“Somewhere, something incredible is waiting to be known”—The spirit of this statement has been a driving force for me, like many other researchers, who have strived to explore into the ‘world of the unknown’. I am therefore grateful to the authorities of my university for providing the opportunity to carry out my research in right earnest. The supportive work environment and the research infrastructure of the university have been extremely helpful in carrying out an effective research.

I would, at the outset, like to extend my sincere thanks and gratitude to my supervisor Prof. S.K. Sengupta for his constant inspiration, support and guidance. Thanks are also due to other teachers of our university and other institutes who have taken special interest in my research and provided their encouragement and support. Special thanks are due to all my colleagues in the Centre for Management Studies including the Director, Prof. Dilip Roy and the two colleagues in the Department of Business Administration (Human Resource) Dr. Ajit Kumar Ghosh and Dr. Amir Jafar. In the course of my research work, I have received help and support from a lot of people and it may not be possible to mention their names because the list is quite long. However there are some names that need a special mention. I am extremely grateful to my friend, who is like my younger brother, Dr. Kaushik Mandal, for his continuous help and cooperation in different forms. I am also thankful to Mr. Ranjan Sarkar and Mr. Kalyan Kar of Acclaris Business Solutions, Mr. Subrata Mukherjee and Mr. Tito Deb of Durgapur Projects Limited and Mr. S.S. Maity, Mr. Subrata Lahiri and Ms. Debashree Mukherjee of Haldia Petrochemicals for the help and support they provided in carrying out my organisation-specific studies. I would also like to convey my sincere thanks to the other executives and employees of these three organisations who have provided necessary information and have responded to the research questionnaires that were part of the organisation-specific studies. I also convey my sincere thanks to the executives of different organisations who have responded to the two research questionnaires that were part of my study. I am also thankful to the staff of XLRI and IIMC libraries for their cooperation and for giving me permission to access the resources of the two libraries.

As ever, my heartfelt thanks to my grandmother, mother, father, wife, sisters, son (Swapnil) and my father and mother in law, who all became part of my research work by providing mental support as well as infrastructural support at home. At the end, I would like to thank all those people who may not be aware of my research work but their contributions remain embedded in this thesis.
