ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The transformation of an idea, floating somewhere amongst the millions of gray cells, like the journey of a seed from the time it is sown to a ripened fruit, is a path of self-realization. The travel or the journey, as they say, becomes all the more enjoyable and fulfilling when the people you meet along the path are always encouraging you to move forward. The time has come for me to acknowledge all those who have directly or indirectly helped me through this ‘road less travelled’.

My sincerest and heartfelt gratitude is reserved for my gracious supervisor, Dr. Mrs. Kirandeep Kaur, professor and Head, Department of Education and Community Service, Punjabi University, Patiala, whose invaluable guidance and experience helped me immensely in achieving my targets well in time. Her ever-smiling demeanor reassured me every time I felt low or got stuck up. She has been and shall always be a source of constant encouragement and inspiration for me throughout my life.

I would like to take this opportunity to also earnestly thank Dr. Jagpreet Kaur, Assistant Professor, Department of Education and Community Service, Punjabi University, Patiala, who listened to me with utmost patience and encouraged me, both personally as well as academically in planning and execution stage of my work. The suggestions and guidance provided by Dr. Kulwinder Singh, Professor, Department of Education and Community Service, Punjabi University, Patiala, immensely helped me in fine tuning my manuscript to the desired quality.

I am obliged to the members of the Department Research board, whose guidance and critical remarks, always showed me the right path and helped me achieve the objectives laid out for the research work.

Sh. K. S. Sandhu, Deputy Superintendent, Central Jail, Patiala deserves special mention and thanks, as it were his efforts and help, which put me through to my ‘convicts’ database. It was due to his support and help that I could collect the desired data, as was laid out in my research work.
The dream of my mother Mrs. Kiran Bathla, of seeing me donning the doctorate degree, whose seeds were sown about twenty years back, found the backing of my mother-in-law, Ms. Sudesh Kathpal, who constantly encouraged me to fulfil the same. I am blessed to have such souls in my life who made this work possible.

My father Sh. Om Parkash Bathla and father-in-law, Sh. Amrit Lal, have always encouraged me to look forward and be the person I want to be. Their unstinted moral support and a smiling face has always been a morale booster for me.

Words are not enough to thank my family, who have always been a constant support in this endeavor of mine. They were always at hand whenever I was low and lifted my spirits with a smile. Thank you Vrinda, my beloved daughter; Sidharth, my adorable son; and my loving husband, Maneek. Without you and the blessings of the almighty, this work would have remained just a bunch of papers put together. You are the soul of this work.

I thank all my friends and other family members for being there, always.
