ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

A single author prepares this thesis, but many people have helped to bring it to its present stage. Any researcher of any study must rely on criticism and conversation if mistakes are to be avoided, particularly, in studies of this nature, where it is often impossible to bring one’s ideas to a conclusive test either formal or experimental. Many people have given me advice and counsel in this undertaking.

I wish to place my honored thanks to my supervisor, Dr. G. Ramakrishna Reddy, Principal & Correspondent, Sri Ramakrishna Degree & Post Graduate College, Nandyal, for his disciplined and dedicated guidance throughout the course of the study. His views and remarks made during the course of the study have not only given the project a meaningful direction but more so elevated the outlook of the study. I am also thankful to him for having given me the benefit of his erudition and enterprise and for having involved himself in the project literally from day 1, and who commented in depth practically on every aspect that the project has envisaged.

It is my honored duty to thank erudite and exemplary faculty from the Department of Commerce, S.K. University. Prof. C.S. Rayudu, Head, Department of Commerce, Prof. Phaneeshwar Raju, Chairman, Board of Studies, Prof. C.R. Reddy, Prof. P.B. Appa Rao, and other faculty members of the department. Last, but not the least, I wish to thank my esteemed colleagues at Sri Ramakrishna Degree College, Nandyal, whose constant encouragement and support was an immeasurable source of inspiration throughout the period of the study.

I wish to place my honored appreciation and sincere thanks on record for Shri. K. Sri ram, Manager (Projects), APIDC, Shri M. Rudradev, Managing Director, (KITVEN, Bangalore), Shri Bhagwan Das, Managing Director, Canbank Venture Capital, Bangalore, Shri Vijay Angadi, Managing Director, ICF Ventures, Bangalore, Smt. Anjana Vivek, Director (Projects), NVCF, Bangalore, Shri Prakash Kamal, Director, J.F. Electra and Shri V. Venkateswara Rao, Deputy General Manager, IDBI, for having extended timely and highly informative inputs for the project.

I would also like to place on record my sincere appreciation for unbelievable and amazing encouragement that I always get from Mrs. V. Vijaya Kumari, Secretary, Sri Ramakrishna Educational Society. Her constant cheering and goading always prompted me to not only achieve my dreams but also instilled in me a sense of self-confidence. More than anything else, her accommodating spirit always stirred my intellectual pursuits.

Finally, I am indebted to my beloved parents, Sri M. Ramakrishna Reddy and Smt. M. Ramalakshmamma, who toiled all their lives to give me a wonderful times to look for, sacrificing their valuable times and to my loving wife, Mrs. Sujatha Reddy who always had a place for my interests and shared my burdens and to all those intellectual individuals who shared their rich experience and expertise with me during the course of the study.

It's my honored pleasure to thank Miss T. Bhargavi and Mr. Surendranath. T. for having extended their extraordinary help while typing and editing the manuscript.
