: CONTENTS :

Acknowledgement : p. i - ii
Transliteration : p. iii
Abbreviations : p. iv
Introduction : p. v - vii

CHAPTER-I

Various Aspects of the Arabic Language and Literature

Significance of language and literature : (a) Language, (b) Literature
Semitic Language, Classification of Semitic Languages : (1) Akkadian, (2) Canaanite, (3) Aramaic (4) Abyssinian and (5) Arabic; Arabic as one of the Semitic Language -- Its linguistic characteristics: (a) Phonetics (b) Morphology (c) Syntax (d) Vocabulary; Division of Arabic Language (a) Classical Arabic (b) Modern Arabic; Arabic Language: Arabic Script, its linguistic aspects: phonology, morphology, conjugation, syntax; Richness of Arabic Vocabularies; Arabic Literature: Classification of Arabic Literature: Pre-Islamic period and (its) poetry, Early Islamic period, the Umayyad period; Prose literature; The Abbasids (750-1258 AD), Modern period.

CHAPTER-II

Revelation of the Qur'ân and Importance of the Hadîth

Implication of the term al-Qur'ân; Collection and Compilation of the Qur'ân: (a) Revelation (b) Collection (c) Compilation; Implication of the term al-Hadîth: (a) Linguistic implication (b) Terminological implication (c) 'Ilm al-Hadîth (d) Entitlement of al-Hadîth (e) Collection of al-Hadîth (f) Discussion on different types of al-Hadîth; Different Texts of al-Hadîth: (1) Jâmi' Sahîh al-Bukhârî (2) Sahih of Imam Muslim (3) Sunan Abî Dawûd (4) Jâmi' al-Timidhî (5) Sunan al-Nasâ’î and (6) Sunan Ibn Mâja.

CHAPTER-III

Literary Contributions of the Qur’ân and the Hadith

pp. 92 - 152

An Introduction ; Prose Literature ; Tafsîr literature ; Qirâ’t and Tajwid Literature ; (A) ‘Ilm al-Qirâ‘ât and Qirâ‘ât literature (B) ‘Ilm al-Tajwid and Tajwid Literature ; Fiqh Literature : i.e. Hanafite Works, Malike Works, Shafe’ite works, Hanbalite Works, Shi’ite works; Farâ’îd Literature, Scholastic Theological Literature ; Mu’tazilite Works, Ash’arite Works ; Philosophical Literature ; History Literature ; Geographical Literature ; Astronomy ; Mathematics ; Medical Science.

CHAPTER-IV

Linguistic influences of the Qur’ân and the Hadith on various branches of Arabic Language and Literature

pp.153 - 199

CHAPTER-V

Growth and Development of Arabic Language and Literature in India

pp. 200 - 233

Spread of Islam in India ; Studies of the Qur’ân and the Hadith ; Arabic Literature in India ; (A) Theological Works : Tafsîr Literature (Commentary, of the Holy Qur’ān) ; Hadith Literature ; Fiqh Literature : (i) Al-Fatāwā al-Tatarkhaniya, The Fatāwā Ibrāhīm Shāhī, The Fatāwā al-Sirāj al-Munīr. The Fatāwā Majma‘ al-Barkāt, Fatāwā ‘Alamgīrī ; Farā‘īd Literature . Scholastic Theology Literature (Kalām) ; Tajwid Literature ; Sūfīstic Literature ; (B) Arabic Language : Şarf (Morphology), Nahw (Syntax). Lexicography, Balāghah (Rhetoric), (C) Adab (Arabic Prose Literature).

CHAPTER-VI

Influence of the Holy Qur’ān and the Hadith on Indo-Arabic Prose Literature

(A) Linguistic styles of the Holy Qur’ān : Artistic harmony, Sound harmony, Musical sound of the Qur’ānic vocabularies, Artistic illustration, Objective Harmony or Relation Between Object and Style, Artistic Continuance, Artistic Picture of the Qur’ānic Style, (B) Linguistic characteristics of the Hadith : Elegance in Style and Clarity in Meaning, Free from Artificiality, Illustration and Presentation, Delicacy of Description, Musical Sound, Dialogue, Al-ijāz (الإجازة), and Spontaneousness ; Works on Arabic Prose : (1) Subhātul- lmajān fī Āthār Hindustān ; (2) Hujjatu’llah al-Bāligha ; (3) Al-Fatāwā al-‘Alamgīrīyya ; (4) Musallam al-Thubūt ; (5) Tabṣīr al-Raḥmān wa Taisir al-Mannān.

CHAPTER-VII

Conclusion :

Bibliography :