I would like to mention the contribution and heartily attachment of those good peoples who have helped me every possible to prepare this research report in its present form. They all were like a lighthouse for me to give a dimension of my research project.

First and foremost, I want to pay my humble acknowledgement to my supervisor and guide Prof. (Dr.) Sarit Kumar Sadhu, Professor, Dept. of Law, the University of Burdwan who cherished my work continuously. He enriched me with his vast experience and profound knowledge and also supervised my drafts thoroughly whenever requested instead of his hectic academic and administrative schedules.

I must convey my sincere gratitude from fathom of my heart to our Head of the Department, Prof. (Dr.) Manik Chakraborty and all my respected teachers of Department of Law, The University of Burdwan, Prof. (Dr.) Shiv Sahai Singh, Prof. (Dr.) Mohammad Momin, Dr. Dipak Das, Dr. Sanjib Kumar Tewari and Dr. Jayanta Kumar Saha for providing their thought provoking ideas and kind co-operation. They were warehouse of knowledge for me and wholeheartedly helped me always to inculcate my research subject. I also express thanks to Shambhu Nath Chatterjee and all other staffs of the Department of Law, The University of Burdwan for their kind support during my repeated visit to them. My sincere thanks also go to Librarians and staffs of Central Library as well as Law Department’s Seminar Library of The University of Burdwan for their constant help to carry on my work.
I am immensely grateful to my respected teacher and presently Director of Law College Durgapur, Rajbandh Prof. (Dr.) A.H.Mondal, for his kind support and affection. I am very much delighted with help of my HoD and all colleagues and staffs of Law College Durgapur, Rajbandh, in various ways.

I was very much convinced by my all former erudite colleagues of Midnapore Law College specially Ceaser Roy, Arvind Chakraborty, H.P.Chakraborty for providing uninterrupted encouragement to continue this work. I will mention the name of Kalyanashis Bhattacharyya for his scholastic study on environmental politics and movement which helped me a lot to illuminate the dark side of my knowledge. I am also immensely indebted to Nakul Chandra Mondol, Librarian and all other staffs of library in Midnapore Law College for allowing me to access all books, journals, magazines and even some confined copies also. I should not forget the positive role of my numerous students towards this work because they always ran after to me with various materials and also informed me with different news relating to my topic when ever they had received.

I am also wholeheartedly thankful to my learned seniors, Nabendu Mondol, Asst. Public Prosecutor, Govt. of West Bengal, Shashi Nath Mandal, Assistant Professor, Hooghly Mohsin College and Manabendra Goswami, Lecturer, Durgapur Institute of Legal Studies, for their constant inspiration to continue my work. They all played like a power booster whenever I used to become exhausted during my research.

I must pay full respect and love to my parents Sri Pranab Kumar Mitra and Smt. Ila Mitra as without their blessing and helps this work would not be completed. My sister Parijat Mitra, who is an Honours graduate on Botany, also helped me a lot to understand various scientific principles on ecology by rendering books of conservation biology and botany. They always remain strong for my moral support at the time of my work which was psychologically helpful for me enough.
I should mention my thanks to Pratap Kumar Sarkar of S.C.Sarkar & Co. for his constant supply of all kinds of rare books whenever needed. I convey my deep sense of appreciation to Barun Pal, Md Hanif and Biren Das for their efforts for the typing and printing this work nicely within the time.

Last but not the least, I also gratefully acknowledge the helps of the various authors whose works have been quoted in this work which have mentioned herein and some of them are unknown to me. I am highly indebted to various national and international organisation and ministries for their data, statistics and reports available at official websites from which I have prepared different charts or tables to draw my research conclusion.
