CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

1. CHAPTER ONE
   Statement of Intent ... 001

2. CHAPTER TWO
   Reading ... 010
   2.1 Introductory Note
   2.2 Models of Reading
      2.2.1 Substrata-Factor theory
      2.2.2 Goodman's Transactional-Psycho-linguistic Model
      2.2.3 Interactional Model
      2.2.4 Transactional Model
   2.3 Role of the Reader
   2.4 Response to Literature
   2.5 Reading and Writing
   2.6 Selective Attention in Reading: Efferent and Aesthetic
   2.7 Reading Programme Effectiveness
   2.8 Reading and Comprehension
      2.8.1 Increasing Comprehension and Learning from Text
      2.8.2 Increasing Ability to Comprehend and Learn from Text

3. CHAPTER THREE
   Schema Theory and Reading Comprehension ... 058
   3.1 Schema Theory: A Short History
3.2 Definition of Schema
3.3 Types of Schema
   3.3.1 Content Schema
   3.3.2 Formal Schema
3.4 Attributes of Schema
   3.4.1 Conceptual Abstraction
   3.4.2 Hierarchical Organization
   3.4.3 Instantiation
   3.4.4 Prediction
   3.4.5 Induction
3.5 Functions of Schema
3.6 Schema Activation and Assimilation
3.7 Prior Knowledge and Comprehension
3.8 Cultural Schemata and Comprehension

4. CHAPTER FOUR

   Literature in the Language Classroom
   4.1 Language/Literature as Resource: A Synoptic View
   4.2 Literariness: Towards Defining Literature
   4.3 Literary and Non-Literary Text
   4.4 Language and Literature Alliance
   4.5 Literature as a Discourse
   4.6 Writing Literary Response
   4.7 Literature and Composition
   4.8 Role of Culture
      4.8.1 Culture and Learning
4.8.2 Cultural Mismatches
4.8.3 Remedying Mismatches
4.8.4 What to Teach?

5. CHAPTER FIVE

Factors Affecting Comprehension in ESL Pedagogy: Vocabulary, Simplification and Translation

5.1.1 Importance of Vocabulary
5.1.2 Vocabulary Teaching: A Short History
   5.1.2.1 Current Trends in Vocabulary Teaching
      5.1.2.1 (i) Comprehension
      5.1.2.1 (i.a) Enhances Understanding
      5.1.2.1 (i.b) Enhances storage in memory
      5.1.2.1 (i.c) Perception and action
      5.1.2.1 (ii) Production
      5.1.2.1 (ii.a) Vocabulary use
      5.1.2.1 (ii.b) Vocabulary retrieval
5.1.3 Programme for Vocabulary Development
   5.1.3.1 Word analysis
5.1.4 Vocabulary and Reading
5.1.5 Context
5.1.6 Vocabulary in Context
5.2.1 Simplification: An Introduction
5.2.2 Characteristics of Simplification
5.2.3 Types and Processes of Simplification
5.2.4 Criticism
5.2.5 Simple Texts and Reading Programme
5.3.1 Translation: Use of $L_1$
5.3.2 Usefulness of $L_1$
5.3.3 Translation and Culture
5.3.4 Localized Literature
5.3.5 Translation as a Classroom Technique

6. CHAPTER SIX

By way of Conclusion: Some Emerging Insights

6.1 Conclusion

6.2 Some Emerging Insights

6.3 Pre-Reading Phase

6.3.1 Enhancing interest among the learners

6.3.2 Activating existing schemata

6.3.2 (a) Strategies for activating existing schemata in case of unfamiliar text

6.3.2 (a.i) Analogies

6.3.2 (a.ii) Advance organizers

6.3.2 (a.iii) Introducing novel and conflicting information or situations

6.3.2 (a.iv) Relating personal anecdotes

6.4 Reading Phase

6.4.1 Language and Reading

6.4.1.1 Word building

6.4.1.1 (a) Suffixes

6.4.1.1 (b) Prefixes

6.4.1.1 (c) Roots
6.4.1.2 Difficult words in context

6.4.1.2 (a) Practice in recognizing clues

6.4.1.2 (b) Synonyms and Antonyms

6.4.1.3 Contextual guessing Exercises

6.4.1.4 Sentence structure and Substitution Exercises

6.4.1.5 Rephrasing Exercises

6.4.1.6 (a) Discourse recognition: Conjunction relationship

6.4.1.6 (b) Discourse recognition: Formal links

6.4.1.6 (b.i) Exercises on Referring expressions

6.4.1.6 (b.ii) Substitution

6.4.1.6 (b.iii) Ellipsis

6.4.1.6 (b iv) Parallelism

6.4.1.7 Translation Exercises

6.4.1.7 (a) Context and Register

6.4.1.7 (b) Word order

6.4.1.7 (c) Reformulation and Repetition

6.4.1.7 (d) Reference and Meaning

6.4.1.7 (e) Back translation

6.5 Post-Reading Phase

6.5.1 Literature and Reading

6.5.1.1 Understanding

6.5.1.2 Interpreting

6.5.1.3 Relating 6.5.1.4 Exploring
6.5.1.5 Recognizing

6.6 Exemplification

EXERCISE - A

A.1 Summary of the text
A.1.1 Reasons for choosing the text

A.2 Pre-Reading Phase

A.3 Reading Phase
A.3.1 Language and Reading
A.3.1.1 Vocabulary: Difficult words in context
A.3.1.2 Arrival of meaning through contextual guessing
A.3.1.3 Word formation
A.3.1.4 Sentence structure and Substitution Exercises
A.3.1.5 Rephrasing Exercises
A.3.1.6 Discourse recognition
A.3.1.7 Translation Exercises
A.3.1.7 (a) Context and Register
A.3.1.7 (b) Word order
A.3.1.7 (c) Repetition and Reformulation
A.3.1.7 (d) Reference and Meaning
A.3.1.7 (e) Back translation

A.4 Post-Reading Phase
A.4.1 Literature and Reading
A.4.1.1 Understanding
A.4.1.2 Interpreting
A.4.1.3 Relating
A.4.1.4 Exploring
A.4.1.5 Recognizing

EXERCISE - B

B.1 Summary of the text
B.1.1 Reasons for choosing the text

B.2 Pre-Reading Phase
B.2.1 Strategies for activating existing schemata
B.2.1 (a) Advance organizers
B.2.1 (b) Introducing new and conflicting situations

B.3 Reading Phase
B.3.1 Language and Reading
B.3.1.1 Vocabulary: Difficult words in context
B.3.1.2 Arrival of meaning through contextual guessing
B.3.1.3 Word formation
B.3.1.4 Sentence structure and Substitution Exercises
B.3.1.5 Rephrasing Exercises
B.3.1.6 Discourse recognition
B.3.1.7 Translation Exercises
B.3.1.7 (a) Context and Register
B.3.1.7 (b) Word order
B.3.1.7 (c) Reference and Meaning
B.3.1.7 (d) Back translation
B.4 Post-Reading Phase

B.4.1 Literature and Reading

B.4.1.1 Understanding
B.4.1.2 Interpreting
B.4.1.3 Relating
B.4.1.4 Exploring
B.4.1.5 Recognizing

BIBLIOGRAPHY

APPENDIX -A
Text -1

APPENDIX -B
Text -2