Acknowledgement:

At the very outset I would like to communicate my sincere appreciation to several authors whose brilliant works, at the suitable places within the present submission have encouraged me to embark on the present theme of investigation in appreciating more realistically the concept of Democratic Decentralisation and its extent in the Guwahati Municipal Corporation particularly the after effect of the 74th Constitution Amendment Act, 1992.

The effort has been carried out and accomplished under the guidance of Dr. Anuradha Dutta, Retd. Professor and Head of the Department in Political Science of the Gauhati University, Assam, India and presently Peace Professor, Omeo Kumar Das Institute of Social Change and Development, Dispur, Guwahati-781 006. I am highly obliged to her for her supervision, suggestions and support provided to me at the expense of her priceless time.

I am gratified to Professor Debo Prosad Barooah, formerly Vice Chancellor, Gauhati University, for engaging my attention to this frame of study by suggesting this topic to me for my PhD program.

I am also appreciative of my teacher Dr. Mr. Arup Jyoti Choudhury, Senior Lecturer, Cotton College, Guwahati, for helping me initiate my work way back in 1999. My particular gratitude goes to Mrs. Meenakshi Nath, Extra Assistant Commissioner, Guwahati Municipal Corporation, for her inestimable support without which it would not have been feasible for me to have access to various records of the Guwahati Municipal Corporation.

I would otherwise fail in my duty if I do not take this occasion to convey genuine admiration to a host of my friends and relatives who have extended their help and full assistance to me in collecting first hand information and data during my vigorous field work. I am awfully sorry that because of the number of individuals who have aided me in the whole process, being very high, it is not possible to cite all of them here.
