ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I am deeply grateful to Dr. K. M. Warji, who has lighted my way out from the darkness, who has worked together with me patiently without a word of complaint through many ups and downs. I extend my sincerest appreciation and thanks to him for his painstakingly supervising and editing my thesis and made it a success. His valuable and timely suggestions, guidance and encouragement throughout my work have been unspeakably precious to me.

This work would never have been accomplished without the encouragement and participation of many people. My personal and very deep appreciation goes to each of the respondents for accepting the challenge of preparing this thesis, sharing their ideas and making recommendations, accepting so readily the cooperation through out the period of my preparation. To each I extended my sincerest thanks for a job well done.

I am also sincerely grateful to the Head of Department, faculty members and non-teaching staff of the Department of Education, North Eastern Hill University, Shillong for their valuable encouragement and help.

I cannot forget my friends and relatives whose helps have been immensely beneficial to me in every way. Their contributions to this works have made it a successful one.

Finally, a very special note of appreciation to my supportive and considerate Brothers and Sisters, Dad, Mr. Soliwel Nongstej and Mom, (L) Mrs. Tindiamibon Lyngkholi, who had the foresight many years ago and encourage me to undertake this work, who supported me during the days of intensive work, and who created environment in which I could devote the many hours required for the preparation of this thesis. To them my deepest and sincerest thank you.

Above all, I thank the Almighty God for granting me help, health and strength the course of my study.

Ms. Jubita Lyngkholi
