ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

A single author prepares this thesis, but many people have helped to bring it to its present stage. Any researcher of any study must rely on criticism and conversation if mistakes are to be avoided, particularly true, in studies of this nature, where it is often impossible to bring one’s ideas to a conclusive test either formal or experimental. Many people have given me advice and counsel in this undertaking.

I wish to place my honored thanks to my supervisor Dr. G. Ramakrishna Reddy, Principal & Correspondent, Sri Ramakrishna Degree & Post Graduate College (Autonomous), Nandyal, for his disciplined and dedicated guidance throughout the course of the study. His views and remarks made during the course of the study have not only given the study a meaningful direction but more so elevated the outlook of the study. I am also thankful to him for having given me the benefit of his erudition and enterprise and for having involved himself in the project literally from day one and who commented in depth practically on every aspect that the project has envisaged.

I can never express my heartfelt gratitude in full measure to Prof. C. Chandrasekhar, Former Professor and Head of the Department of Economics, S.V. University, Tirupati, without whose enlightened guidance, this work would not have seen the light of the day. I would also like to place my sincere gratitude on record to Prof. P.B. Appa Rao, Former Professor and Head of the Department of Commerce, S.K. University, Anantapur who, with his wise counsel, has made a vital contributions to this work.

It is my honored duty to thank erudite and exemplary faculty from the Department of Commerce, S.K. University, Anantapur, Prof. Phaneeshwar Raju, Prof. A.V. Ramana, Prof. C.R. Reddy, Prof. K.V. Ramana Reddy, Prof. B. Shobha Rani, Prof. D. Anjaneyulu and other faculty members of the department. Last but not the least, I wish to thank my esteemed colleagues of Sri Ramakrishna Degree College (Autonomous), Nandyal, whose constant encouragement and support was an immeasurable source of inspiration throughout the period of the study.

I should be failing in my duty if I don’t acknowledge the kind cooperation extended to me by Lead Bank of Kurnool District manager and staff. I am also appreciative of the vital inputs supplied by many banking professionals in field level investigation.

I would also like to place on record my sincere appreciation for unbelievable and amazing encouragement that I always get from Mrs. V. Vijaya Kumari, Secretary, Sri Ramakrishna Education Society, Nandyal. Her constant cheering and goading always prompted me to not only achieve my dreams but also instilled in me a sense of self-confidence. More than anything else, her accommodative spirit always stirred my intellectual pursuits.

Finally, I am indebted to my beloved family members, who always had a place for my interests and shared my burdens during the course of the study.

It’s my honoured pleasure to thank Mr. E.V. Bhaskara Reddy, Lecturer in English, Sri Ramakrishna Degree (Autonomous) College, Nandyal and Mr. P. Surendra Nath for having extended their extraordinary help while typing and editing the manuscript.

T. BHARGAVI