ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Life is, but a journey, and with each task a milestone to reach, yet life's journey would not have been possible without a host of people to thank.

I am indebted to my supervisor Dr. T. T. Haokip, for his guidance and encouragement, who has been a tower in times of stress and strain. I appreciate and thank him for painstakingly supervising and meticulous worked on my thesis. I cannot be more grateful to be working under him. Thanks to Mrs. Kim, Chongpi and Haumilin for being so patient, they have been a family to me in every way and I consider myself fortunate to have met these wonderful people.

This work would never have been accomplished without the participation of many people and I would like to thank each and every respondent for being so patient with me even during odd hours. Thanks to my hosts in all the four villages, Mr. Kedo-u Rüpreo, Mr. Keviyabi Rüpreo, Mr. Kidese Kikhi and Mr. Bau Nakhro for their hospitality and guidance throughout my fieldwork.

I am also sincerely grateful to the Head of Department, faculty members and non teaching staffs of the Department of Political Science, NEHU for their valuable and timely suggestions.

My gratitude also goes to Mr. C. Kholong, Principal, Kohima College, Kohima, for his encouragement and leave granted to me without which, this work would not have been possible. I am also grateful to Mrs. Lipokla, Head of Department, Political Science, Kohima College, Kohima, and my colleagues who have been very kind to take up my classes during my absence in the Department.
I would also like to extend my gratitude to the ICSSR (New Delhi) and ICSSR (NERC) Shillong, for awarding me a fellowship which helped me to pursue this research work. My gratitude to Mr. Wati Longchar for preparing the maps.

My parents have been the most encouraging people behind this very work, their moral support have made a great difference for which I can mention no other words but thank them for what they have been. So, I dedicate this thesis to them. I also thank my brother, Thejavizo, who has helped me through the brain storming sessions. The moral support of my brothers, sisters and in-laws have boosted my confidence in completing this work.

A very special note of appreciation to my husband, Mr. Kikruselie for supporting me and helping me even during the days of my intensive work, and, created an environment in which, I could devote the many hours required for the preparation of this thesis. To him my deepest and sincerest 'Thank You'.

Above all, I can never be more grateful to the God Almighty for being my provider, granting me life’s splendour and helping me to reach another milestone with faith.

Ms. Konei Nakhro.
