My desire to do research, when mooted years before, was systematically nurtured by Dr. K.C. Sankaranarayanan's favourable approach. He put the trend in motion which culminated in this work. I acknowledge my sincere gratitude to Dr. K.C. Sankaranarayanan, Professor and Head of the Department of Applied Economics, my guide, for all the help rendered to me in completing this work. It was Prof. K.V. Thomas, M.P. and Mr. M.S.K. Ramaswamy, I.A.S., the then Special Secretary and Commissioner for Higher Education, who made it possible for me to secure teacher fellowship of the University Grants Commission.

Next in line are Dr. Jose T. Payyappilly, Professor, School of Management Studies and Dr. M.K. Sukumaran Nair, Reader, Department of Applied Economics, who with their sincere advice and assistance, have enriched the horizon of my humble knowledge.

I am obliged to Prof. V.J. Pappoo, formerly Planning and Development Officer for his sincere advice in matters relating to U.G.C. Teacher fellowship and other things.
I am greatly indebted to Mrs. Michaela D'costa, Mr. Joseph D'costa and Mrs. Shirley D'costa for providing me all facilities for my long stay in the village. But for their help in the form of accommodation and food, it would have been a drudgery to study the village as participant observer and also to conduct the survey.

In the village all the administrative, industrial and other institutions co-operated with me in my endeavour. My special thanks are due to the Village Officer and his staff, the Panchayat Executive Officer and his staff, the Secretary of the Co-operative Society and his staff, the Agriculture Development Officer and his staff, the Village Extension Officers, the Doctors in different hospitals, the Doctor in the Veterinary hospital, the Sub-Registrar of Mala, the Sub-Inspector and Station Writer of the Koratty Police Station, the Taluk Supply Officer, Irinjalakuda, and his staff, the Block Development Officer, Chalakudy, and his staff, the Management and Workers of various industrial establishments, the Managers and staff of banking and non-banking financial establishments, who co-operated with me in providing access to important documents and data relating to their respective establishments.
The co-operation shown by the villagers, experienced during the sample survey and my stay in the village, was highly encouraging, and sincere thanks are due to the village households.

The necessary financial assistance for the starting and completion of the work was provided by the University Grants Commission, New Delhi, to which I am greatly indebted.

I am very much indebted to Prof. K.V. Sebastian (Rtd.) Prof. of English, S.H. College, Thevara for clearing my thesis of all mistakes of language, which crept into the work inadvertently. He was kind enough to spare some time, out of his busy schedule.

This study period, a period of strain was borne without grumbling by my wife Lilly and my children Mejoy and Rony, to whom my thanks are due. I am also obliged to the blessings bestowed on me by my parents.

I extend my sincere thanks to Miss. Elizabeth Abraham, Librarian, Department of Applied Economics, Librarian, School of Management Studies, Librarians of Centre for Development Studies, Trivandrum, Kerala University Library, Trivandrum, and Maharaja's College, Economics Department Library for all the help rendered by them.
I extend my sincere thanks to the office staff of the Department of Applied Economics for their sincere co-operation and Smt. Alamma and Sri. Venkateswaran for the neat typing work.

The anxious enquiries of my fellow researchers, which were all indirect encouragements need a word of gratitude. But for them, the work would have taken more time to complete.

Finally before the invisible hand of providence which was there throughout my life, till this moment, I bow my head.
