The present study seeks to present a sociological study of slums and sub-culture in a corporation city (Agra). It is based on field-work from January 1974 to February 1975. The data was collected with the aid of an interview schedule. Information was collected from 500 families living in major slum areas of Agra. Besides that observation schedule was also used with a view to gather the general information relating to various areas under study. Informal discussions were also made with a view to collect further information, not covered under any type of schedule and a note to that discussions were made by the researcher in his dairy from time to time. Secondary information was obtained from the different files and records of the Agra Municipal Corporation and District Election Office, Agra. The different books, periodicals and other relevant matter on the subject was also consulted by the researcher with a view to know about the ARC of the subject.

This thesis has been written for Ph.D. degree in Sociology under the able guidance of the eminent sociologist Professor Dr. R.N. Saksena, Head of Sociology Deptt., Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh, who not only guided the researcher but encouraged him to finish the work as and when the researcher felt dis-appointed and frustrated. The researcher is highly grateful to his supervisor Dr Saksena. The researcher cannot forget him throughout his life his generosity and affection shown to him from time to time.

The researcher is deeply indebted to the authors of so many books and organization. He is equally thankful to all those who helped him during the course of survey particularly the local leaders of the study area such as Shri Shiv Parain (Balmiki), Ansar Mohd Khan, Babu Chowdhry, Narain Singh (Jatav) and Hari Chowdhry respectively for their co-operation and interests.
