ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The successful completion of this research work would not have been possible without the beneficial help and whole-hearted cooperation from many individuals and organisations to which I am indebted in many ways. Though, it is not possible to acknowledge my debt to all of them in full, an honest appreciation of their of their kindness and contribution can lead to personal gratification for the fulfillment of a human duty.

A tree must have been a seed one day. In the case of my research work, Prof. (Dr.) Dilip Roy, my teacher at the Department of Business Administration, The University of Burdwan, sowed the seed. He not only inspired me with a passion for research but also kind enough to refer me to my Ph.D. supervisor, Dr. Tapas Kumar Bose, Professor of Commerce, The University of Burdwan.

While writing this acknowledgement, my mind is filled with a deep sense of gratitude and veneration to my honourable supervisor Prof. (Dr.) Tapas Kumar Bose, who, even in the midst of his extremely busy schedule of work, provided me with relentless offer of valuable advice, inspiration and continuous help in order to ensure that my humble endeavour for the thesis would fructify.

I also express my deep respect and gratefulness to the Head of the Department of Commerce, The University of Burdwan, and other learned members of the faculty for their generous help and suggestion, which I received from time to time in course of my research work. I am also grateful to other academicians of repute, Prof. (Dr.) Ratna Sen and Dr. R.P. Banerjee, Professor in Eastern Institute for Integrated Learning In Management (EIILM), Kolkata. They offered valuable advice and important suggestions to improve the quality of my research work.

I take this opportunity to convey my indebtedness to the authorities and the staff of different libraries such as the Central Library of the University of Burdwan, the National Library, Kolkata, the Library of Indian Institute of Management, Joka, Kolkata, and the British Council Library (BCL), Kolkata, which I frequently visited for the purpose of gathering information for my research study.

I am also thankful to the Director, Principal of my present Institute and all of my Departmental Colleagues of JIS College of Engineering, Kalyani, for their unremitting help, unstinted support and valuable advice during the entire period of my research work.

I shall remain ever grateful to the officials and executives of the regional office of Clariant (India) Limited (CIL) in Kolkata for their kind help and support in formal and informal ways. They offered me valuable cooperation for collection of necessary information and clarification on some vital issues. They also gave me access to their internal records on profiles, operational statistics, without which my research work would not have seen the light of day.

I particularly acknowledge the constant inspiration and untiring support I have received from my respected father, my brother Sumit, my sister Sujata, and also from my wife Ruma and my beloved daughter Monami. They helped me over the last five years to sustain the spirit and complete this research work.

Finally, on this auspicious occasion, I fondly remember my late mother, whose love for and devotion to knowledge was astounding. I consider myself fortunate to be a humble inheritor of the light of knowledge she lit more than fifty years ago.
