ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I owe a deep sense of honour and immense gratitude to Dr. I.L. Aier and all those who have lend helping hands to me actively in the completion of this study. Above all, I have no appropriate words to express my heartfelt gratitude for the keen and sustained guidance and supervision that I received from him. His constant inspiration and personal involvement in this work has enabled me to complete my thesis. At all hazards I was at my wit's end, he, at the most, provided various ways and means to collect materials as well as supplied them to shorten the time for completing the thesis. On the whole, my academic career would have been of no avail and lost into oblivion if he had not watched me like a lamb through the darkness of my research undertaking ensuring that I never lost confidence in myself over the years.

I must also offer my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. C. Nunthara, Prof. A.C. Sinha, Dr. N. Kumar, Prof. M.N. Karna, Dr. C.L. Imchen, Dr. P.M. Chacko and Shri A.K. Nongkhynrih for their valuable comments and warm encouragements which contributed a lot to the completion of this study. I am greatly indebted to Shri Methungeba Sangtam, P.A. to D.C., who accompanied me to Chimonger village during my field work. I am also grateful to the Council Chairman and Colleagues of Wokha Village Council for their hospitality for days together. Also I owe my gratitude to all the respondents and officials, too numerous to mention here, who extended their help to me at various stages of work in the collection of required data.

Last but not the least, I am thankful to Mr. Godfrey Pathaw who untiringly helped me in typing out the manuscripts at short notice. I will always cherish with a deep sense of gratitude their hospitality and open-heartedness which made it possible to complete my thesis. In spite of all these care and attention, for any error and deficiency in this work, the responsibility remains solely mine.
