ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is a fact that I could have been incompetent to produce this thesis on my own without the help and support received from others. It is therefore obligatory on my part, to remember with regards all those who have contributed in completion of this thesis.

It is rightly said that the Guru is only next to God and how can one thank God? I admit that this thesis on the whole, is the creation of my Guru, teacher and research supervisor, Prof. K.L.A.P. Sarma, M.Sc., Ph.D., Diploma in Computer Science, Head of the Department of Statistics, S.K. University, Anantapur. He has practically gone through each and every single line and it is the result of his excellent and innovative ideas and efforts that this thesis has been the light of the day. Every time I have met him I have been blessed with new ideas. His generous assistance, unstinted support and, above all, his learned guidance have been unfailing throughout the period of my study in this field. I am also thankful to him for going through each and every chapter very patiently and critically.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my heartfelt gratitude to Prof. G. Rama Rao, Former Officiating Director, International Institute for Population Sciences (IIPS), Mumbai, permitted me to use the data from IIPS and his constant encouragement, regular enquiry on the progress of the work and encouraged me a lot.

My sincere thanks are due to Mrs. K. Vidya Lakshmi Sarma, Chi. K. Dinesh, Chi. K. Gayathri and Dr. (Mrs.) G. Rohini Devi for their affectionate and moral support in completing this work.

I express my deep sense of gratitude and sincere thanks to my respected teachers Prof. Y. Krishna Reddy, M.Sc., Ph.D., Registrar, S. K. University, Department of Statistics, Prof. K. Pushpanjali, M.Sc., Ph.D., Department of Statistics and Prof. P. Mohammad Akthar, M.Sc., Ph.D., Department of Statistics, S.K.University, Anantapur, for their consistent support received from them all along.

I sincerely express my gratitude and thanks to all the authorities especially Sri Sathya Sai Baba Central Trust, Engineers of Panchayat Raj Department, Resident Engineers of ECC Construction Group under Larsen & Toubro Limited, District Collector, District Health Officer and concerned Officers of Health Department of Anantapur District for their help at different levels or stages in completing of my work during data collection, without which this study has not been finished successfully.

I wish to special thanks Mr. B. Madhusudana, Independent Consultant, Mumbai and Dr. S. Niranjan, Senior Programme Officer, Pop Council, New Delhi, who have been a mine of information, inspiration, valuable suggestion and moral support till the completion of this work.

I wish my sincere thanks to Coordinators of DLHS-RCH Project and my colleges at IIPS, Mumbai, who are given constant moral support during completion of this study.
The help and excellent emotional support rendered by Dr. M. Sudhakar Babu, Population Research Center, Visakhapatnam for his valuable suggestions during the editing of my dissertation is memorable, I wish to thank him in this regard. And also my special thanks to Mr. K. Laxmi Kanth, Mumbai for his kind help and moral support in completing this work.

My deep sense of appreciation goes to all my friends, Mr. K. S. S. Ram Dev, Dr. A.V. Ramana Kumar, Dr. K.C. Das, Mr. Dinesh R More, Mr. Chakra Pani, Mr. M.G. Chandra Sekhar, Mr. Dasaratha Reddy, Mr. Manoj Alagarajan, Mr. Aaksh, Mr. Uttam, Mr. Prabhu, Mr. Manu, Ms. Rukmini Advani and all other well wishers for their moral support given through out my work.

Searching for the reference material would not have done without the help of Mr. Mestry, Library & Information Officer, Mr. K. Praveen Kumar, Assistant Library & Information Officer, Mr. D. N. Vidhate, Sr. Library & Information Assistant and other library staff of IIPS, Mumbai. I wish to thanks all of them.

It is hard to express my feelings of gratitude to my parents. My father Dr. M. Thippeswamy is a continuous source of inspiration and motivation for me for doing this work. He is the real hero behind me in all the levels of my life. I would like to thank my mother Late Mrs. M. Hemavathi for her blessings and emotional support throughout my academic carrier. I would like to mention my special thanks to my wife Mrs. M. Mamata Prasad for her moral support and taken care of my health during critical conditions, she is always with me to complete this thesis successfully.

This thesis would not have completed without the kind help of my Uncle Mr. R. Nagabhushan, Aunty Mrs. R. Puspa Latha and their sons Chi. R. Malleshkumar and Chi. R. Hari during my stay at Anantapur. My sisters and family members particularly Mrs. T. Vijayashankari, Mr. T. Jambunath, Mrs. A. Anuradhamma, Mr. A. Prashant, Mrs.A. Nandini Prashant, Mr. A. Guru Raj, Mr. Chalawadi; & Mrs. Indira Advani, Mr. M. Devendrappa & family, Mr. G. Vinod & family, Mr. G. Waman & family provided me invariable support, love and affection when I needed it most even though I was far away from them. Their encouragement and emotional support motivated me substantially to its successful completion.

I express my sincere thanks to Sri Krishnadevaraya University authorities for allowing me to register for Ph.D., in the Department of Statistics and providing all available facilities for the completion of my research work.

Lastly, I wish to thank all the respondents who gave their valuable time and answered the survey questions with tremendous patience and understanding.
