SUGGESTIONS

Temples are edifices of national importance. They proclaim the artistic eminence, the spiritual aspirations and other cultural attainments of the people of the age to which they belong. One cannot but wonder at the master pieces of sculptural workman ship at the beautiful construction of temples. Some of the beautiful images of this temple and elsewhere are wonderful creations of the artists of olden days, who were fired with a religious fervour.

It is their imaginative power that sustains them in their efforts. Though these artists and workmen have been forgotten, their creations remain. It is a pity that most of temples are left desolate due to neglect so much they are falling into ruins. There should be a
