ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I have great pleasure in putting on record my grateful thanks for Prof. Harish Haizada, Department of English, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh who was not only my guide in the early stages of my research and who helped me to plan and prepare this research project but whose book The Lotus and the Rose initially inspired me to choose this subject for my Ph. D. research. After his retirement another eminent scholar of the Department of English, Aligarh Muslim University Prof. Ahsida Zeidi was appointed my supervisor, who supervised my work in the final stages of its completion. But for her stewardship this thesis would not have seen the light of the day. I acknowledge with all my heart the fruitful guidance I received from her.

I also wish to express my gratitude to Prof. A. A. Ansari, the former Chairman of the Department of English, Aligarh Muslim University and to Prof. Masudul Hasan, the present Chairman, for their understanding and for the facilities provided to me as a research scholar of the department.

I express my thanks to the librarian of the Aligarh Muslim University Library for his cooperation.

Finally I offer my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. S. S. Gupta, Principal, D. S. College for his cooperation at every step which made it possible for me to submit this thesis within the stipulated period.
