This work has been completed under the supervision of Dr. Rajarshi Majumder, Reader at Dept of Economics, University of Burdwan. I sincerely express my respect and deep gratitude to him who gave me valuable suggestions on the subject. In spite of his busy schedule he has spent many a long hours for discussion with me on the subject. The thesis would have never been completed without his constant persuasion, valuable suggestion and proper guidance. His expertise in econometrics clarifies many doubts regarding visualization and interpretation of results. In a word he is my “friend, philosopher and guide”. His knowledge is an asset that I generously use. I am really touched by his support, concern and help. My words fail in expressing my sense of gratitude to him.

I also wish to express my thanks and gratitude to Dr. Atanu Sengupta, Dr. Pravat Kumar Kuri and other teachers of the Department of Economics, Burdwan University. I am thankful to all the staff of the Department of Economics, Burdwan University, especially to Mr. Sandipan Hati for his sincere co-operation throughout my study. Mrs. Mou Sen, Deputy Director of Micro and Small Scale Enterprises (Ancillary) Ancillary Industries Development Cell & Sub-DIC, Durgapur had been very helpful and made very valuable suggestions to me when I visited her office at Durgapur for data collection regarding the industries. I have been on and off consulting her informally and demanding her time and attention which she was generous in providing us. I am extremely grateful to her for her help and co-operation.

Next I like to express my gratitude to Dr. Seikh Salim, Head of Dept. of Commerce, Burdwan Raj College. I also like to express my debt to Prof. Aditya Chatterjee, Head of Dept. of Statistics, earlier at University of Burdwan, and now at Calcutta University, who helped me a lot in conducting statistical analysis. I shall be failing in my duties if I do not recognize my debt to my respected parents, brother, sister, other relatives, my school teachers, my friends and my juniors who gave me moral support, encouragement, and valuable advices. I also express my debt to my wife, Afrozi Begum, who gave me moral support, encouragement and relieved me from various commitments to family while I was busy in my research work. My child Shahin, who is now six years old, has also tolerated my inability to give him enough time for playing.

In spite of all the help and support from excellent people I am alone responsible for any error of interpretation, omissions, and deficiency remaining present in this thesis paper.
