My late father Rajdeo Singh, a school teacher always desired me a great future with ethics and simplicity in life. However, it was my late wife Leelawati Singh being not much educated inspired me for doctorate degree. After her demise on 10th Sept’ 2011, I determined to fulfill her desire by carrying out extensive research on scientific conservation of our great common heritage. I owe my works to inspiration from my beloved wife. My both sons stood with me during our difficult time, heartedly supported me during this research and I adore them.

First and foremost, I offer my sincere gratitude to my supervisor Prof. B. R. Arbad who heartedly supported me throughout the research work. I am also extremely grateful to Prof. R. A. Mane for his unflinching support and believe in me.

I am grateful to the Director General, Archaeological Survey of India, New Delhi for according permission to register for Doctoral degre e. I am thankful to the Director (Science), Archaeological Survey of India for his technical guidance and support.

I owe this works to Dr. R.K. Sharma, Former Joint Director General, Archaeological Survey of India for his technical support and help.

I would like to extend my heartfelt thanks to Prof. Walter Spink, Prof. Monika Zin, Prof. Tadashi Sasaki, Prof. Mike Corfield, Prof. Piotre Balerowicz and Dr. A. Giovagnoli for enriching my knowledge in the field of art history, architect and scientific conservation of Ajanta painting. I learned many iconographic details of Ajanta through prof. Spink who whole heartedly supported me and express my gratitude to him.

The scientific analysis and analytical data would not have been possible without the active support of Prof. D. N. Singh, Dr. Kannan lyer of IIT, Powai, Prof. S. N. Deshpande of Institute of Science, Aurangabad, Prof. M. Sardesai of Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar Marathwada University, Aurangabad, Shri. A. R. Sadhu of M/s pest control of India Ltd and Prof. Tara Mohanan of IISER, Pune. I express my heartfelt gratitude to them.

My colleague at Archaeological Survey of India namely Dr. S. Vinodh Kumar, Ms. Anupama Mahajan, Ms. Sujata Waghmare, Shri. Sudhir Wagh extended whole hearted support during the research work and I am highly grateful to them.
Shri. R. S. Trambke, my colleague from Archaeological Survey of India, Ajanta has immensely contributed during our team work in company of Shri. Deepak Anand Gupta and Shri. Anil Patil. I express my sincere thanks to them and for making our effort a great success.

I specially thank Shri. Nilesh Mahajan for his excellent photography without which this research work has not been completed. I am equally grateful to Mr. S. K. Jathar, Mr. D. S. Wagh, Mr. Nitin Mone, Mr. A. Jaiswal and Mr. R. Kulkarni for their help and support.
