ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is my privilege to acknowledge my deep indebtedness to Prof. Rama Kundu, Dept of English, University of Burdwan, for her scholarly guidance, invaluable advices and suggestions in writing this dissertation; and for allowing me to use and draw liberally on her own work on Hardy. Indeed, words fail to express my gratitude to her.

My heartfelt gratitude is also due to Prof. Mohit K. Ray, former Professor of the University of Burdwan, and a scholar of international reputation, for encouraging and inspiring me in various ways in writing this thesis.

I am grateful to the staff of the British Council Library, Kolkata, for giving me access to their rich collection of books and journals. It is here that I got the wonderful pictures of carnival celebrations in Thomas Hardy’s World written by Molly Lefebure to whom I remain indebted. I am obliged to the staff of the National Library, Kolkata, for providing me ready access to the precious materials required for my research work. I am also indebted to the staff of the American Information Resource Center, Kolkata, for the same reason.

I would also take the opportunity to thank the UGC, New Delhi for the grant [Ref No. F. PHW-046/02 (ERO) for the period from 2002 to 2004] which helped me a lot.

I am deeply indebted to my father (Manilal Sengupta), who has been my dear companion and esteemed mentor. I have always been inspired by the fond memory of my deceased mother (Dipali Sengupta). No word of gratitude would suffice to acknowledge the contribution of Pamela, my wife, who, with her computer skill and unstinted support, has made this project a reality. I am also indebted to my only child Piya who, despite her tender age, has patiently waited for the completion of this project.

Finally, I acknowledge my gratitude to Asish Gangopadhyay, my colleague in the Dept of English, Raghunathpur College, and Arindam Das, Lecturer, B.C. Roy Engineering College, Durgapur, for their original and insightful suggestions.

Ajay Sengupta