APPENDIX C

IMPORTANCE OF VALUES - An Evaluation of Ten Examples

I Punctuality

(i) Keeps time (ii) Observes appointed time (iii) Does not work by fits and starts but has a scheduled time. (iv) Does not waste time by doing unnecessary things.

II Discipline

(i) Observes rules and regulations (ii) Is fair but firm (iii) Respects the decision of the group (iv) Does not wilfully harm others or damage any property (v) Is courteous (vi) accepts roles assigned (vii) Does work with a sense of duty.

III Cleanliness

(i) Keeps body clean (ii) Keeps dress clean (iii) Keeps belongings clean (iv) Keeps surroundings clean.

IV Initiative

(i) Thinks on his own (ii) Plans on his own (iii) Decides on his own (iv) Acts on his own but without being a nuisance to the environment.

V Co-operation

(i) Is willing to work with others (ii) Works towards the common goal (iii) Tries to help the group to achieve the goal (iv) Subordinates his own interest to group interest (v) Is sociable (vi) Works for the welfare of one and all.

VI Duties and responsibilities

(i) Is conscious of assignments (ii) Works with dedication (iii) Works effectively (iv) takes pains to complete work allotted (v) Does not waste time unnecessarily on useless work.
VII Emotional Stability

(i) Not easily excitable (ii) Does not get perturbed easily (iii) Not easily irritable (iv) Controls passion (v) Has a high level of tolerance and understanding.

VIII Understanding

(i) Understands different cultures (ii) Respects the cultures of different ethnic groups (iii) Fits easily in different cultural groups (iv) Shows interest in studying the cultures of other groups. (v) Has respect and consideration for the views of others.

IX Awareness

(i) Is aware of his own self (ii) Is aware of his environment (iii) Is aware of his duties and responsibilities towards oneself, towards others and towards God, the cosmic power that controls the universe.

X Fellow-Feeling

(i) Has both sympathy and empathy. (ii) Does not hurt the feelings of others. (iii) Understands the behaviour of others. (iv) Has respect and consideration for others as persons.