ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The dissertation would have not been in the present form had there been no help and encouragement from several personalities. First of all, I would like to acknowledge my gratitude to research guide, Dr. A. K. Bhagabati, Professor and Head of the Department of Geography, Gauhati University for the constant inspiration, encouragement, guidance and support in different stages of the work. Similarly, I am highly indebted to the faculty members of the department for their positive comments and valuable suggestions during the presentation of seminars on the research problem and constant encouragement throughout the period of my work at Guwahati.

I would like to express my gratitude also to Mr. I. N. Manandhar, ex-head of the Department of Geography and concerned authorities of Tribhuvan University for granting me leave during the research period. The study would have been probably impossible unless the financial assistance in the form of a fellowship was provided by the University Grants Commission of Nepal. The fellowship, although not sufficient to complete the task, was the moral booster to initiate and pursue the work. I would like to take this opportunity to thank the authorities and staffs of the University Grants Commission, Nepal for their prompt service and necessary helps.

In the same way, I am highly indebted to my colleague Mr. Kanhaiya Sapkota for granting access to his personal library comprising valuable journals and recently published books particularly on philosophy, research methods and techniques in human geography. I can not forget the help Mr. Sapkota and Mr. Dhruba Bogati extended to me during the difficult days of my research. Likewise, I would also want to express my gratitude to Prof. Dr. M. S. Manandhar, ex-head and Dr. B. P. Subedi, Professor and Head of the Department of Geography, Tribhuvan University for their constant inspiration and encouragement.
I shall always remember the help, hospitalities and cordialities of the respondents and villagers of southern Arun valley during the field works. Particularly, I am highly thankful to Mr. Giri, Chathar hotel, Siduwa, Mr. Ramchandra Poudel, Jitpur and Mr. Chet Raj Wasti, Murtidhunga for their help in field work. Similarly, I would like to thank my assistants Mr. Kumar Poudel, Mrs. Om Kumari B. K., Mr. Chandra Rana Magar, Mr. Puskar Wasti, Mr. Dik Khadka and Mr. Hari Ojha for their cooperation and support to complete the field work in a war-like situation between the army and the insurgents. It would be a long list if I acknowledge all the relatives, friends and well wishers who helped me in different capacities and at different stage of the work. Their names are in my heart and I thank them all as a whole.

Indeed at this point, I would like to remember my parents. I owe to them for what I am today. I would like to thank all my family members for their positive support that enabled me to complete the work.
