ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I have no words to express my deep sense of gratitude to my supervisor Professor Dr. Mukunda Madhava Sharma, M.A., Ph.D., D.Litt., Kāvyatīrtha, for his ungrudging guidance and untiring help offered to me all throughout my student career. I must put on record that the present work is entirely an outcome of his constant encouragement, pressure and inspiration.

I have been suffering from an obstinate type of eye-disease since childhood. Ever since the days of my preparation for the Matriculation Examination the books had to be read out to me by my friends and relatives. In case of the present Ph.D. project also I received the help of a host of students, of whom I must never fail to name with a deep sense of gratitude, a few such as Shri Rajendra Nath Sharma, now an esteemed colleague and Shri Dipak Kumar Sharma, Shri Rikheswar Sharma, Shri Nirmal Saikia and Kumari Gayatri Bhattacharya, all students of the M.A. class in Sanskrit.

I am also highly obliged to my esteemed colleagues in the Department of Sanskrit, Gauhati University, for their kind sympathy and help in respect of books etc. I shall have to remain specially grateful to Dr. K.P. Sinha as he ungrudgingly lent me a number of rare books from his personal Library.

I shall be failing in my duty if I do not acknowledge the help very kindly rendered to me by the authorities of the National Library, Calcutta and the Gauhati University.
I remain obliged to the University Grants Commission for a timely financial assistance given to me for a visit to the National Library, Calcutta.

I remain extremely grateful to Shri Arabinda Kumar Thakur, M.Sc. of the Raptokos Bret (Pvt) Ltd. for helping me in putting the diacritical marks on the Typescript of the thesis and to my wife Smti Bina Devi Goswami, M.A. for relieving me of all the domestic responsibilities during the period of my more serious studies.

Ashok Kumar Goswami.
