ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am immensely indebted to both of my supervisors, the main supervisor Dr. Netrananda Malla, Professor of Philosophy, North-Eastern Hill University, Shillong and the Co supervisor, Dr. Pandav Nayak, Professor of Political Science and Director of the School of Social Sciences, Indira Gandhi National Open University, New-Delhi for Supervising this dissertation, and who inspired, guided and corrected not only this research work, but also my life itself.

My gratitude to my employers of the Don Bosco institution is of much volume. Our Principal, Fr. Cyriac Vettickathadom SDB was of great help. I am particularly indebted to him for all the understandings, suggestions, love and affection that I received from him in abundance. I am also grateful to Fr. KJ Thomas, Vice Principal and colleague in the Department of Philosophy. I thank Don Bosco College and the administration for being kind enough to permit me to use their Computers for doing this research work.
My venerable teacher and perennial source of inspiration, Dr. Harsh Narain of Lucknow, whose unconditional love, affection and explicit confidence in me is what, really had been forceful in my struggle to approximate his expectations. My indebtedness to him is beyond words to surrender, and I touch his feet in my mind with great reverence.

My teachers in N.E.H.U had always been models in academics as well as in my life. Dr. Mrinal Miri, Dr. SC Daniel, Dr. Sujata Miri, Dr. CR Agera, Dr. Jagat Pal, and Dr. RV Vyas of IGNOU Shillong------, they all had left deep impression in my life and I learned much from them. I shall ever be grateful to all my teachers, whoever had taught me right from K.G onwards.

Much of this work is done in Kerala University Library, during my long stay with my father in Trivandrum Medical College Hospital. My father's knowledge that his days were numbered had not stopped him from forcing me to go to library every day. The last days with my father in the hospital pay wards were filled with discussions. A staunch Gandhian and freedom fighter, he was my strongest critique of Marxism-Leninism. Before he passed away, he made sure that I have done considerable amount of work. As for a father like him, of what words any one ever can conceive of any form of expression? I thank Kerala University for making their library available to me.

I also express my gratitude to Shri SP Aggarwal and the National Social Sciences Documentation Centre, New-Delhi, for sending me xerox copies of all materials I required. Without them it would have been difficult to research from a remote place such as Tura.

I have learned much from Dr. Sukumaran Nair, Reader, Department of applied Economics, COCHIN UNIVERSITY OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY, Cochin, Dr. Bhaskaran Nair, Professor and Head, Department of Politics, KERALA UNIVERSITY, Trivandrum, Dr. Sudhir Jacob George, Reader, Department of Political Science, N.E.H.U, Shillong, Dr. AK Ramakrishnan, School of International
I am grateful to the News Paper "MASS LINE", New-Delhi, and its editor Comrade Mohankumar and Comrade Sugathan of Department of Philosophy, JAWAHARLAL NEHRU UNIVERSITY, New Delhi for giving insight to me on many Marxian Concepts. I am also thankful to Dr. (Mrs) Suman Gupta, Associate Professor, Department of Philosophy, J.N.U, and her husband Dr. Vijay Gupta, Professor of School of International Studies, J.N.U, New-Delhi for all the theoretical understandings I received from them.
My three friends, Dr. C Radhakrishnan (Scientist, Zoological Survey of India, Madras), Shri MA Britto, (Audit Officer, AG’s Office), Dr. V Haridasan, (Department of Botany, St. Joseph’s College, Bangalore) were most rigorous critiques of me. I am much benefited from them through long night’s heated talks. I am thankful to them, for it was their strong criticism that gave me much of innovation.

My mother, Smti. N Santhakumari and my brother Shri. TS Sunder Raj were always on my side for anything. My wife Smithakumari and our children Vishnu Sharma and Vinayaka Sharma, whose sufferings were silent and untold as I could not pay any attention to them. My colleagues in the College were helpful; and co-operative. My friend Shri Ashesh Daring Sangma, Department of Philosophy of Tura Government College was always dependable. I thank all of them.

Without all these, I couldn’t have done anything.

T.S. Girishkumar,
Department of Philosophy,
DON BOSCO COLLEGE, TURA, MEGHALAYA.
