Today we are living in a complex society. Social problems of our times are quite different from what these were yesterday. Whole society is under heavy strains. It is said that a knowledge of our unknown or little known tribal brethren is a stepping stone for Indian integration which has become very much relevant in our present study. Help of our present study is received from a host of well wishers, friends and a good number of informants belonging to distinct parts of Assam. It is my pleasant duty to express my deep sense of gratitude to all of them. It must be admitted that the completion of the work was possible due to the help and guidance of many persons and several departments and agencies and also to the Hajong village people who helped us with their suggestion. Data have been collected from government departments and other agencies. It required frequent visits to those institutions. I would like to express my indebtedness to all of them and to many scholars, officers and friends who assisted me in collecting data and other materials and helped me in this respect.

At the very outset, I owe all my sincere debts to Dr Nabin Chandra Sarma, Former Head and Professor, Deptt. Of Folklore, Guwahati University for his cheerful patient and inspiring guidance for the very beginning without which it would not have been possible for me to complete the work. For his whole-hearted sympathy, sacrificing spirit, his bountiful generosity and love, I gratefully acknowledge my gratitude and indebtedness to him.
I offer my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. Kishore Bhattacharjya, Head of Deptt. of Folklore, G.U. and Dr. Anil Kr. Boro, Lecturer of the same Deptt. for their unstinted suggestions and help.

I am also particularly grateful to Shri Neel Madhab Hajong, Shri Naren Hajong, Shri R. K. Rai Hajong, Shri S. Hajong, Former Chief Public Relations Officer, N.F. Rly, Maligaon, Shri B.C. Hajong, Shri S.N. Hajong, and Shri K.R. Hajong who worked as the chief informants of my work.

I also acknowledge my thanks to the following friends and well wishers Shri Arun Ch. Sarma, Principal, Chhaygaon College, Shri Santosh kr. Das, Dr. I. Nessa, Shri B. Das, Mrs A. Goswami, Lecturers of Chhaygaon College, Dr. Debén Ch. Das, Teacher of Maligaon Rly. H.S.S., Md. A. Wahab, Lecturer, DIET, Mirza, Md. Khijir Ahmed, G.U., Shri Mrigendra Kalita, ACS, Joint Secy., Panchayat Deptt., Govt. of Assam for their kind help and for evincing a deep understanding of my research project.

I must extend my sincere thanks to Shri Hemanta Saloi, ex-student and our elder son Shri Binoy Kr. Sutar who encourage and have helped in taking the photographs.

I owe a special debt of love and gratitude to my wife Smt. Sulekha Medhi Sutar who has taken the constant and immense help in my work throughout the period from the very beginning. It is but her timely advice and help I could bring out the study in present shape.

I am thankful to my sole daughter Miss Chandana Sutar and my youngest son Shri Pulakjyoti Sutar who always encourage me. during my course of study. Their patient understanding and moral encouragement always inspire me immensely and I thank for their encouragement.

I recall with both sorrow and gratitude to my father Shri Gajen Ch. Sutar and mother Smt. Panei Bala Sutar who encouraged me for the present work but are no longer in the world.

I also thank to Shri Nagen Das of G.U who has computerised this thesis and enabled me to submit it in time.
