ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Different aspects of Khasi poetry had been brought out, interpreted and analyzed by many scholars. But the aspect I am analyzing in this work is a different one. To make this work a reality, it was not my effort alone. For this present work, there are many things that I need to be thankful for.

First and foremost, I give God all the glory and to Jesus my personal Saviour and Lord by whose grace I can undertake this study.

Secondly my deepest gratitude goes to my Supervisor and Guide, Dr. (Mrs.) B.War who has painstakingly supervised my work and made this research a reality. Her valuable and timely suggestions save me a lot of time and energy and enable me to complete my work in time. Her guidance has been precious to me. The faults that remain are my own.

I am also sincerely grateful to other faculty members of the Khasi Department, NEHU, for their valuable encouragement and help.

I cannot forget my friends who were helpful to me in one way or the other. The contribution of friends in the way of encouragement and of providing the reading materials I needed most cannot be ignored.

I am also thankful to the different poets of the period who were instrumental in providing the much needed materials for analysis of this research work.

Last but not the least, I express my gratitude to my family members for their encouragement and support.

May God bless them all.
