ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

By the grace of the Holy Mother, the dissertation “Discovery and Defence of India in the Writings of Sr. Nivedita” has been completed with generous assistance from many, to acknowledge which is a pleasure for me.

My first thanks are due to Dr. K. Chellappan, my supervisor, who has given me the benefit of his critical acumen at each stage of the work through ideas generously shared. He put me in the right track as to the appropriate critical approach to my chosen topic. The very thought that the work should be worthy of a well-known scholar like him has set a high standard for me and impelled me to put forth my best. If in spite of this there is anything wrong with the work it is entirely mine.

It was Dr. R. Balachandran, my co-guide, who put an end to my hesitation in starting the work by encouraging me to make a confident beginning. He has been of unfailing help in sharpening my critical approach in the several discussions I had with him. He has also been of invaluable assistance in the technicalities of the work and saw it through to a perfect finish.

The debt of gratitude I owe to my teacher Prof. T.V. Subba Rao cannot be expressed in words. Always placing the highest confidence in my capabilities even during my student days, he has inspired me to achieve the best. His insights into literature, his perceptions of the characteristic features of the civilisations of the East and the West, his sharp focus on human failures, the value he sets on great literature and his insistence on constant practice have acted as forces of influence for excellence. It was he who first turned my critical attention to the significance of Sr. Nivedita’s defence of India. While enlightening me with his suggestions for the improvement of the work he is unforgettable for showing me how Sr. Nivedita’s value for me lies beyond the scope of a doctoral thesis. When the strain of the work told on the very limited resources of my self-confidence, he lifted up my drooping spirits. For these and many more reasons I can only humbly place my respects to him.

The permission and blessings from Srimat Swami Nityananda Maharaj and Yatiswari Ambikapriya Amba, the revered Presidents of Sri Ramakrishna Tapovanam, Tirupparaithurai and Sri Sarada Samithi, Salem respectively, have been a source of strength to me. My special thanks are due to Srimat Swami Sankarananda, Administrator, Sri Sarada Institutions, Tirunelveli and Dr. S. Ramachandran, Secretary, Sri Sarada College, Tirunelveli for granting me leave of absence, without which the work could not have been completed.

“Co-operation, Mutual aid and Self-organisation” – one remembers how true Sr. Nivedita is in prescribing this mantra for the success of any undertaking, national or personal. And in referring to it I thank sincerely all others who have helped me in innumerable ways in completing this work.
