The author acknowledges gratefully her indebtedness to Prof. R. Rajalakshmi for her guidance, interest and professional advice, in carrying out this piece of research and the presentation of the work; and to Prof. C. V. Ramakrishnan for selecting her for the teacher fellowship under the Faculty Improvement Program of the University Grants Commission and for his keen interest and encouragement.

The author expresses her sincere thanks to the following professors of the Medical College, Trivandrum for their continuous advice and help during the period of data collection.

Prof. Elsie Philip, Director, Dept. of Paediatrics,
Prof. N. S. Sugunabai, Dept. of Paediatrics,
Prof. C. R. Soman, Dept. of Applied Nutrition,
Prof. N. Sambasivam, Dept. of Neurosurgery and
Prof. N. Sunderadevi, Dept. of Biochemistry.

The author also wishes to record her gratefulness to Mr. C. Kannan, Biochemist-in-charge and the staff of the Dept. of Clinical Biochemistry for their assistance and for permitting her to use the laboratory; the Medical Officer, the staff nurse, Miss W. Harriet, the Balasevikas and other assistants at the Nutrition Rehabilitation Centre, Trivandrum; to Mrs R. Leelamma and Mrs K. Thulasi for their help and encouragement during the period of study and specially for the co-operation of Miss D. Peramma, her co-worker in Trivandrum.

The author expresses her appreciation for the help and friendship accorded to her by the staff and colleagues, both, in the Dept. of Biochemistry, M.S. University, Baroda and the Dept. of Home Science, Women's Christian College, Madras.

The studies mentioned in this thesis were partly supported by research grants from Offices of Naval Research and the University Grants Commission.

All this was made possible because of the generous financial assistance provided by the University Grants Commission under the Faculty Improvement Program and the encouragement and understanding graciously given by Dr. (Mrs) R. M. Somasekar (Principal upto 1981) and Dr. (Miss) I. Michael (Principal since 1981) of the Women's Christian College, Madras-600 006.

Last but not least the author thankfully records the continuous encouragement and prayerful support given by every member of her family.