ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I do not find appropriate words to express my feelings of gratitude to Prof. Anwar Ansari, my teacher and Supervisor, who has contributed a lot in shaping my academic career. As a matter of fact this thesis symbolises his fostering attitude and keen interest in my academic progress. But for his scholarly suggestions, expert guidance and affectionate encouragements this thesis would not have seen the light of the day.

I am also grateful to the teachers of the Department of Psychology of Aligarh Muslim University, and those of the D.S. College, Aligarh, for extending their cooperation in the collection of data, and to the students of those institutions who served willingly as subjects for the present study.

In the end I would like to offer my thanks to Mr. Iftikhar Ahmad Jilani for typing the thesis with a sense of devotion.

April, 1975.

S. NISAR ALI