A Note About the Transliteration of Local Terms and Expressions.

Phonetical symbols, except for a few diacritical marks, have not generally been used in transliterating the local terms. The use of such symbols has, however, been made in Chapter XIII in which an attempt has been made to put the various dialectal specimens in accordance with the standard practice followed in this field.