ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is indeed a great opportunity to express my deep sense of gratitude to my Supervisor, Dr. Hiambok Jones Syiemlieh, Reader, Department of Geography, North-Eastern Hill University, Shillong, for his generous guidance and valuable suggestions. I am also grateful to Head of Department of Geography, NEHU, Shillong for providing necessary facilities in the Department for smooth completion of the present work. I am equally grateful to Prof. Surendra Singh, Department of Geography, NEHU and Prof. B.K. Tiwari Department of Environmental Science, NEHU for their valuable suggestions and encouragement throughout my research work.

I express my thankfulness to Principal, Rangia College, Rangia, Assam for giving me the chance of doing research. I am also thankful to the UGC for providing me Fellowship under FIP without which it would have been difficult for me to do the present work.

I am thankful to Department of Forest, Government of Assam, particularly to the Conservator of Forest, DFOs of Kamrup East and West Forest Division, Range Officers of Rani, Loharghat, Kulsi and Bamunigaon Forest Ranges for granting permission and help to carry out my field work in the different Reserve Forests. I am also thankful to all the staff as well as forest guards of the above Ranges who helped me in a number of ways. At the same time I am grateful to the all Village Headmen and people of forest villages without whom this work would have not been completed. I am also grateful to Mr. Aninda Swargowari (IFS) for his kindheartedness and assistance during collection of data.

My sincere gratitude also goes to the Research Scholars: Mr. James M. Lyngdoh, Danny M. Synnah, Bring B. Rytathiang, Niranjan Das, Immarenla Aier, and Prasenjit Das of the Department of Geography, NEHU, Shillong for helping me in various ways.

I am also thankful to all the teachers and office-staff of the Department of Geography, NEHU, Shillong and the all faculty member of Geography Department of Rangia College, Rangia. Special thanks go to Dr. S. Sarma and Ms. J. Pyngrope of the Department of Geography, NEHU, N. Barman, Dr.P. Thakuria, of Rangia College and
Dr. Subimal Laskar, College of Veterinary Science, Khanapara, for their kindness at various points of time.

Last but not least, I owe my great deal to my parents and my wife Anita, Tej Raj and Lavina, for rendering help in various ways and in fact, they have been a constant source of inspiration throughout the present study.
