ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I would like to say a few words of thanks and appreciation. My venture to undertake this research work did naturally need a good deal of inspiration, co-operation and guidance. At the very outset, I express my sense of indebtedness to Shri Anil Kumar Sarma, M.Com., Reader in the Department of Commerce, University of Guwahati, who kindly consented to be my guide and whose masterly and scholarly guidance was an invaluable asset for me.

Secondly, the American Studies Research Centre, Hyderabad, A.P., of which I am a regular member, provided me with a good number of original and valuable reference books, journals and other materials for which I would remain ever grateful to the Centre. Further, I must specially mention the names of Mr. C.P. Connelly, the Vice Consul in the American Consulate General, Calcutta; and the United States Information Service, New Delhi, for their supplying me with necessary literature and information needed for the purpose of my research. The International Monetary Fund and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development have been regularly supplying me with their current publications and Annual Issues relating to current development in the International economy. I take this opportunity to offer my hearty thanks to them.

Thirdly, the entire staff of J.B. College, Jorhat including the learned Principal Sri M.C. Goswami, M.A. (Double), the staff of the College library and my beloved students have been offering lot of inspiration by their good wishes and active interest in my work. I owe them a lot and which I doubt cannot be expressed by a few words.

I am really grateful to Dr. Jogen Barua, M.Sc., Ph.D. Assistant Director, Regional Research Laboratory, Jorhat who helped me in the printing of a number of Charts included in the Thesis.

My wife Srimoti Minoo had been taking keen interest in my effort all throughout and she was a constant source of inspiration for me. I wonder whether a mere formal thank is sufficient to cover my gratitude to her.

Lastly, I cannot forget Sri Prabin Sarma, Sri Indra Nath Borgohain and Sri Nabin Chandra Borgohain (my student) who took much pain in typing out the thesis in time and I am really grateful to them.

J.B. College, Jorhat, Assam.

Dulal Chandra Bhattocharyya