Although this research work has been carried out independently without any supervisory guidance, I feel most obliged to my friend Dr M.C. Joshi of the Banaras Hindu University for many valuable suggestions and for making some references available to me for consultation. I am also grateful to Prof. B.C. Kar of the Department of Education, Gauhati University, for granting special time to work on the project and making available the vehicle of the Extension Services for field work.

I can not possibly mention here all the names of my students of the Department of Education who have helped me a lot in the administration of the tests in different schools and in scoring answer sheets etc., and to these students for their love and assistance I remain beholden as a poor but rewarded teacher.

I am indeed very thankful to the principals of many institutions that I visited in connection with the administration of the tests and I shall feel very happy if the test is found to be of any use in their effort at solving many intricate problems of secondary education.

I shall ever lie under an obligation to the University authorities for permitting me to submit the thesis under the special rule and granting some funds for duplication and printing of the tests.

Lastly, for the laborious way of putting the shabby manuscript in to presentable copies, I heartily thank Mr B.K. Nath of the Department of Chemistry, Gauhati University.
