Acknowledgement

This work would never have seen the light of day if it had not been for my Supervisor Prof. P. M. Chacko. I am immensely indebted to him. His kindness, generosity of spirit, patience and sense of humour has been a great source of strength and encouragement for me. Prof. P. M. Chacko's valuable suggestions and intellectual inputs have contributed much to the thesis. Words are inadequate to express my heartfelt gratitude because without his active support and meticulous guidance this thesis would not have been completed. Prof. P. M. Chacko has helped me to realize my goal in life and I hope that I will be able to help my students in the same manner. That is the only way that I can pay tribute to Prof. P. M. Chacko, my teacher and guide. I pray that God bless him abundantly.

My heartfelt thanks go to the Vice Chancellor of NEHU Prof. Mrinal Miri for his support, encouragement and especially for going out of his way to help me in my endeavor. Prof. Miri's personal intervention helped in paving the way for the smooth completion of this thesis. I also take this opportunity to thank Prof. Sujata Miri for her loving support, help and many acts of kindness. I owe much to both Prof. Mrinal Miri and Prof. Sujata Miri.

I am grateful to Monalisa Changkija, Editor, Nagaland Page, as well as Makentsoshi (IAS) and Ayo Aier for giving me free access to their personal libraries. Thank you.

My thanks go to my colleague Dr. K K Jha for going out of his way to help me as well as to Dr. L Yapang Longchar, Amen Changkija and Limasangwa Aonok, I am grateful to Lima Changkija and Akum Lemtur of SASRD, Medzihipema for giving me every help. My thanks also go to the Dean and all my colleagues and friends as well as the staff of Nagaland University, SASRD, Medzihipema, for their encouragement, good wishes and prayers.

Throughout my research I have been supported and boosted by my friend Anita P. Jyrwa. She helped me to stay sane and happy. She selflessly gave time, energy and valuable suggestions especially for the final outlay of this thesis. I owe you big, Anita. May God bless you always.

A big thank you goes to my brother Taliakum Longkumer and my sisters Imlinunyala and Sängtiyenla Longkumer for their unfailing encouragement and belief in me. I would also like to thank Jose Joseph, Prades and Michael Buam for all the help they gave me. I am grateful to Moanungla Amlari without whose support and help I would not have had the peace of mind to carry out my work.

I am particularly grateful to Ms. Imnalema Longkumer of Tsungli kiong, Changki, who provided a home away from home throughout my research work in Changki. Thank you, ata Alem, for your love and many generous acts of kindness.

Without the support and cooperation of the respondents I would have been unable to gather the data required and I take this opportunity to thank all the respondents at Changki. I am grateful especially to Mr. Imlimeren Amri ex-Gaon Bura (upper khele), Mr. Tagenyuba Changkiri, Changki Village Council Chairman, Mr. Lanusili Longkumer (lower khele), Mr. Imtiochet Changkiri (lower khele), Ms. Temendangla Amlari (upper khele), Mr. Temjenwati Amri (upper khele), Mr. Longriniken Longchari, ex-Gaon Bura (upper khele), Mr. Moachuchang Aonok (lower khele) and Mr. Allen Amri, Secretary, Baptist Church Changki for giving every assistance.

Most of all I am eternally grateful to my mother Prof. Temsüla for being with me every step of the way throughout my life. Without her nurturing, belief in me, encouragement, support and most of all love I would never have been able to reach this stage. She has been a pillar of strength for me and I dedicate this work of mine to her as a tribute and in gratitude. I also take this opportunity to pay respect to the memory of my father Late Assamwati Longkumer. He always took pride in all my achievements and he would have been very pleased with this one.

Above all I am thankful to God for all the blessings He has showered on me.
