move on without any hindrance. I must lift this mountain and throw it away.” Tightens the belt and head gear and gets ready. I strain all his nerves to lift the “Kailasa Mountain”.

⇒ As Ravana: Punches the mountain (Illustration: 145-46), lifts it up, throws the Kailasa Mountain up and catches it when it comes down.

(Illustration: 147-148-149-150-151-152-153)

⇒ “Having lifted Kailasa Mountain, I tossed it into the air, held it in my left hand as it came down. Tossed it up again and held in my right hand. (Illustration: 154-155) Tossed again higher by the right hand. After a while it returned and I held it in my left hand. Tossing the mountain higher and higher and holding it when it fell in one of my twenty hands. I waited for some time. As the mountain flew up very high and it disappeared in the sky, I decided to have a drink and snack. I commanded my attendant to bring them. He brought a peg full of intoxicating drink, cups and pungent beef steak. I poured the drink into the cups, drank, chewed the beef and steak, and enjoyed drinking. (He enacts the drinking spree) Then I thought of playing dice. The materials for the game of dice were brought as ordered. I went on playing, watching in between for the mountains’ decent.”
⇒ In this way I lifted up the Kailasa Mountain. The Kailasa Mountain is the abode of Lord Shiva and Parvati and the Bhutaganas.

* EPISODE: PARVATI VIRAHAM - THE QUARREL BETWEEN

SHIVA AND PARVATI:

⇒ As Ravana (Sitting on Pitham): At this time Lord Shiva was sitting in Kailasa spending the time happily with Shri Parvati on his left thigh. (Illustration: 156-157-158)
⇒ As Lord Shiva (Sitting): Lifts Parvati up and keeps her on his lap. (Illustration: 159-160-161) He is watching her amorously.
⇒ As Parvati (Sitting) (Illustration: 162-163): In the stance of a ‘Nayika’, tucking the end of the ‘Poyatakam’ in the waist, sits. Parvati also in an amorous mood looks at the Lord Shiva from head to foot. Her eye gets stuck on Shiva’s braided hair. She watches for a while and pointes at his braid and enquires - ⇒ Mudrabhinaya: “Oh My Lord, What is it that I see on your head?”
⇒ As Lord Shiva (Sitting on Pitham): The tuck of the ‘Poyatakam’ is removed.
⇒ Mudrabhinaya: He thinks, “What shall I tell her; all right. I will cheat her”. “Oh Parvati have you not heard that there is water on my head. It is only water.”
⇒ As Parvati (Sitting in the manner of the goddess): “Oh husband, I see a face there.
What is the reason for it?”
⇒ As Lord Shiva (Sitting): “Oh Parvati, it is not a face there. It is a lotus flower.”
(Illustration: 164)
⇒ As Parvati (Sitting): “Oh Lord, I see curls of hair on top of the brow, what is the reason for it?” (Illustration: 165)
⇒ As Lord Shiva (Sitting): (Taken aback awhile, but regaining confidence.) “Oh Parvati.
They are not curls. They are rows of bees hovering about.” (Illustration: 166-167-168)
⇒ As Parvati (Sitting): “Oh My husband. I see two eyebrows. How come?”

(Illustration: 169)

⇒ As Lord Shiva (Sitting): (Though a bit perplexed, regaining composure.) “They are not eye-brows, Oh Parvati. They are waves in the water.”

⇒ As Parvati (Sitting): (With strong suspicion about the veracity of her husband’s reply.) “No, my Lord. I see two eyes there. What is the reason for that?”

⇒ As Lord Shiva (Sitting): (Much worried about the searching question, manages to say.) “Oh Parvati. They are not eyes; they are two fish moving in the water.”

(Illustration: 170-171)

⇒ As Parvati (Sitting): (Thoroughly dissatisfied with the explanation.) “Oh My husband, I see two breasts there. What is the reason?” (Illustration: 172)

⇒ As Lord Shiva (Sitting): (Though appearing crestfallen, quickly recovers to answer.) “Oh Parvati, they are not breasts. They are two Chakravaka birds.” (Illustration: 173)

⇒ As Parvati (Sitting): (Thoroughly dissatisfied.) “He is cheating me. I can’t live with him; therefore I shall go to my father’s house”. (Illustration: 174-175-176)

⇒ Mudrabhinaya: “Oh maids let us go to my father’s house”; gesturing like that, and catching hold of the hands of two maids, gets up from the ‘Pitham’. Her face registers one after the other, her love for Lord Shiva, sorrow at the impending separation from the husband, and jealousy towards Ganga, who sits on her husband’s head.

⇒ Slowly moving away by the left side of the ‘Pitham’, stands upon the ‘Pitham’, shows the gait of ‘Nayika’, then slowly the whole body starts shaking. Then along with the other moods registering on the face, fear also is exhibited. The intensity of the shaking slowly increases even as the various moods are seen on the face. Due to the intensity of the shaking the hair gets untied and falls down and it is held in one hand; the brassier which is loosened is held by the right hand. The intensity of the shaking increases further. She gets down on the floor and tightly embraces Lord Shiva. (Illustration: 177)

⇒ As Lord Shiva (Sitting on Pitham): Sees the mountain shaking. With the toe of the foot presses down.
• When only “Parvati Viraham” is separately performed, abhinaya is based on a benedictory shloka, which is –

मौ्ल मनु मा्नजर ! जलम् कि वकन्त्रमम्‌भोराम्‌
कि नीलालक्षणकामका, भ्रमरिका, कि भूलते वीचिका !
नेत्रे कि शफरी किमु स्तनयुगं प्रेरवत्साहदव्यम्‌
साशंकामिति वज्ञचयन्‌ गिरिसुतां गंगाधरः पातु वः।।

• In this manner I threw up Mount Kailas with Shiva, Parvati and Bhutaganas and caught it in my hands when it came down. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

• Narrates: तस्मात् प्रसाद लब्धा (Illustration: 178)

• Enacts: I got blessings from Lord Shiva. What is the reason for that? His beloved, Parvati, got angry on seeing Ganga on his head. She started to her father’s house along with her maids. At that time I had shaken Kailasa. Because of that Parvati got frightened and was unable to proceed and came back and embraced the Lord. Hence, he was pleased and appeared before me. He blessed and presented me with the sword, Candrahasa and disappeared. At that time I saluted him and accepted the sword Candrahasa. At his manner Lord Shiva blessed me. Not only that. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

• Narrates: पुनः अनादृत्वादृ असुत्या नन्दिना च ताभ्याः शापं च दत्ते।।

• Enacts: Then, since I did not show any respect to Parvati or Nandikeswar, both of them got angry and cursed me. How was that? : I saluted Lord Shiva and accepted the Candrahasa from him and started from there. While going Parvati appeared before me saying, “Oh Ravana, please accept a boon from me”. I told her “I would not accept boons from women, you go away”. At this Parvati got angry and cursed me saying “Oh Ravana, you will meet with your destruction on account of a woman”and she disappeared. She told Nandin: “you go and give a curse to Ravana”. At this, Nandikeshvara appeared before me in the form of a monkey and said “Oh Ravana, you take a boon from me”. I felt ashamed on seeing him and told him: “Oh, monkey I will not take a boon from you”. I mocked and laughed at him. At that he got angry and said: “Oh Ravana, you will not accept a boon from me because I am a monkey, is it? Monkeys are insignificant, is it? Then let great harm befall you on account of a monkey”. He disappeared cursing like this. In this manner, because I did not care for both of them, they got angry and cursed me. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

- Narrates:

- Enacts: Will that be happening now in the guise of this monkey? (“Kottuvilakkuka”) → Ravana recites the entire second half of the shloka and retires to the green-room.

* ENTRY OF VIBHISHANA:

- Vibhishana attires “Anijjukutuka” - Gets Ready with Make-up and Costume. The curtain is held up and the Nambiar plays Mizhavu for the entry of Vibhishana.
- Vibhishana holds a “Gada” (Mace) in his hand performs “Kalappurattu Natakkuka”.

* (ततः प्रविशति विभीषणः)

- Then the curtain is removed and he stands holding the poyatakam in his left hand with an displeased expression “Aha! I feel very unhappy. Why so? I am now going to see elder brother Ravan.” and actions “Kottuvilakkuka”.

⇒ Granth / Text: “विभीषणः - (सविन्ध्याम) अहो तु खलु महाराजस्य विपरीता चुन्द्रः संवृत्ता।”
⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Alas how perverse has the king’s mind surely become. Why is it so?
→ Renders the line again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
⇒ Granth / Text: “मयोः को मैथिली…..सुहृदः शोककारणात्।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Chetipanchamam”. He has been told many times by me, “You better give back Sita to him Rama.” He however does not listen to me, causing misery to his friends and he does not listen to me.
→ Renders shloka again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

- He then walks in “Kalappurattu Natakkuka” and goes back to the green-room. He then re-enters along with Ravana. Ravana sits on ‘Pitham’. Vibhishana goes to the left of the ‘Pitham’ and actions “Kottuvilakkuka”.

⇒ Granth / Text: “विभीषणः - (उपेत्य) जयतु महाराजः।”
⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Victory to the king!
→ Renders the line again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

⇒ Granth / Text: “रावणः - विभीषणः ! एहौह ! उपविशा !”
⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Oh Vibhishana, come, sit down.
→ Renders the line again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

⇒ Granth / Text: “विभीषणः - एष एष उपविशामि !”
⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: (Salutes) Yes, Yes, I shall sit here. (sits on another ‘Pitham’)
→ Renders the line again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
⇒ Granth / Text: “राजण: - विभीषण! निर्विभीषणिनिविभीषणिनिविभीषणिनिविभीषण लक्ष्यए! ”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Oh Vibhishana, you look a bit depressed.
→ Renders the line again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

⇒ Granth / Text: “विभीषण: - निर्वेद एवं खल्चनुक्षा कर्णिन ज्ञानवाणिप्रतिभात्य भूत्यजनन्य।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Depression is natural in a servant, who serves a master who disregards well meant words.
→ Renders the line again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

⇒ Granth / Text: “राजण: - छिद्रतामेण कथा। त्य्यथ: ताब्दु वानरमानय।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Cut that story out. You too go quickly and bring that monkey here.
→ Renders the line again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

⇒ Granth / Text: “विभीषण: - यदाजापयति महाराजः! ”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: As your Highness commands.
→ Renders the line again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

- Then getting up from the ‘Pitham’, walks in “Kalappurattu Natakku” and goes to the greenroom. Then Ravana also goes to the greenroom. He is still supposed to be on the stage, but, stands aside to make entry of Hanuman.
ENTRY OF HANUMAN:

- Hanuman attires “Anijjukutuka” - Gets Ready with Make-up and Costume. Then Hanuman ties “Poytakam” and uses the cloth with both hands under the ridge on the wrist to put it askew and wraps around. At both ends of the cloth two Rakshasas hold it and cover the head with the cloth. Then the curtain is held up and the Nambiar plays Mizhavu for the entry of Hanuman.
- Both Rakshasas hold and drag Hanuman, the three of them run around and all the four corners of the stage. Hanuman roars and tries to throw them off-balance in each corner. Then after everything is done, all of them turn round in a circle.
- Then Hanuman and Vibhishana walk in “Kalappurattu Natakkaa”.

(तत: प्रविष्णति हनुमानः)

- Then the curtain is removed and Hanuman goes to the right and Vibhishana to the left. Hanuman roars and tightens his fist and shows the “Praveshikam” through clenches fist by “Musti Mudra” and actions “Kottuvilakkuka”. (Illustration: 179)
- Then Rakshasa renders “आ: इं इं:” and goes to the backstage.
- Then Hanuman shows “Praveshikam” even though his hands are tied up and then unties the long piece of cloth from Hanuman’s hands.
- Then Hanuman stands infront of the lamp in a special stance “Cunikakuru” - Left leg in front, right leg at the back, the legs being quite apart and ready for action. (Illustration: 180)
- Then Hanuman does “Vanar Stobha” - Monkey traits, like scratching various parts of the body, smelling the tip of his tail, booing etc. (Illustration: 181)
- He contemplates and –

⇒ Granth / Text: “हनुमानः - नेवाहं ध्यात्सत्सते. . . . . . . राक्षसेश्विद्विष्ण्या ।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
  → Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Takan”.
  → Narrates and enacts the meaning in prose order.
• Narrates: अहं तेन दुरात्तमना नैत्रात्तेन न धर्षितं।
• Enacts: That evil minded Rakshasas did not capture me. ("Kottuvilakkuka")

• Narrates: स्वयं ग्रहणमाप्तः;
• Enacts: I allowed myself to be caught. How was that?
• He shows by gestures the destruction of the garden. “After seeing Sitadevi, I started on my return journey. Then I thought, “if I were to depart then it would be improper; the Raksasas would make fun of me. So I should not go”. He enacts thinking again: “I shall destroy this garden”; he plucks a shoot and drops it one the northern side as an offering to Lord Ganesha to ward-off obstacles. He uproots trees and throws them away; squeezes out by his palms the huts made of creepers and vines; play-hills are smashed. He runs around half a dozen times roaring; looks to both sides a couple of times; he sees two Rakshasas sleeping there (Illustration: 182). He uproots a tree and is about to smash them to death. Then he thinks: “It is not proper to kill one who is asleep”. He sits on the ground and ties the beard of one to that of the other (Illustration: 183). He ties the hair in the arm pits of one to the beard of the other. He removes their weapons and keeps them away. Then he roars like a lion.
• The Rakshasas wake up; they look for their weapons and rush at Hunuman. He uproots a tree and with that he clubs them to death. At that time he sees Rakshasas running to Ravana and informing him that the garden has been destroyed. Then Ravana sends many soldiers. He kills them all. Then he sees seven sons of the Ministers coming to fight him. He plucks a tree and kills them all. Then he sees five commanders of the army coming and he beats them to death with a crow-bar. Then Prince Aksha comes flying in the sky and starts showering arrows. Hanuman jumps on to the aerial car. (For this he shows ‘Ambarayanam’, flight in the sky, standing on a stool). He destroys the horses and the charioteer. Then he gestures that he has caught hold of Price Aksha. He gets down from the stool and standing on the ground, he gestures that he punched the prince to death. Then he sees prince Indrajit coming. They both fight. He sees Indrajit shooting the Brahmastra. He contemplates, then gestures: “Oh let it be”. He gets hit by the Brahmastra and becomes incapacitated. He walks around and sits on the ground.
• In this manner, of my own accord, I allowed myself to be captured. ("Kottuvilakkuka")
• Narrates: राक्षसेशादिदृश्यः
• Enacts: Due to my desire to see the Rakshasas King. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

→ Then renders the second half of the shloka again and goes back to the greenroom.

• Ravan comes on the stage and sits on the ‘Pitham’ in the centre. Vibhishana comes and salutes and sits to his left. Hunuman goes to the right of Ravana; looks around once; sees Ravana and facing his left describes (by Mudra-Abhinaya) the way Ravana is seated. (Illustration: 184-185)

• Hanuman: “Ravana did not receive me properly by offering me a seat and so I coiled my own tail and made a seat for my self.

• He sits on the ‘Pitham’ (kept to the right of Ravana) without showing his back to the Nangiar, but showing some portion of his back to Ravana (Illustration: 186). He keeps his left leg over the right leg and locks his palms on the knee. He turns to his left and looks in defiance and gesticulates, creating a nuisance. He stands up, and closing his mouth with both his hands and in a stance of great humility. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

⇒ Granth / Text:

⇒ Performative Signs: “हनुमान् - (उपणम्य) भो राजन्! अपि कुशली भवान्?”

⇒ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Tarkan”. (Then goes near, looks in disdain.) Oh king, are you doing well? “Have you performed the ritual oblation on the death of your son?”

• Heanuman sits; he counts the number of heads Ravana has; the number of hands etc. counting with his finger pointed at Ravana’s face. He exhibits monkey traits (like scratching etc.) during the interval between the renderings of the dialogue.

• Ravan looks at Hanuman, feels disgusted, turns to the left, and sits stretching his feet, looks disparagingly. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
⇒ Granth / Text: “रावणः - (सापजाम्) विभीणः। किमस्य तत् कर्म्?”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Oh Vibhishana, why does he do like this?
→ Renders the line again. ("Kottuvilakkuka")

⇒ Granth / Text: “विभीणः - महाराजः। अतोद्योधिकम्।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Oh Majesty, he will do even more than this.
→ Renders the line again. ("Kottuvilakkuka")

⇒ Granth / Text: “रावणः - कथं त्वमवगच्छसि? कथं भवान् जानाति।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Tarkan”. But how? How do you know that?
→ Renders the line again. ("Kottuvilakkuka")

- From here onwards, the dialogue (Granth / Text) between Ravana and Hanuman is conducted in Svara – “Tarkan”. Vibhishana’s dialogue in between are in Svara – “Cetipanchamam”. As is the normal procedure, the dialogues are rendered at first; then their meanings are gesticulated and then the dialogues are rendered again.
- The only instance of variation in the presentation of this section of dialogue happens, when Hanuman says:

  “हनुमानः - भोः! श्रुयतो रामशासनम्।”

- Ravana gets angry at the usage ‘Rama’s command’ and enacts “Praveshikam”. Hanuman also does “Praveshikam” along with Ravana.
- Hanuman stands up and assuming a very humble attitude goes near Ravana and closing his mouth with both hands and – ⇒ Granth / Text: “हनुमान् - एवाविवेचन भवता किमत्र प्रच्छरे तस्य दारापहरणं कृतम् ॥”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: (in a loud defiant voice) When you are all that, why was his wife abducted by impersonation?
→ Renders the line again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

⇒ Granth / Text: “विभीषण: - सम्पवाह हनुमान् । अपास्य मायया…..छलनायक्ता हि सा ॥”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Chetipanchamam”. Well said, Hanuman. Luring away Rama by illusion, oh Rakshasas, you took the guise of a mendicant and she was taken away by a trick.
→ Renders the line again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

- Once again, from here onwards, the dialogues (Granth / Text) of Ravana and Hnuman are rendered in Svara – “Tarkan” and that of Vibhishana in Svara – “Chetipanchamam”. However, in two places, more action is depicted.

⊕ When Ravana orders Shankukarna to set fire to the tail of Hanuman and throw him out:
   The Rakshasas covering himself with a piece of cloth goes behind Ravana –

⇒ Granth / Text: “यदाजापयति महाराजः ॥”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Chetipanchamam”. As your Majesty commands.
→ Renders the line again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

⇒ Granth / Text: “रावण: - एहि ताबत् ॥”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders the line again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

⇒ Granth / Text: “कृतम् ॥”

⇒ Performative Signs:
⇒ Granth / Text: “हनुमान् - अयमस्मि।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Tarkan”. Here I am.
→ He runs to Ravana and stands there disrespectfully in a haughty posture.
→ Then he renders the line again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

⊕ At the end of the scene when Ravana banishes Huanuman:

⇒ Granth / Text: “रावण: - आ: निर्विरास्तामयं चाणरः।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Tarkan”. Banish this monkey.
→ Renders the line again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

⇒ Granth / Text: “राक्षसः: - इत इतः।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: This way, this way.
→ Renders the line again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

- Hanuman, in the posture of having both his hands tied, twists his hands with fists closed tightly; walks around as he did behind the curtain earlier and standing by the left side of the Mizhavu and performs “Pada Vinyaas of Chari / Kuttimutikku” and goes back to the greenroom.
- Starting from “विभीषण: - प्रसीदतु प्रसीदतु महारजः।” Till “रावण: - (सरोषम्) कथं कथं बलविद्ग्रहो नाम ।.....कौजः? ममानवेक्ष्य....तस्मादेष निरस्तताम्।।१” the dialogues (Granth / Text) are rendered, gesticulated and repeated.
- More action is applied from when Vibhishana is banished, till the end of the performance.
- Vibhisana gest up from ‘Pitham’, actions “Kottuvilakkuka”.

⇒ Granth / Text: “विभोषणः - अहमेव यास्यामि। शासितोहें त्वया राजनु,.....यथा कार्यः तथा कुरु।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: (Sits in “Nupurpadattil irippu” - special way of sitting with folded legs; and bows.) “अहमेव यास्यामि।” in Svara – “Chetipanchamam” and rest of Svara – “Duhkhagandharam”. Do not get angry, oh king. I shall go of my own accord. Reprimanded by you, oh king, I shall go but I am not guilty. Cast off your anger and lust and act in the manner as before.
→ Renders the line again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)

- Without looking at this, Ravana stands at his seat. Vibhishan takes “Gada” - mace in his hand, sways it and showing “Ambarayanam” (Representation of aerial travel, standing on the ground or on the top of a stool, moving the legs in a circular manner) with his army shown through the aerial route.
- Then puts “Pitham” in front of the lamp, stands up on it, sways his mace, then keeps it to his side and Mudra (Abhinaya): “I shall go to Sri Rama himself”. He sees in front of him one third of the army of Lanka ready to go with him.
- To them: “Oh members of the army, you stay here with my elder brother”.
- Mudra (Abhinaya): He is going with four Rakshasas; then contemplates, and actions “Kottuvilakkuka”.

⇒ Granth / Text: “अधैवं तं कमललोचनमुचारायं.....नष्टं निशाचरकृतं पुनरुद्विषये ।।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Shrikanthi”. Today itself, I shall take refuge under Shri Rama, the lotus eyed one, who wields a terrible bow, who has determined to kill Ravana, who does good to his devotees, who is good among men. I shall once again raise up this race of Rakshasas which is on the verge of extinction.
→ Renders the line again. (“Kottuvilakkuka”)
• Does the “Ambarayam” in such a manner as to be able to see Shri Rama, and then he climbs down, unties the “Uttariyam” and then “Kuttimutikkukolluk” and goes back to the greenroom.

• Ravana sits on ‘Pitham’ with the sword in his hands. Thinks and actions “Kottuvilakkuka”. (Illustration: 187)

⇒ Granth / Text: “रावणः - हन्तं निर्गतो विभीषणः। याबद्धमिपि नगराक्षसं सम्पादयामि।”

⇒ Performative Signs:
→ Renders with (Mudra) Abhinaya: Svara – “Tarkan”. Alas, Vibhishana has left. Therefore I too shall set about making arrangements for the protection of the city.

• Then Ravana gets up with the sword in his hand and performs “Vattattil Cati Natakkuka” - A circular movement pattern to indicate moving from one place to another distant place and then “Pada Vinyaas of Chari / Kuttimutikku” (a choreographic pattern indication the conclusion of a particular piece of acting) does the termination / conclusion of the dance. (Illustration: 188-189-190)

• Then “Mutiyakkitta” (special rhythmic patterns are played on the Mizhavu and it indicates the end of the Kutiyattam) is also to be played.

❖ MUTIYAKKITTA – RITUALISTIC CLOSURE OF THE KUTIYATTAM:

After gesturing the end of the Kutiyattam Ravana retires to the green-room and removes his crown, but with the red band still on his head he comes back to the stage, with a Kindi (vessel) full of water. He washes his face and feet. This is in place of the ritualistic ceremonial bath (avabhrta snans) and sprinkling of holy water at the end of the Yaga, as the presentation of a drama is considered to be a “Chakshush Natya Yajna - Visual Sacrifice”.

From the three big wick bundles burning in the stage lamp, the actor in the role of Ravana takes one wick form each of the flames With a prayer he throws then up and after they fall on the ground their flames are extinguished. He salutes and touches the ground and touches his head as a final prayer and he goes back to the green-room. (Illustration: 191)
