I am most grateful to my supervisor Dr. T. V. Thomas, St. Thomas College, Pala, for his valuable guidance and constant encouragement in the preparation of this dissertation. I have greatly benefited from his advice on the general plan and arrangement of material, as well as from suggestions for improvement of the text.

I can hardly express in words my deep debt of gratitude to Dr. Mathew Joseph, former Head of the Department of English and the Vice-Principal of St. Thomas College, Pala, for his invaluable suggestions, good counsel and patronage. I am deeply touched by the painstaking devotion evinced by him in going through the text of this study and making necessary corrections; he was a constant guiding spirit behind this endeavour.

I am much obliged to Rev. Dr. Kurian Mattam, the Principal, St. Thomas College, Pala, for the generous help he gave me during my study. I sincerely thank Prof. V. J. Sebastian, the Head of the Department of English, St. Thomas College, Pala, for his support in the completion of this work.

I wish to place on record my debt of gratitude to Rev. Fr. Cherian Thalakkulam, the Principal, St. Dominic’s College, Kanjirapally, for granting me the permission to pursue my studies under the Faculty Improvement Programme. I record my indebtedness to Prof. Thomas P. Joseph, the Head of the Department of English and my colleagues in the Department for their encouragement and solicitous co-operation. With the same sentiments I do remember Prof. P. T. Joseph, the former Principal, St. Dominic’s College, Kanjirapally, the former Heads of the Department of English, and the deceased members of the Department, in a special way. It is only fair on my part to appreciate my intimate friends in the college who strengthened me a lot in this effort.
I would like to put on record my thankfulness to the Director, American Studies Research Centre, Hyderabad; the Director, Central Institute of English and Foreign Languages, Hyderabad, and the Library Director, United States Information Service, Madras. I am equally grateful to the Librarian, Mahatma Gandhi University Library, Athirampuzha and the Librarians of the General Library, the Department Library, and the University Study Centre, St. Thomas College, Pala, for their services.

Personal debts are the hardest to acknowledge in formal terms. I remember with undying affection and gratitude my beloved Grandma, parents, husband, children and other members of my family who have been the surest and strongest source of inspiration and encouragement for my research.

My special thanks are due to Mr. Robin Sebastian and all other members of M/s Copy Write, Ettumanoor, for the word-processing and documentation of this dissertation.

Last but not least, I thank God Almighty for the blessings He has showered upon me!
