ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Several people have contributed to the making of this thesis and richly deserve my deep gratitude.

Prof. Sarla Palkar, my supervisor, for her sustained guidance, support and encouragement.

The University Grants Commission for selecting me for a Teacher Fellowship.

Prof. P.C. Kar for his guidance and encouragement, and above all his deep concern for the well-being of my family.

Dr. Rajeswari Sunder Rajan - my debt to her is far too great to be adequately acknowledged.

Dr. Darius Cooper for being a great friend and for plying me with books from San Diego, U.S.A.

Lt. Gen. N.S.I. Narahari, PVSM, ADC (Retd.) for the discussions on military literature.

Col. K.P. Singh for providing me with material on the Kargil conflict.

Col. S.S. Suhag for giving me access to the library at EME School, Baroda.

My late principal Dr. S.C. Srivastava, Tolani Arts and Science College, Adipur, Kutch, for taking the initiative to get me a UGC teacher fellowship.

Dr. L.R. Mehta, Officiating Principal, Tolani Arts and Science College, Adipur, Kutch, for his support.

My colleagues P. Joseph, Sonu Daryani and Aruna Rao for taking on the extra load during my study leave.

The reading for this thesis was done at several libraries. I thank the staff of all of them:
Indo-American Centre for International Studies, Hyderabad, Centre for the Study of Culture and Society, Bangalore, Hansa Mehta Library, M.S. University of Baroda, EME School, Baroda.

Sujata and Col. S.V. Kulkarni for their care and support.

Bela Desai for being generous with books, gifts and kindness.

Mokshada Kar for being a dear friend, philosopher and guide.

Several friends, all of whom cannot be named for obvious reasons, have been my pillars of strength during my bereavement and I could not have pulled through without their moral support and affection.

My father whose unbounded faith in me has sustained me throughout.

My mother for being all that only a mother can be.

My sister and family for always being there.

My sons, Tushar and Sudhir, for being the very raison d'être of my life.

My pet dog, Booger Brilliant Starstreak, for keeping me sane through all the trials and tribulations of human life.

My husband Lt. Col. G.R. Viswanath (Retd.), who could not see the completion of this work due to his sudden and tragic demise, for his support, encouragement and enthusiasm. This dissertation is dedicated to his loving memory.