In writing this dissertation I had to seek advice and help from a number of distinguished academicians and researchers and it is next to impossible for me to express my gratitude to each of them separately. However, I would like to record my indebtedness to Professor S.K. Biswas, Professor of Commerce, Burdwan University, who provided me with the required guidance but for which it would not be possible for me to complete the work. I am equally indebted to Dr. D.B Gupta, Professor of Economics (Retd.), Delhi School of Economics, who not only guided me at every stage but also gave me encouragement when I needed it the most.

Thanks are also due to Mr. R. Venkatesan, Principal Economist, National Council of Applied Economic Research (NCAER), New Delhi and my friends and colleagues Mr. R. Sundar, Dr. Sucharita Sen, Mr. Dripto Mukhopadhyay, Ms. Kanika Basu, Dr. D.K Pant, Mr. D.K. Johsi, Mr. S. Baruah and Dr. Saurabh Bandopadhyay, who were instrumental in extending the needed help and support of all kinds so as to enable me to complete the work. My indebtedness to my beloved institution, NCAER, has to be specially recorded.
I am also grateful to the faculty members of the Department of Commerce, Burdwan University, who spared their valuable time in attending the two pre-submission seminar lectures I had to deliver giving me a number of insights and suggestions for qualitative improvement of my work.

I also wish to thank my father Prof. Pranesh Das, Department of Commerce, Burdwan University, for his constant inspiration, comments, criticism and suggestions. I owe a deep sense of gratitude to my mother Smt. Samita Das, sister Smt. Sabari Dutta, brother-in-law Dr. Arijit Dutta and father-in-law Mr. Biren Dasgupta for inspiring me to complete the thesis.

I will fail in my duty if I do not formally recognise the help and encouragement I received from my wife, Mayurakshi. I should also say sorry to my daughter, Sumedha, for the deprivation of paternal care she had to suffer during the last two years.
