ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Try as I may, words cannot express the profound gratitude I owe to my supervisor, Padmashree Professor Temsula Ao, Dean, School of Humanities North-Eastern Hill University, Shillong, who has not only guided me with invaluable insight and suggestions throughout the writing of this thesis but has also been the source of my inspiration in both literature and the teaching profession. This thesis would not have seen the light of day if not for the compassion and understanding shown to me as one mother to another at a difficult time when I had almost given up. Thank you, Ma'am for your encouragement and inspiration.

I would like to thank the Librarian and his colleagues at the Indo- American Centre for International Studies, Hyderabad, for supplying me with materials and information whenever I needed them.

My special thanks goes to the teachers of English Department, NEHU for their support and guidance.

I extend my gratitude to Mr. Godfrey Pathaw for painstakingly going through the entire thesis and helping me with the printing of this thesis.

My love and sincere thanks to my parents, siblings, relatives and friends who have stood by me like strong pillars in their own capacities during the few years that I have been engaged in research studies.

Shillong, the 9th April, 2010.

LANURENLA