Acknowledgements

It is with great pleasure that I express my deep sense of gratitude to Dr Shankar Shashidhar, Professor and Director, School of Biosciences, Mahatma Gandhi University, Kottayam, for giving me the opportunity to work on this project and for extending all the facilities to carry out the work. Words cannot express my heartfelt gratitude for his unceasing concern, constant help, keen criticism and encouragement during every stage of the work. I am extremely thankful to him for suggesting the topic and for his excellent supervision, advice and guidance.

I am thankful to Dr. M. Haridas, Reader, School of Biosciences, Mahatma Gandhi University, Kottayam, for his kind help and deep concern all along the study.

It is a pleasure to express my heartfelt thanks to all my co-workers in the Physiological Chemistry Laboratory especially Dr. C. Kesavachandran, Dr. R. Harikumaran Nair, Dr. Susan Chandy, Dr. Geetha B., Dr. Reethamma, K. V., Dr. Sanil R., Mrs. Jyothi and Miss. Betzy Mathew, for their help and suggestions.

I am also thankful to all the teaching staff of the School of Biosciences, Mahatma Gandhi University, for their encouragement.

My thanks are also due to Mr. Bose T.S., Mrs. Reji S. L. (Medical technologists) and other staff and members of School of Biosciences, Mahatma Gandhi University, for their help and co-operation.

I wish to place on record my gratitude to Mahatma Gandhi University for giving me an opportunity to carry out this study.

This thesis would not have been possible without the total participation of students of School of Medical Education, Kottayam, and Academy of Medical Sciences, Kannur. I express my deep sense of gratitude towards them.

I would like to thank Mr. Anil M. N., Copy Write, Ettumanoor, for the perfect realisation in word processing and documentation of this thesis.

On a personal note, it goes without saying that this entire piece of work would not have been possible without the matchless love and encouragement of my beloved family members whose untiring and relentless support gave warm impetus and mental courage beyond the academic scene.

Jayashree M. S.