ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In the course of this research study, I have sought direct and indirect help from many persons. First and foremost, I would like to thank Prof. Arup Kumar Chattopadhyay for being my greatest inspirant and guiding me at almost each and every step of my research work. I shall always remain grateful to him for spending his precious time in going through each and every section of the text.

I must also express my gratitude to Dr. Atanu Sengupta, Reader, Dept. of Economics who helped me in learning the DEA software operations. I am also thankful to all the teachers of the Department of Commerce, the University of Burdwan for their constant inspiration and support.

I sincerely acknowledge and appreciate the valuable co-operation of my husband, Arindam, without whose inspiration and support this research work could not have been completed. My conscience would be pricking me if I do not mention here the name of my daughter, Ankita, who is still in the age of infancy and have beared with me at times of difficulty during the period of my research work. I am highly indebted to my in-laws for their patience and relieving me from many household responsibilities during the study period.

Last but not the least, I must thank my parents for their constant encouragement and mental support, without whose blessings this research study could not have been produced.

However, I am alone responsible for any omissions and commissions in this study.
