ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am very grateful to several people for helping me in one way or the other with the writing of this Thesis. Accordingly, I would like to express my gratitude to all of them realizing that those whom I owe the most I cannot thank enough and that the things for which I am most grateful, I cannot put into words.

First I would like to thank my Guide, Dr. Farhat Durrani, Head of the Department of English, Sir Sayyed College of Arts, Commerce and Science, Aurangabad, Maharashtra, India for her kind support and guidance. Her vast knowledge and advice has considerably helped me to keep on track and work at a smooth pace. I appreciate her immense knowledge and skill in many areas and her assistance in writing reports which have on occasions made me "green" with envy.

Second, I would like to express my most sincere and heart-felt thanks and gratitude to Dr. Sadhana Pande, Professor and Head of the Department of Post-Graduate Studies in Law and Director, Foreign Students Cell, Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar Marathwada University, Aurangabad, Maharashtra, India for the inimitable guidance given, understanding shown and encouragement extended while writing this Thesis. I honestly feel that words do fail to express my real feelings for the above Professor.

My gratitude goes out as well to all the professors in the Department of English, Sir Sayyed College of Arts, Commerce and Science, Aurangabad and the entire Library staff of Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar Marathwada University, Aurangabad, Maharashtra, India for their advice and teachings; their careful revisions of some of the segments of my Thesis has honed my research and organizational skills and made my writing a little less amateurish.
I must also acknowledge all my friends within and without the Department of English for their attention and special support at the very final stage of writing this Thesis. Thank you for the great moments that we have shared together especially Mr. Omar Basim, Mr. Atheer F. Tarsh, Mr. Ali Sadeq, Mr. Hussein Kanoosh, Mr. Yaarb A Naser, Mr. Ratemo Tom, Mr. Omar Qasim and all Iraqi, Kenyan, Yemeni and Indian students of Postgraduate Section of the Department of English.

My final, and most heartfelt penultimate thanks goes to my wonderful family members: my loving Father and Mother, my caring Brothers and Sisters and all my beloved relatives for not only their enthusiasm, interest and support in this Thesis which has given me the motivation to realize this achievement but also their continuous support and encouragement while undertaking this research at the Department of English, Sir Sayyed College of Arts, Commerce and Science, Aurangabad, Maharashtra, India. Certainly, their support, encouragement and companionship has turned my journey through post-graduate school into a pleasure.

Once again, thank you all!
