ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This thesis is the result of the valuable help rendered by many individuals with their rich experience in various ways. I express my deep sense of gratitude to Dr KN Harilal, Associate Fellow, Centre for Development Studies, Thiruvananthapuram, my supervising teacher, for his involvement, which is a major factor for the study to evolve like this. He spared much time to read the drafts and made critical comments and valuable suggestions. His scholarship in this subject and motivating spirit were highly useful to shape the study. I express my gratitude to Dr Thomas Isaac M L A, for his keen interest in my study and very useful suggestions made after reading the draft, in spite of his busy schedule. I am immensely grateful to Dr KK Subrahmanian, Honorary Fellow, Centre for Development Studies, for his valuable suggestions.

I am thankful to Dr Raju K Tadikkaren, Director, School of International Relations, Mahtama Gandhi University, for his valuable help. I record my thanks to Dr A K Ramakrishnan, Reader, School of International Relations, for having helped me in various ways to complete the study. I am thankful to Professor Dr GP Ramachandra of School of International Relations. I express my gratitude to the office staff members of the School of International Relations.
