ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It gives me a great pleasure to acknowledge my indebtedness and deep sense of gratitude to my special respected teacher Dr. Paresh Kumar Acharya, Lecturer, Department of Law, Burdwan University. Without his scholarly guidance, sympathetic and encouraging attitude, it would not have been possible for me to complete this research work.

I express my sense of gratitude to Dr. G. N. Karna, Professor, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi and Dr. N. K. Chakraborty, Professor, Department of Law, University of Calcutta. Many of the outstanding issues of the subject were clarified and many of my ideas crystallized as a result of long discussion with them. I also take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to Mr. Sukanti Majumdar and Mr. Rajarshi Bhattacharjee, member of ‘Blind Persons Association’ and ‘Sabalambi’ respectively who assisted the researcher in finding the decided cases within the jurisdiction of the State of West Bengal.
I wish to express my thanks to my colleagues, many known and unknown persons who in various ways have helped and advised me throughout the preparation of this work.

My thanks are due to the Librarians and the staff of the Indian Law Institute Library, New Delhi, Central Library of Burdwan University, and National Library, Kolkata who rendered valuable help in the preparation of this work.

Last but not the least, my thanks are especially due to Mr. Biswajit Chakraborty who typed this thesis neatly and meticulously within record time.
