ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

At the very outset, I like to express my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. Dilip Chandra Nath, Professor, Department of Statistics, Gauhati University, who motivated my interest in the study of Induced Abortion and Reproductive Health and his noble and invaluable guidance and suggestions and also his sustained encouragement helped me to complete this thesis.

I owe a special debt of gratitude to Dr. Nazibuddin Ahmed, Selection Grade Lecturer, Deptt.of Mathematics, Cotton College, Guwahati for his encouragement and valuable suggestions throughout my work. I also owe to a great deal to Dr. Pranita Sarmah, Professor and Head of the Department of Statistics and Dr. Labananda Choudhury, Reader Deptt. of Statistics, Gauhati University for their incessant encouragement to complete the present work.

I am deeply grateful to Dr. Jamed Ali, M.D.(O&G) Asstt. Professor, Deptt. of Obstetrics and Gynecology, Guwahati Medical College, Guwahati, who helped me immensely from the preparation of questionnaires to detail of technicalities of medical aspects of abortion and reproductive health.

I also gratefully acknowledge the help rendered by Dr. Jogesh Chandra Das, M.D., Superintendent, Guwahati Medical College & Hospital, who kindly permitted me access to the Guwahati Medical College and Hospital and various medical records of the college.
I also consider it as my duty to express deep gratitude to all Medical Staff including doctor, nurses and assistants who help me during field survey by supplying their valuable information without which this research work would not have been possible.

I also express my gratitude to Shri Debasish Mazumder, Research Scholar, Gauhati University, who rendered help in computing some of the results in connection with this thesis. I am also greatly indebted to Shri Somalal G. and Mrs. Mini Somalal, who offered their assistance in typing this thesis.

Last but not the least, I am deeply indebted to my parents Shri. J. Mazumder APS. (Retd.) and Mrs. A N Mazumder, husband Er. S. A. Choudhury, sister Irin and my loving son Raafi for their wholehearted support and also provided me all the mental strength required for successful completion of this thesis.
