Acknowledgement

I have much pleasure in expressing my sense of deep gratitude to my teachers-guide/supervisors Prof. Asit Kumar Banerjee and Dr. Atanu Sengupta, Department of Economics, The University of Burdwan, West Bengal, for their constant guidance and moral encouragement towards the preparation of this Ph.D research work.

I am also grateful to all other teachers of the Department of Economics, The University of Burdwan for rendering their valuable advice and suggestions in connection with this research work.

I am indebted to my respected teachers Dr. Sudhir Ray and Sri Pranabranjan Basudhar for their moral encouragement and mental assistance in this regard.

I am extremely thankful to my beloved friend and colleague Dr. Sukanta Bhattacharyya, Reader in Political Science for his encouragements and helps in various ways.

The support, help, suggestion and advice from my other teachers, colleagues, well-wishers, students and the people from all corners of the society are highly acknowledged with thanks and gratitude without which this small attempt could not be a success.

A special word of thanks must be given to Palash Kundu of 'Extra Shine' who typed the manuscripts and fed the typescripts into computer and helped to get 'hard' and soft copies of this research work.

Finally, I acknowledge the support of Mamata, my wife, who made many sacrifices and rendered valuable secretarial assistance to me.
